Voters Face Dist. 100 Rate Hike

A referendum for a 25-cent educational tax rate increase for Fenton High School Dist. 100 faces voters of Bensenville and Wood Dale tomorrow.

Similar proposals were voted down in February and June of this year; but the Fenton Citizens Committee for improvements of the school system, in view of rising educational costs, has brought the issue before the community again.

The referendum asks for an increase in the educational tax rate of 25 cents per $100 of assessment. If successful, the increase would bring the tax rate to $179 for each $10,000 of a homeowner's assessed property value. This figure falls within the norm for area school districts.

Financial difficulties at Fenton High School have been growing for the past several years. The educational fund has an estimated deficit of $700,000 and is worsening at the rate of $100,000 a year. The school was forced to trim $140,000 off this year's budget, thus eliminating many extracurricular activities and reducing the class limit from five to four courses per semester.

Seven polling places will be available for voters: Oakbrook School, 170 S. Wood Dale Road; Westview School, 200 N. Addison Road (Wood Dale); Mohawk School on Franzen Avenue; Green Street School, 19 E. Green St.; Tioga School, Memorial Road and Addison St.; Blackhawk Junior High School, 5N 80 Church Road; Highland School, 543 N. Wood Dale Road.

Poll hours will be from noon to 9 p.m. Registration for the vote may be made until 5 p.m. at the Bensenville Village Hall or 4:30 p.m. at the Wood Dale Village

Open Paddock Office, Expand Staffs As Service to Public

School Children Get Thanksgiving Treat: Pizzas

Most people don't think about having pizza as a Thanksgiving treat, but that's exactly what the children of Addison's St. Joseph's school had last week.

About 22 family size pizzas were sent as a surprise to the school, compliments of John's Pizzeria. The cheese pizzas were delivered to each of the classrooms and were devoured within minutes.

The kids didn't seem to mind John's idea of an Italian Thanksgiving which was suggested by his daughter Josephine Cullotta. Josephine is a seventh grader at the school also attended by Margie, her fifth grade sister.

The piping hot goodles arrived at 11:45 a.m. just in time for lunch. The 353 inches of pizza was just a snack and afterwards the regular lunches went "down the hatch" in short order.

John said he didn't have plans for Christmas, but school officials have start ed cleaning the chimney.

county, the development of a more efficient newspaper delivery system, and redevelopment of the Addison Register, one of five Register newspapers now published by the chain.

"This represents a new dimension in our long interest and involvement in north Du-Page County," Paddock said. "Our newspapers have been part of the county scene since 1870, growing with it and anticipating the future with it. These changes are in line with that tradition, and they aren't by any means the end of our plans in Du-

THE NEW OFFICE, at 394 W. Lake St., Addison, is scheduled to open Dec. 8. It wil be fully staffed five days a week with news, advertising and circulation personnel, and a receptionist.

Key appointments to the office staff include Dick Barton, DuPage County assistant city editor who'll be in charge of the news personnel in the office; Walt Tetting, Display Advertising director for DuPage; Hank Swierenga, assistant circulation director in charge of DuPage County; and receptionist Mona Lima.

The news staff is under the general direction of City Editor Geoffrey Mehl, whose staff includes Barton, Charles E. Hufnagel, Virginia Kucmierz, Judy Morris, and new staff members Dom Najolia and Ken Hartwicke. The staff also includes part-time reporter Syd Jamieson and sports writer Phil Kurth.

TETTING WILL BE assisted in the office by salesmen Al Back and Bill Biederman, and new staffer Dick Anderson.

Swierenga, assisted by Jim Farrow, will direct a new carrier boy delivery system already established for Addison and now being developed for other communities in north DuPage. The Registers will continued to be delivered three times weekly, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, but earlier in the morning than ever before.

The addison Register, a special responsibility of Barton, is being revamped to make it more truly a local newspaper, with an increased volume of local news, features, pictures and attitude.

"We expect this 'new' Addison paper to be like all our papers in DuPage and Cook Counties," commented Paddock, "to be one of what we like to think of as America's most modern suburban newspapers."

Council Readies Dist. 108 Study

The Citizens Advisory Council of Lake Park High School Dist. 108, mapped final plans last week for its Dec. 15 session in preparation for its report to members of the board of education.

Temporary chairman Albert Eichsteadt called on committee representatives for various interim reports which will be the basis for final recommendations to school officials on immediate and future site and building needs of the district.

Preliminary reports of the subcommittees dealt with such areas for consideration by school officials as population growth trends, educational needs, economic factors, and public opinion.

It was apparent to the attending advisory group that Dist. 108 is facing severe and critical problems relative to adequate and available site needs and immediate lack of required classroom space to service the anticipated increased enrollment ir 1970.

SURVEYS SHOW that within 10 years Dist. 108 will have a high school enrollment of 7,000 students. The present facility or Medinah Road has already reached its maximum enrollment of 1,750 students.

Comments of the committee members when called upon for their interim reports, attested to Supt. Carl Forrester's concern over previous apathy by school district voters that "it couldn't happen here."

The rash of announced residential planned development within Dist. 108 boundaries located in Itasca, Roselle, Medinah, Bloomingdale and Keeneyville, has brought the immediate crisis to Lake Park High School.

The impact is not only directed to nearly a doubling of the population of the school district, but developers are also grabbing up what available school site locations could be obtained even with passage of a referendum.

Forrester has reported there are 6,500 housing units in the school district at the present time and that housing projects approved in recent months "amount to 4,130 additional new housing units scheduled for completion within the next three to five

BUT FORRESTER's projection may be conservative, the citizens advisory council learned last week, with announcement and reports of additional residential developments in the pipeline up for action by the various municipalities within Dist. 108.

Another key factor is the high cost of available land parcels adequate for a possible high school site. Fifty acres is not easy to come by to meet requirements for high school needs.

The average cost of a high school today for 2,000 students is $7,755,000, and this climbs higher each year. Land costs range from $7,500 per acre to as high as $20,000 per acre depending on site availability. Transportation needs are also on the upswing as well as rising costs of operation. The citizens advisory council is faced with offering school officials recommendations for a plan of action to ward off unfavorable decisions which may have to be made to meet current problems.

THE POSSIBILITY of split or double shifts and curtailment of some school activities is not overlooked if voters of the school district turn deaf ears to proposals which could be geared to a referendum

A preliminary poll of some residents reported by the public opinion committee last week found reactions mixed to specific questions asked of them.

School officials and the council are also determined to improve communications to the parents of students within Dist. 108 which some claim accounted for defeat of previous referendums.

The council anticipates presentation of its final report to the board of education by the first of the year:

Sewer Plan Opposition Grows

by SYD JAMIESON

Add the village of Bensenville to what may become a growing list of opponents to the recently announced March 17 referendum election on the proposed countywide sewer system.

This was evident — at least for the present — when Bensenville Trustee William K. Hegebarth reported on a Nov. 25 meeting in Wheaton at which representatives of the DuPage Mayors and Managers Conference were briefed on a "progress report" by a joint committee of the county board and conference members.

Accompanied by Trustees Frank Focht and David Sloan to the Wheaton session. Hegebarth candidly informed Village Pres. John Varble and fellow trustees Friday night during the village board meeting that "this thing had been thrown together so hastily it would be difficult to take it before our voters."

HEGEBARTH WAS ONLY reiterating what some municipal officials had told attending representatives of the Mayors and Managers Conference two weeks ago at a dinner meeting in West Chicago. But Hegebarth Friday night added more comments to what had been implied and declared at the West Chicago session. He told the village board of trustees "It was the general feeling of the members present at this meeting (in Wheaton) that . . . issues involved in establishing a project such as this had not been studied in great enough depth and that the establishment of a referendum date of March 17 was premature," "I support the principle 100 per cent," Hegebarth said, "but the manner in which

He did indicate, however, that recent creation by the county board of an administrative assistant position might eliminate the communication gap to the 31 municipalities comprising the Mayors and Managers Conference.

Varble sided with Hegebarth, saying "this is a mammoth thing. We know we have a certain amount of indebtedness we have to pay off along with the other communities. I feel we should have outside expert opinion — you can't just say it's going to cost less.

2 Girls Died In Firetrap'

by TOM JACHIMIEC

The 1½-story wood frame building in which two children were killed in a Saturday morning fire in Elk Grove Township was a "firetrap," according to Allen Hulett, Elk Grove Village fire chief. The building, at 1806 Landmeier Road, was at least 50 years old and in rundown condition, Hulett said. It had only one entrance and two windows of the bedroom were covered with wire screening. Christine, 3, and Sylvia Arenas, 2, died when fire swept through the room in which the family of seven Spanish Americans was sleeping.

Another child, Mary Ann, 5, a kindergarten student at Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village, was in very critical condition Sunday morning at the burn unit of Cook County Hospital in Chicago. She had burns over 90 per cent of her body.

THE PARENTS, Juan, 29, and his wife, Sulma Arenas, 20, were treated and released Saturday for smoke inhalation, cuts, and minor burns, from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village. They were credited with saving the lives of two of their children, Irene, 1, and Michelle, 4, by carrying them out of the burning building. The children were treated and released Saturday. They escaped through a front entrance of the building after the mother had attempted but failed to break through a window sealed with wire screening. Three Elk Grove Village firemen and three policemen also were admitted to St. Alexius Hospital.

Most seriously injured was firefighter

Wood Dale's efforts to attract industry got a big boost last week when it was reported that easements for an east-west street extending from a proposed 61 acre industrial tract to Prospect Road may be in the making.

Commissioner Dino Janis said village officials met with the developer Nov. 22, seeking a solution for ingress and egress to the land parcels located immediately north of the Maher Lumber Co.

The owner of the industrial-zoned property, James B. Cochrane of Des Plaines, had informed village officials of attempting to get an 800 foot extension of Addison Road from Irving Park Road to cross the Milwaukee Road Railroad tracks to service the property.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE land parcels would ultimately have a tax basis in "excess of $10 million." Cochrane said. He told railroad officials there would be "a substantial 'tonnage factor' which would benefit the railroad. He explained that inte est by Carlton Industries, Inc. of Richmond, Va., to build two warehouses on the property was dependent on the crossing.

Carlton's immediate interest to build the warehousing facilities was being jeopardized by discouragement to the crossing installation by the Railroad, Cochrane

But Cochrane's immediate concern may have been eliminated as a result of a reported meeting with Commonwealth Edison officials whereby the utility company may grant the raod easement to Prospect

According to Janis, Cochrane will still seek an Addison extension and railroad crossing to service the area, but the indications by Commonwealth Edison for granting the easement to allow construction of the roadway will trigger start of construction on the two warehouses by

School Board was made very clear to me seacral weeks ago, not by the board members, the superintendent or the Citizens' Advisory Council but by an unusual "average citizen."

A lady called the office with a question about the Dec. 16 referendum which proposes to raise the educational fund tax rate 49 cents

I almost hesitated to return the call, envisioning a string of complaints about high taxes and mefficient administrators

AS IT TURNED out, the lady merely wanted some clarification about the procedure of the referendum. Previously a 21-cent increase was the maximum a school district could request at one time and $2 per $100 of assessed valuation was the highest rate allowed for the educational fund. Recent legislation raised the limit taxable for the education fund to $3 per $100 of assessed valuation and allows school districts to have referendums asking for any amount that would bring their rate to

Commission To Discuss Zoning Plan

The Addison Plan Commission will meet Wednesday to mull over a four-part zoning request of Addison Developer, Anthony P.

Starting at 8 pm., the commission will consider one request to rezone property back of the home on the west side of III. Rt. 53, south of Army Trail Road and north of Mitchell Field from its present R-3 (multiple family residence). The change would be to a B-3 (service business

Detailed use of the land will probably be disclosed at the meeting held in the village

ROSS'S SECOND request in the zoning package is to rezone the balance of land not used for business purposes. He wants the remaining portions rezoned from R-3 (multiple family residence) to M-2 (manufacturing district)

M-1 manufacturing district is considered the lightest type like storage facilities M-2 district allows a heavier type of manufacturing but generally is restricted in such items as noise and smoke regulations.

The third rezoning request is for the north 300 feet of the existing M-2 district land which lies north of Mitchell Field and south of Army Trail Road. The desired change would be to a B-3 (service business district)

Fourth on the list of requested changes is to rezone the existing R-2 (single family residence district) zoning in Lullo's West Addison Highlands. The area hes west of the proposed rerouted Illinois Rt. 53, (referred to as FAI 61) and the road's right-

The creation of the new instructional materials center at Bloomingdale Central

School reflects this philosophy explicitly. The remodeled basement room which was opened for general use last month is much more than a study hall; it is a place where students can work on individual problems by a variety of methods. MOST OF THE equipment and facilities in the center is old. The utilization and relocation of the tape recorders, film strip viewers and film projectors is the exciting and innovating element of the center. "We used what we had," Kenneth Tucker, junior high science teacher and audiovisual director at Central School, said.

"We gathered reference materials which were in different places throughout the building and arranged them here," Tucker explained.

For example the school receives sets of sample textbooks which were in individual classrooms for use by one teacher. All of these texts have been assembled in the instructional materials center and organized according to subject.

When any students come to the center they have easy access to all of the books.

The film projector which is being used in the center is 10 years old. It was given to the district by the College of DuPage when the school was changing equipment, and, according to Tucker, the "projector was considered worn out then."

Since Central School now has two other projectors which are for individual classroom use, a new use was found for the old one It is one "station" in the entire layout of the instructional materials center.

The center currently has three working stations and will be establishing more as spon as more equipment arrives

Each station is a part of the room where a group of students can work on learning problems or do additional work in a sub-

The first station consists of the film projector, a table and a bookcase backed in white cardboard where films are shown.

THE STUDENTS SIT at the table wearing headphones which are plugged into the projector and watch a film. Usually the film, which is available through a membership in a county-wide association, is related to current subject matter At another station a different group can be working with a tape recorder. Perhaps this group has reading problems, so they fifth grade students don't use the center as are listening through earphones to a tape of one of the better reading students simultaneously following him with a text.

Finally another group can be looking at film strips learning about a topic for which they were absent or about a lesson they didn't quite understand

Besides these learning stations, Tucker said there will be a phonograph station at which students can listen to records through earphones

A SET OF OLD study booths is also being converted into a different type of station. Headphones are being installed into the booths which will be used for such things as reading and language improvement and making up tests.

The center has several sets of encyclopedias available to students who just want to sit and read.

Tucker, who is working on his master's degree in audio-visual at the Wisconsin State University in LaCrosse, said, "Only $200 worth of additional equipment has been spent for the center This new equipment consists of headphones and master headphone receivers."

He said the center has progressed greatly but stressed there is still a "great need for materials. We brought in what we had; now we need more.

"We could have had a delegation of teachers here tonight," said EWJ Bagg, school superintendent, at the board meeting, "but we wanted no conflict. I feel that one of the points in the negotiations next year will be calendar determination. tration and the community.' BAGG HAD PROPOSED that schools in Dist. 12 begin Christmas vacation following the school day on Dec. 19. The current plan calls for school to be held two days on the following week, Dec. 22 and 23. Bagg said that the dropped school days could be added to the end of the year by extending classes until June 12. A survey of teachers in the system showed 41 in favor of the longer December vacation, one uncommitted, and 13 in favor of the early June dismissal.

Vacation Talks Unjoyful The survey, plus numerous complaints about the calendar, more than justified the modification, Bagg said.

Nonetheless, a slim majority of the board refused to accept the proposition.

"I THINK I CAN invalidate your survey," said board member Melvin Luxenberg. "If you took that same question to the leachers in May, you'd find a majority wanted to be let out early in June."

"But this is rediculous," said Mrs. Bernadette Stoeffer. "You can't predict what the teachers really want when we've just heard what they want."

Another board member, Donald Bessey, went along with the proposal, "grudgingly." Bessey said a change was acceptable if the faculty wanted it, but he said the best solution would be to promote a standardized, county-wide school calen-

EDWIN PECK said that the board had already reviewed the pros and cons of a change many times, and he could see no reason to alter their previous decision. Dr. Donald Lloyd also felt no need for further discussion.

Frank Zielinski, board member, said he always favored the early start on the vacation. He cited examples from his own family of the inconveniences caused by the four-day holiday loss in the current system President Lowell Steger said the situration did not seem to call for any change.

A motion to change the calendar was raised. Three votes for the motion came from Stoeffer, Zielinski and Bessey. Three nay votes came from Luxenberg, Lloyd and Peck. Steger broke the tie with a "nay," and the motion failed.

WASHINGTON (UPI)-Earlier year, a neurophysiologist at the National Institute of Health came forth with a theory that man has not one but three count 'em! — three brains.

The three-brain concept, developed by Dr. Paul MacLean, is all right as far as it goes, but it staggers to a halt far short of the finish line.

MacLean, for instance, makes no mention of the bird brain, which obviously is the most prominent brain of all in some

'The Nativity' Will Be Presented

"The Nativity according to St. Luke," sacred musical drama by Randall Thompson, will be presented at 8 p.m. Dec. 13 and 14 at the First United Methodist Church, 1903 E. Euclid St., Arlington Heights.

The seven-scene drama will be directed by Fritz Schmoyer, supervisor of music at Arlington High School. The text of the play is derived from the biblical account of birth of Christ contained in the Gospel according to St. Luke.

The combined Chancel Choirs of the church will take part in the two performances. Students of music from Northwestern University, high school students

Local Fines Total $38,907 For October

Northwest suburban communities collected a total $38,907 in Circuit Court fines during October, according to Matthew J. Danaher, clerk of the court.

All suburban communities received $246,299 during the last month as their share of court revenue, Danaher said. The October revenue brings to $2,718,512 the amount turned over so far this year to the 124 suburban governments which work throughout the court's five suburban dis-

Dist. 100 Vote Tomorrow Lacks Hoopla

by JUDY MORRIS

It's a quiet campaign, lacking in hoopla and perhaps in enthusiasm. Many of the voters in Penton High School Dist. 100 in Bensenville and Wood Dale haven't even realized yet they are being called upon tomerrow to vote on a 25-cent educational tax rate increase.

This will be the third attempt in a single year by the Dist. 100 board of education to February was voted down by a 5-50-3 ra-with passage in only one of six precincts. with passage in onlyone of six precincts. The total vote in that referendum was 944 yes and 1,518 no.

The board tried again in June, coming closer this time but still being defeated by 146 votes. The total vote in Junt was 3,128. At that time, the Fenton Citizens Committee pledged to try again this foll.

The provious two referendums were asking for a 21-cent tax rate increase, a figure that would have brought an estimated $175,000 into the Dist. 100 treasury had they been successful.

Tomorrow's referendum, if successful, will bring approximately $200,000 into the educational fund. About 80 per cent of this fund goes towards salaries of teachers, adminstrators and non-teaching personnel. The rest of thefund is used for supplies and expenses of running the program.

The educational fund has a projected deficit of $700,000 as of June, 1970. This deficit has been growing for the last five years at a rate of approximately $100,000 per year. Hhe board of education has pledged if the referendum is successful, a portion of the funds received will go towards reducing that deficit, or at least holding the line on it.

One factor in the district's financial picture is the rising cost of education. Teachers salaries go up every year, as does the cost of operation, District business manager Kenneth Carroll has pointed out that in order to maintain the present level of programs at Fenton, additional funds should come in every year in order to off-

Supt. Martin Zuckerman explained the expenditure for teacher salary raises by saying, "It's extremely important to be competitive with neighboring districts on teachers' salaries. Teachers won't stay in a district where they feel the public is not supporting them.

Money comes to Dist. 100's treasury from two sources, government aid and local tax monies. This year, Fenton will receive an additional $165,000 from its share of the state income tax.

Carroll said the funds have been applied to the deficit, lowering it somewhat. By law, a school district can sell tax anticipation warrants up to 75 per cent of its levy. When the district hits that limit, its borrowing power is ended and it must look to other solutions, such as a curtailed program, to survive with the funds available.

At present, Fenton has hit about 65 per cent of its levy, thus pushing closer to the edgt of its limit. In the meantime, the Dist. 100 board curtailed the program at Fenton this year in order to save themselves from being pushed over the limit.

More than $140,000 was cut from this year's budget when the board voted last spring to cut back on the program. Each extracurricular activity in the school was told to cut back on a portion of their pro-

Some of the most unpopular cutbacks of the program have been loss of junior varsity sports, loss of a marching band and the elimination of any class with less than 20 enrolled, which affected primarily the advanced and specialized courses in the ably to the cutbacks however. Some have been glad to get out of school early and others like the idea of having only four courses rather than five.

Also unpopular with some has been the elimination of one period during the day which students formerly used for an added academic course, a music or art course or a study hall.

At a recent board meeting, principal Norman West recognized this fact and commented that high school students don't always look ahead to their futures, but sometimes prefer anything in the present that makes life easier.

If the referendum is successful, what will the added tax mean in dollars to the average Bensenville or Wood Dale citizen? For the homeowner whose house is assessed at $10,000, is would mean a yearly increase in his taxes by about $24. This man, who currently pays about $600 in real estate taxes, would pay $624 if the referendum is successful.

Approximately 29 per cent of what a property owner pays for city, county and schools will be paid to Fenton High School. Thus if a man who owns a house assessed at $10,000 has one child in the high school. he pays about $179 for that child's education each year. If he has two children in the high school, he pays only about $90 for each child's education.

a non-public school is about $800 yearly.

It becomes obvious from these figures that the man with one or more children in high school is actually paying com-paratively little for his child's education.

It is for this reason that the campaign for tomorrow's referendum has been directed towards the parents of children either in the district's school now or expected in the next several years. Phone calls by a "get-out-the-vote" committee have been directed almost exclusively towards parents and letters have gone out to those homes from the board of education urging parents to vote yes.

Not to be forgotten is the man with no children in high school who still must pay taxes. A tax bill of $179 allotted towards the high school is sometimes a bitter pill for the man who is paying for the education of other's children

Supt Zuckerman attributes the loss of th previous two referendums partly to the average homeowner's dislike of paying taxes in general. Zuckerman theorized that the local level is the only place where taxpayers can say yes or no to a specific tax and that this liberty is often exercised simply because a man is tired of his tax bill growing bigger every year.

FENTON HIGH SCHOOL - Home of the Bisons, 1,658 students and a lot of referendum trouble. The Dist. 100 board of education is asking voters tomorrow to approve a 25-cent educational tax rate increase. This will be the third attempt this year to pass a referendum. The board has gone on record stating that funds received from a successful referendum will be used to reduce the $700,000 deficit and reinstate many curtailments which went into effect this year to save the district $140,000.

Students, Teachers Back Referendum

Those Bensenville residents most crucially affected by tomorrow's educational fund tax referendum strongly urge voters to visit the polis and pass the proposal.

Students and teachers in Bensenville School Dist. 100 have come out in favor of the referendum.

Student Council Pres. Kent Novatny of Fenton High School composed a letter which was endorsed by the student body and mailed to parents of school children in the deprivations suffered by high school students due to budget cuts at Fenton High School. Extracurricular activities were reduced or curtailed to balance the books. THE CIFTED students were affected first. College-bound students must attend night classes twice a week to pick up a required algebra course. A music student must now take voice lessons after school and then walk home because of limited bus schedules. Football players working for sports scholarships had their chances reduced because junior varsity comnated from the program.

The list of aborted programs touches nearly every phase of student activity: the Illinois State championship drama troupe reduced to performing only two plays this year, art classes trummed, the electronics course cut out of the industrial arts program.

Moreover, as the letter stated, over 6,000 elementary students may eventually be affected by the funancial straits of the school

Teachers of both the Bensenville Educa-

Education Association (FEA) have passed resolutions supporting the referendum. Although teachers actively canvassed for the unsuccessful June referendum, many felt their efforts boomeranged because voters felt teachers were campaigning for pay "THIS TIME TEACHERS have initiated nothing themselves," said Wilham Lowery, public relations chairman of the FEA. but they do support the efforts of the Citizens Committee

Concerned citizens have spearheaded the drive to upgrade the educational system in December. Fenton teachers have given moral support and offered to answer telephones Tuesday to explain the issues to voters.

Voters with problems in attending the polls may call student council representatives. The students hope to set up shuttle services and babysitting services to help promote a good turnout for the election.

ANOTHER FAVORITE argument from opponents of the referendum is that the board of education put the curtailments into effect "to punish us." It is hardly likely that members of the board, most of whom have children in Fenton, would purposely hurt the program just to get even with a handful of voters who chose to vote no.

And the arguments go on. Some involve personalities instead of edu-

Neighbors Seeking Rate Hike

Comparisons of the tax-rate structure in neighboring communities to Bensenville's Fenton High School shows an increasing number of school boards are asking voters for an increase in the educational fund tax

Several adjoining high school districts have siready raised their tax rate by as much as 21 cents, a recent Register survey shows

The Dist. 100 board is asking for a 25cent educational fund tax rate increase tomorrow to raise the rate from $1,21 to $1.46 per $100 of assessed valuation. The survey shows that the $1.46 figure is comparable to other districts near Fenton, although some are still operating at a rate below that.

LAST TUESDAY, Dist. 88 voters passed a referendum tax rate proposal by 17 cents, from $1.03 to $1.20 per $100 assessed valuation for Addison Trail, York and Willowbrook high schools which have a combined enrollment of 8,776, Lake Park High School, Dist. 108 in Roselle, successfully passed a referendum in December, 1968, raising the tax rate to $1.45, an increase of 21 cents. No referenthim is planned for the remaining year, Supt. Carl Forrester said. Lake Park's total enrollment is 1.710.

District 87 in Glen Ellyn, with an enrollment of 6,608 in three schools, passed a 21e at hike in 1966 bringing the tax rate to $t 39.

The two Leyden schools, East and West in Dist 212, passed their last referendum in 1954 with an 82-cent raise. An allotment in 1969 by state statutes allows school disto its to levy up to and including 90 cents. which the Leyden schools have asked for

IN FEBRUARY, 1968, Ridgewood High School in Norridge received a 21-cent increase with an enrollment slightly under 1,541 However, in October voters blocked a combined 541/2-cent raise covering 42 cents for the educational fund and 121/2 cents for building funds, Harold E.

Brieschke, business manager said

Elmwood High School, Dist. 401, passed their last referendum five years ago bringing home a 21-cent boost, raising the rate to $2.51 per $100 valuation. Dist. 401 is presently planning a Dec. 13 bond proposal of $4½ million for renovation of all schools and the construction of a middle school.

Precinct Six Split for Vote

An additional polling place has been added to the list for residents of Wood Dale in tomorrow's Dist. 100 referendum vote. What was formerly Precinct 6 has been divided into two seperate precincts, split by Salt Creek.

Precinct 6 now encompasses that portion of school Districts 7 and 4 in Wood Dale which lie south of Irving Park Road and east of Salt Creek. Voting will take place at Oakbrook School, 170 S. Wood Dale

The new Precinct 7 is that portion of districts 7 and 4 lying south of Irving Park and west of Salt Creek. Polling place is Westview School, 200 N. Addison Road, Wood Dale.

The Way We See It

Growing Up Together

A new business sign is now displayed - proudly - in DuPage

It's above an office building at 394 W. Lake St., Addison, and reads simply, "The Register."

That sign is a symbol as well as a label. It represents a restatement of Paddock Publications' dedication to and involvement with the communities of North DuPage County.

It's mounted above the newspaper chain's first full-time office in the county, an office that beginning soon will be staffed with news, advertising and circulation personnel who are equipped to serve the reader's every need.

Knox Notes

The office will give DuPage citizens immediate contact with Paddock people, and give our staff members the physical closeness they need to do even better the job they've been doing.

With the opening of the new office, there also appears today a new Addison Register, a totally re-developed product more adapted to one of DuPage's busiest communities. We think we have given that paper the depth and brightness that have won for all our papers - in DuPage and Cook counties - the reputation as America's most modern suburban newspapers.

The county has mushroomed from rural tranquility to the fervent pace of development that marks Chicago's Northwest and Western suburbs. The newspapers have flourished from little country weeklies to the professional modern tri-weeklies needed to keep pace with the county's boom, and the activities of its leaders and citizens.

Our hope is that the future will be as mutually satisfying and reward- Monday ing as has been the past and pre-

Keeping Up With Him

The World Safe for What?

by DAN BAUMANN

An American atrocity in Vietnam? It's too incredible to believe.

If the accounts of butchery by American troops at Song My (Pinkville) are proved true, it will be a severe blow to national pride and prestige. Americans have taken great pride in twin 20th Century burdens: making the world safe for democracy and making the world safe against

WE HAVE LAVISHED the blood of many of our best young men to attain these goals. And we have been frustrated all along the way. The "war to end all wars," America's entry into bigtime international warfare, settled nothing. In fact, it seems to have ushered in a new hundred-years war.

We made the world safe for democracy by destroying the Nazis and Fascists and Japanese imperialists. At the same time we strengthened the position of the Communists, whose views on the future of democracy are well known.

Baumann

Since World War II, we have followed a policy of containment. Our chief international goal has been to contain monolithic communism. At first that meant Russian expansionism. We supported the Greeks and the Koreans and others on the fringe of the Soviet Union, against outside, Communist-supported attacks and revolu-

by one nation. But our containment policy remained basically unchanged, though now aimed at containment of a philosophy.

THERE IS EVIDENCE the philosophy will soon collapse of its own weight, but by our rigid adherence to a 1946 policy we are helping to entrench it. While conditions have changed, and our policies haven't, many Americans began soul searching.

America had become a world policeman and a world center of arms manufacture. Is this the best, most creative contribution we can make to ourselves and humanity?

While spending billions to police the world, to make it a safe place for democracy, we came face to face with the terrible realization that American democracy was for whites only. And the fantastic investment overseas was being made at a time when the human needs of many Americans were not being met.

Still, many could justify our world poheeman role superseding attention to internal problems on the basis that what we were doing abroad was enormously heipful to mankind. We were, indeed, permitting people of the "free" world to stay out of the Communist camp.

NOW COMES NEWS of a massacre of women, children, even babies, at a place called Song My.

American troops said they were ordered to kill masses of civilians, and they did so thinking it was right because so many of their comrades had been killed and injured by Viet Cong. That revelation, if true, is more shocking than reports of a year ago that GI's were cutting ears off dead Viet Cong troops as souvenirs. More shocking than the existence of Green

Beret assassination squads. The atrocity at Song My, if true, puts us down the same gutter with Nazi criminals.

It cannot be excused. There will be many who greet news from Song My in predictable fashion. Some will say, "Hell, that's war." Their opposite numbers will say, "That proves we must get out of Vietnam without any

THE MIDDLE GROUND, which the President will have to listen to, will rightly regard the atrocity of Song My as a national tragedy whose future implications will be reflected in our foreign policy, our military training techniques and our national attitudes toward people with other ethnic backgrounds and beliefs.

If He Can't Stand the Heat

In our nation today, the national government has extensive access to the public information media. Programming on the various TV networks yields before the prestige of a presidential address; or even a vice presidential address.

Our political leaders use professional writers and organizers of the news to make their policies and actions attractive to the at-large public. Portions of the news is sheltered under a security blanket. Mistakes are often concealed until an elaborate presentation confounds most of us in attempting to arrive at a conclusion.

With all of that Mr Agnew laments the powers of a commentator. The "men" of the media are some of the wise and some of the foolish. But in a free land I remind our vice president of the words of a former chief executive.

"If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen," - Harry Truman.

The support of media and interested citizens who worked together to inform our community of the issues involved is in true keeping with the spirit of our democracy in action. Please accept our appreciation for this effort and interest.

That little truth was underscored again last week when seven women bellied up to the previously all-male bar in Berghoff's Restaurant, pounded their fists on the counter, and demanded to be served. They were, and down crashed another in-Congratulations, girls. You won another chivalry being dead. They killed it off.

Women really shouldn't complain about

Frankly, I'm hard pressed to see the point. What's the big deal? What — by winning the battle of Berghoff's Bar have you really gained?

YOUR RIGHTS? No. I think you've got most of them tucked away, as you deserved. Voting - who could deny it? Work - if you can do the job, punch a card with the rest of us. Smoking in public - fine. it's your image. Classified ads - you're right up there in "Situations Wanted" with

So what did you win by crashing this bar? Nothing, except perhaps the enduring animosity of a few guys who just wanted to cling to one of the last enclaves of male isolation in this matriarchal society.

Was it that important, really? It was not, and you know it.

If it weren't so pathetic, I'd get a big laugh out of the women who want to bull in with men wherever they are, to swear with them, booze with them, to swap stories with them - and still be treated like women.

FORGET IT. GIRLS. If you want to be one of the guys, you'll get treated like one

What saddens me is what you're throwing away. I don't mean to get theological about this, but you're not the same as guys. You're made differently, even if you haven't noticed it, and there must be a reason for that.

There's something extraordinary about females who act female, and not just because they're becoming so rare. They have a special grace, a sofmess, a warmth and a nice smell that men have long appreciated, and now desperately seek. They are feminine, and they know it, and they take pride in being feminine - in dress, in bearing, in attitude. Not giggly, fluffy or dumb, but feminine. They have a built-in edge that no suffragette ever could have won for them, and why they want to pitch it away I cannot

BUT THEY DO, and the most lamentable of the lot are those rampant feminists of whom it has been truly said that they won't be satisfied until they have the key to the men's room.

They're the kind who storm a place like Berghoff's Bar, who take a special pride in being hard-nosed, implacable, unflappable, efficient, unsympathetic, unemotional and - saddest of all - unencumbered by any sentimentality.

They want to be the match of any guy in the office or on the block, and often they are, and I may have to respect them for that. But never as women.

Increasingly, all I want in this world besides a place to hunt and fish - is a place where men can go together and be together, to do men things and talk men things, without even a Playboy center-fold on the wall.

To that end, I'm re-establishing a club I belonged to as a boy. It was called something like the "Vampire Club," and to get in you had to prick your thumb with a pin and sign the charter in blood. The first bylaw was "No Girls Allowed."

Vietnam, Moratoria: Any Meaning?

by GARY ZACNY

Wednesday night two weeks ago I visited a Vietnam moratorium held in the college cafeteria in Downers Grove. Nothing

The dictionary defines a moratorium as a delay, suspension or ban on activity. It was conceived as a protest activity (in France) whereby a rebel class (students) out fire in their protests by persuading a le go number of people engaged in useful activity (workers) to cease that activity, thereby showing how their disaffection could bring economic disaster, President De Gaulle staggered and Paris ran bloody.

Now the notion of moratoria has come to the United States. The rebel class (everyti ing from lisping school children to diehard wobbiles) chants, "We must take to the streets!" The workers (multi-color collared) respond in a thoroughly practical (and therefore puny) manner.

SO-CALLED MORATORIA in America take place at convenient bours - weekends and dull Wednesday nights. They stop no crucial activities. Perhaps a few curious visitors miss their favorite television progams. The misconceived moratoria in America are nothing more than converted P.T.A. rallies, bake sales, community drives. All very fashionable. And harmless. Meanwhile, President Nixon maneuvers for pullout at apaill descliberrrate eed. Citizens sigh. The only blood spilled in the protest movements belongs to incautious youths and adults who get paid to risk it (cops).

Who are we kidding? The war is 10,000 miles away. The mass of reluctant soldiers cannot swim 10,000 miles. The mass of civilians can't seem to care across all that ocean. We hold symbolic bake sales and ship off cozy cookies; but as long as the bloodshed is out of sight, we don't really mind.

LOOK AT IT BALDLY: why is the "silent majority" slient? Who really cares? How much wealth, anguish or energy is devoted to ending the war?

Sure, somebody's corpse's mother tears her eyes out and parades with a placard. somewhere a bewildered kid stares at cold cell walls and tells himself he's a . . a campus firebrand moral hero . screams, "I feel that horror' You feel it

But Americans are wise; they won't buy that sales pitch. You may ask, what provokes a good rally turnout?

Guilty consciences, rich (athers watching poor sons march to slaughter; draft dodgers who justify tremblings by flinging obscenities at police; housewives who want to be "concerned" and "informed" and are too busy cleaning house to clean up government.

The returning veterans swap lies in bars and take jobs and wives and anything that will bury a festering rage. When you ask a solid question, they slough it off or tangle their mouths with bitterness. For they refuse to accept the grimmest lesson: their suffering had no meaning.

THE TRUTH OF THE matter away. Slipped under our fingers years ago in a cloud of confounded issues, obligations, theories and sentiment. Today we peek into our hands, seeing shadows; and we make sly faces

Vietnam? It's a dirty little country and the harvest land of Southeast Asia. It's a worthless, muddy, bloody lush tropical forest. The people eat rice and wear black pajamas and devoutly practice Buddhism and ear scalping. They're dirty communists and men just like you and me. Vietnam is no more subject to narrow analysis than any other scene of life. It jumps and floats, dodges and transforms to confound interpretation. It is a place, a small, rich, troubled nation. It is a situation which has buckled and bloodied our nation. Politically, it is a morass which has provoked gaps — generation, communication and credibility — that plague the American body politic. Spiritually, it is the singular shame of our times.

Vietnam is a thing to be finished.

Club Is Happy

As the season of Thanksgiving comes upon us it seems most appropriate that I offer my thanks on behalf of Elk Grove Village Newcomers Club to Paddock Publications for the publicity which has been given to our philanthropies duri g this past year.

We would sincerely like to thank Mrs. Marianne Scott and her staff for all her cooperation and patience not only with our amateur news releases but having arranged with photographers to have pictures taken on occasion. It's quite exciting to see a club's activities highlighted thru a newspaper.

I hope that during the following season we will be able to continue having interesting functions for your readers to be informed about and that our club may continue this most pleasant relationship with your Women's Department.

Speed Keys Air Cargo

by SHERI DILL

Three miles from O'Hare International Airport's bustling terminal lies the airport's air freight center, 145 acres of activity seldom realized by scurrying travelers, but essential to their lives.

Unobtrusively, cargo divisions of airline companies load about 50 all-cargo flights each day and move 120 million pounds per month. Nearly the same amount is stashed in passenger planes for immediate delivery to waiting customers

Commodities shipped by air freight include "everything except bulk coal and oil," said TWA Cargo Manager T. E. Coyne.

SPEED, THE FACTOR making the air freight industry one of the fastest growing in the aviation field, is also the reason many industries have come to depend fundamentally on cargo flights.

Numerous florist shops in the Chicago area receive fresh flowers daily from Hawaii and the west coast. Delicatessens depend on air freight for fish, bread and cheese from foreign countries. The live lobster served at the Drake Hotel in Chicago is made possible by air cargo flights daily from New England.

The adaptability of air travel makes uncommon items common to cargo carriers. Gentle Ben, television's starring bear, is a regular passenger at O'Hare.

CARGOJET

Cargo jet makes brief stop to unload payload at O'Hare International Airport.

Australian race horses bound for Arlington Park, Arlington Heights, pass overhead during the racing season. They come as many as a dozen at a time, complete with grooms traveling with them in cargo "GARMENT MANUFACTURERS are made by air eargo," said Doug Timberlake, United's regional manager of publicity. "A style takes over in one minute and is gone the next. It is essential that they have the merchandise when they have the demand."

Most small industries find air freight more feasible than warehouses. "If a manufacturer knows he needs 50 of a certain part each day, he can have them flown in daily," Timberlake said. "He comes out better in the long run by not having to build the storage space that would be necessary if he used railroad or truck transportation." The same is true if a manufacturer delivers goods out of the area.

Planes load goods from the east or west coast in the afternoon, fly to Chicago during the night, and unload so midwest-destined goods can be delivered the next morning. They load and depart again during the night so local shipments arrive at their destinations for morning delivery.

The set-up works best for the cargo shippers desiring morning deliveries and for the airport as cargo flights do not interfere with peak passenger hours during the

MORE THAN HALF OF all cargo traveling by air is arranged for by air freight forwarders, the travel agencies of air freight. A manufacturer contacts a forwarding company which arranges for pick-up and delivery to the airport. The forwarder then consolidates several shipments into one, packs the merchandise in large containers provided by the airline and delivers it ready for shipment.

Freight forwarders provide both shippers and airlines with convenience in the transportation process. "The major carriers will be out of the small package business within the next 10 years," said Marty Kus, TWA account executive in charge of freight forwarders. "They are all going to forwarders. It costs more money to handle a 20-pound individual package than it does for a 6,000-pound igloo."

An igloo is a special cargo-carrying structure specially shaped to fit into a jet. Rates for large shipments depend on the portion of an igloo filled.

The air freight industry got its start by servicing the post office and mail still plays a large part in the air freight industry. TWA's flight 15 operates nightly for the benefit of the post office, Coyne said. "A businessman in the loop can drop a letter in a mail box at 5 p.m., it will be on the flight at 1:05 a.m. and delivered at its destination on the west coast the next

BUT OTHER ASPECTS of the air freight business have long overtaken the mail service.

TWA predicts its cargo division will triple within the next five years and triple again within 10 years after that.

Five years ago, United, the largest carrier of air freight in the Chicago area, pre-dicted its new cargo terminal would be good for 10 years. They already have expanded it twice.

"One of the reasons for the industry's fast growth is that managers and wholesalers no longer are looking at the cost of air freight as opposed to over-the-road or rail transportation," Timberlake said. "They're looking at the total cost of moving. Without the need for warehousing, air trave is the most economical."

The Department of Aviation currently is planning to build a cargo city at O'Hare. The area would total 240 acres, double the size of the current facility. It will be located in the southwest portion of the field.
"WE'RE PRESSED FOR space," a

TWA spokesman said. "If we had larger facilities, we could move more goods. In order to accommodate the volume of business that is forecast, expansion will be necessary."

Airline officials see no problem in keeping with expected growth technologically as long as cargo-handling facilities are available. Major airlines now are preparing for the Boeing 747, a jet nearly twice the size of the 707. The larger aircraft boasts a maximum take-off weight of nearly 383,000 pounds more than the 707 and three times the take-off thrust. But increased growth is accompanied by increased problems airlines officials realize must be solved to accommodate expected volumes efficiently. Storage is a major problem for large companies. "Our buildings are terminals, not warehouses, although we're trapped into it sometimes," Coyne commented. FREIGHT TERMINALS are equipped for the interim period between arrival at the airport and pick-up by the receiver, although often facilities are not available for storage of more than several hours. Loss and damage is highest with cut with cold storage areas and heated rooms flowers and perishable foods. "We're in the freight business, not the gardening business," Coyne said, "but sometimes it doesn't turn out that way."

Ontmoded insura contribute to the problem. "The tariffs and rates are DC-3 oriented and never have been updated," one airline official said. "In fact, it's my opinion that the entire CAB (Civil Aeronautics Board) is DC-3 oriented."

Loss also is high in high value goods such as art pieces, jewelry and furs. "We handle too many of them," Coyne said Expensive merchandise requires more security than the industry is equipped for, Coyne said. "Valuable items seem to grow legs just as money in a bank often does. It's just one of those things that must be reckoned with."

The parents fled with the two children through a kitchen door leading outside The doorway was quickly engulfed in flames, forcing firemen to gain access through a door in the sleeping room which had been sealed with a 4-by-8-foot piece of plywood.

The family apparently blocked off the doorway in order to keep the heat from the oil heater confined to two of the rooms they were living in.

The injured firemen and policemen, in addition to Sgt. Raymond Marinec, who was not injured, were repelled in their early efforts to gain entry because of the blocked doorway.

Erlenborn Backs Bill To Restrict Foreign Travel

U. S. Rep. John N. Erlenborn, (R-14th District), has joined in sponsorship of a bill that would authorize the secretary of state to restrict travel by Americans to unfriendly foreign countries.

The bill was prompted by the Venceremos Cane Cutting Brigade which has been recruited in the United States by radical college groups to help in the Cuban sugar harvest.

"This project will not be affected because it will be completed before the bill can become effective. The bill is aimed, rather, at similar future projects," Erlenborn said.

Fenton Loses Second in Row at West Chicago

by TED DLUGOPOLSKI

Don't accuse coach Bill Pelekoudos of whistling in the dark over the prospects for his scrappy ball team this year.

Although a whistle was heard throughout Saturday night's contest against St. Francis, and certainly not in the Bisons' best fortune, Fenton fans can be proud of coach Pelekoudas and his team.

For the second night in a row, the difference between victory and defeat was found at the free throw line or at least in the number of personals called on the Bi-

No less than five of the Bensenville cagers fouled out before the night was over, including four of their starters - Bill Bonner, Kent Novatny, Ed Sabia, and Chuck

Trailing by just nine (53-44) midway through the third quarter, Ed Walker picked up his fifth infraction and a minute later Novatny was sidelined for the evening with his fifth foul - a questionable call that brought Pelekoudas angrily to his feet. Moments later Sabia followed Walker and Novatny to the bench. From there, the Spartans pulled to a 84-44 lead at the end of the quarter and breezed to victory in the consolation game of the West Chicago

The game started out deliberately, like two boxers feeling each other out in the early rounds.

After an exchange of poor passing by both teams, Fenton called time out (with only 1:44 elapsed) to regroup. Two more minutes of sloppy play went by, and St. Francis called for a time out.

The second respite was what the doctor ordered for the Spartans. With Jim and Fred Annerino combining for seven points in the closing minutes, St. Francis pulled out to an 18-9 lead at the end of the quar-

However, the scrappy Bisons came fighting back in the second period. Led by diminutive 5-5 guard Bill McDonald, who was the only Bison not plagued by foul trouble, Fenton battled to within two points at halftime (32-30).

During this comeback stanza for the Bisons, the tables were turned on St. Francis. Of Fenton's 21 second-quarter points, nine came on free throws (the Spartans notched only four from the line during this period). McDonald and Rosner were the big men in the Fenton drive, handling the ball well, feeding each other for easy shots. Rosner chalked up eight points in the quarter - all on layups and most on passes from McDonald.

A pair of free throws by Bonner tied the score 32-32 in the opening moments of the third quarter - the first time Fenton had drawn even since early in the first period but cripple shots and free throws by Shephard and Fred Annerino boosted St. Francis back into a five-point lead at 39-34, bringing about another time out by Following this respite, the Bisons briefly fought back into it, closing the gap to 41-38 on a battling follow-up shot by Walker. That was as close as Fenton came.

St. Francis, getting big production from the Annerino brothers again (who tallied 17 points in the final five minutes of the period), opened an insurmountable lead

For Fenton, Rosner registered 14, McDonald 10.

ARGHHH! Lake Park's Ray Neidhardt have reflected the Lancers' mood when the afternoon was over as Dundee capitalized on early Lake Park mistakes to eke out a 70-64 victory.

Lake Park Loses Second In Row at St. Charles

by PHIL KURTIL

It was like a bad dream. Strange, bi-

A frigid gymnasium, empty save 15 or 20 spectators and seven cheerleaders. The sun, which had risen less than two hours earlier, glaring blindingly through the skylight as players, coaches, and scorers shielded their eyes with their hands and squinted toward the court.

The thud, thud, thud of the basketball hitting the floor, echoing eerily throughout the vast arena. Every invective hurled by a fan hanging uncomfortably in the air after bouncing off all four walks.

Officials wandering with a slow-motion kind of gait, like men trying to run under water, oblivious to the most flagrant of fouls but stirred into a frenzy by the most trivial and harmless of infractions.

It just couldn't have been real, and yet it was.

Saturday morning in St. Charles, before a crowd not exceeding 25, the Eagles of Oswego rallied from a 10-ppoint third quarter deficit to nip the Lancers of Lake Park 58-55 in the losers' bracket of the second round of the St. Charles' Holiday

The loss eliminated the Lancers from tourney play and sent the victorious Eagles into a consolation match Saturday

"We played better today than we did yesterday, but we still beat ourselves," said an obviously unhappy "Fritz" Fell, the Lancer coach who was as miffed with the work of the officials as he was with the occasional shaky play of his troops.

"As long as they're going to call those Mickey Mouse fouls, we can't very well press. They don't call the traveling violations - the kind of mistake you set the press up to produce - and they don't call the contact fouls underneath, just the harmless infractions halfway up

"The officials didn't beat us - we beat ourselves - but they certainly didn't help

Fell might get an argument on whether the men in stripes beat him. True, had the Lancers played a good game, they would have won easily but even with their spells of sloppiness they probably would have won with just a little more equity in the whistle department.

Eleven fouls were called against Oswego, 21 against Lake Park. The Eagles sank 22 of 32 free throws, the Lancers 7 of 14 - a whopping 15-point difference that enased Lake Park's 24-18 field goal edge.

If the Lancers didn't get heat at the free throw line, though, they can trace their loss to center Marty Knuth, who muscled underneath for five key baskets (four layups and a tip-in) to spark an Oswego comeback that in less than a minute and a half (at the end of the third and beginning of the fourth quarter) brought the Eagles from a 35-28 deficit to a 37-35 lead.

"I don't know what we're going to do about that center spot," admitted Fell. "We're getting killed there." (Friday Bob Blanken notched 28 points that helped Dundee edge Lake Park.)

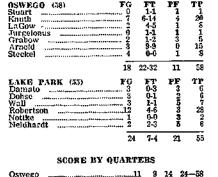

After Oswego gained the lead in the opening moments of the final stanza, the lead changed hands nine times before Kevin Arnold pumped through a 20-footer to push the Eagles into a 51-49 lead (with 2:23 to go) and they held on from there.

While Knuth and Arnold were sparking the winners with 20 and 15 points respectively, John Robertson was Mr. Everything for Lake Park. He continually rippled the cords from outside, led the team in rebounds, played a hustling, aggressive defensive game all over the court.

He sent the Lancers into the lead and kept them there for the first three quarters. In the final period, he was almost the whole offensive show at times. His 15-footer tied it 37-37. Two more long-range bulseyes by John gave the Lancers 42-41 and 44-43 margins.

He hit two free throw to give Lake Park a 47-45 lead, and a minute later swished a 20-footer to tie it 49-49. But then came Arnold's tie-breaker, and even Robertson couldn't save the Lancers again.

A bad dream? On second thought, it was more like a full-fledged nightmare.

Suprising Addison Now 2-0

Blazars Waylay Unsuspecting Cougars, 80-70

by ED MURNANE

There were two incidents Saturday night that gave a fairly accurate indication of the kind of welcome Addison Trail had prepared for their guests from Conant.

Midway through the first quarter, with Addison Trail shead 10-8, the Blazers' Ken Birner was racing down court with teammate Jerry Herbord and Conant's Dave Kellermeyer in between.

Birner tried to passt a Herbard but Kellermeyer got his hand on the ball just enough to deflect it and break up the pass. But it was also just enough to put it through the hoop, giving the Blazers a 12-8

The second incident came in the third quarter, this time with Addison far in front at 57-33. A long AT pass was headed toward ne one in particular, and the Congars would have regained possession when the ball went out of bounds.

They would have, that is, had the ball not hit a surprised Cougar on the back of the head before it went out of bounds, giving the ball right back to Addison Trail.

That's the way it went all night, as the Blazers extended their record to 2-0 with an 80-70 triumph that was not nearly as close as the score indicates.

The Blazers did very little that was wrong, but when they did, somehow Conant would turn the mistake into Addison Trail's advantage anyway.

The Cougars now are 1-1. For awhile, the contest had all the fixings of a good run-and-shoot battle. Both teams like to fast break and they started running from the opening tip.

Unfortunately, however, neither team was performing the ritual that's supposed to climax a fast break -- getting a basket - and the first six minutes of the first period more closely resembled a series of relay racts than a basketball game.

But then guys like Birner, Herbord and tim Dorgan took over and the action pick-

With their shooting hands warming up, and a pressing defense tightening up, the Blazers began bidding their farewells to

Addison's lead went from 14-12 with 1:50 remaining in the first period, to 19-12 just before the period ended and 19-14 at the

Then in the second period (which Conant coach Dick Redlinger probably would prefer to forget) the Blazers began to blaze. They sparred with the Cougars for the first three minutes when the score stood at 23-18, the same five point margin that separated them at the quarter. Then, all of a sudden the scoreboard read 33-18, then 37-20, then 42-20 and the Cougars had somewhat of a dazed look on their faces

No one was more dazed with the Blazer press than Redlinger, who engaged himself in a less-than-cordial chat with one of the officials and had to be told to "sit down before I count to 10 or you're out of here." Redlinger took a mandatory eight count and was back on his chair by 10.

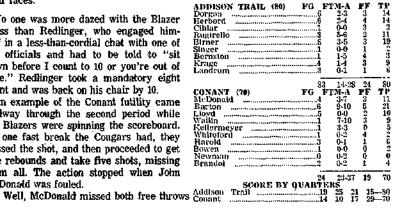

An example of the Conant futility came midway through the second period while the Blazers were spinning the scoreboard. On one fast break the Cougars had, they missed the shot, and then proceeded to get five rebounds and take five shots, missing them all. The action stopped when John McDonald was fouled.

and the Blazers grabbed the rebound, sped it up the court for two points, then stele the pass in bounds and converted it into two more. In the span of about 40 seconds, Conant had the ball for 35 seconds yet Addison Trail had four points. The third period was more of the same, with the Blazers opening the margin to 57-30 midway through the period.

With both benches cleared in the final eight minues, Conant did put on a burst of power, outscoring the Blazers 29-15 but by then, the score was just a token thing any-

High man for the contest was Conant's Brent Barton with 21, followed by Addison's Birner with 19 and 14 each by Dorgan and Herbord.

by PHIL KURTH A pair of free throws by Ken Birner with 3:58 left in the final quarter snapped the sixth and final tie of a frantic see-saw battle and sent the Blazers of Addison Trail off to a 62-58 opening game victory over the Grenadiers of Elk Grove Wednes-

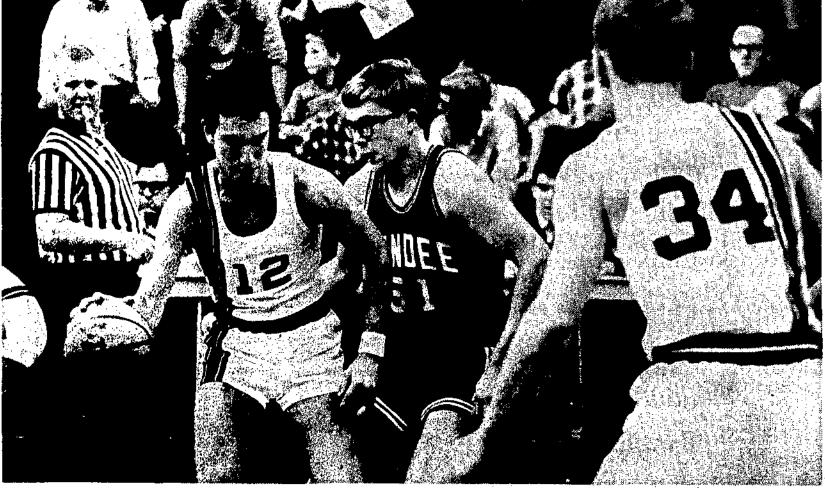

Heading into the final period, the visiting Blazers held a 42-39 edge thanks mainly to the scoring and rebounding of 6-4 center Tom Berntson who had chalked up 16 points while doing yeoman work on

The Grenadiers, trailing by as much as eight points earlier in the game, had stayed within range principally on the scoring and rebounding of 6-2 center Eugene Pinder who led all scorers for the night with 24 points."

Two minutes into the last quarter. Berntson fouled out. Less than a minute later. Pinder fouled out and the contest quickly changed pace with Jim Boyer picking up the slack for Elk Grove with great drives and sizzling outside shooting as he poured through 13 points in the final eight minutes, twice giving the Grenadiers leads midway through the period. While Boyer carried the load for the hosts, Birner and Jerry Herbord came on to save the day for Addison. Herbord notched seven points in the final quarter and wound up the night with 12, Birner netted the pressure-packed free throws and finished with 16 points.

Bisons Put up Battle, But Bow to Wildcats

Put them all together and they produce the most encouraging performance of the early season for Fenton's Bisons, albeit in a losing effort.

Friday night's 67-59 loss to the host Wildcats in the opening round of the West Chicago Holiday tournament didn't exactly have Bison coach Bill Pelekoudas turning cartwhetls but it did have a rather soothing effect on the nerves of Fenton's new head coach after the two lopsided losses that opened the season.

"I was real pleased with the progress we made in this game," said Pelekoudas following the tough loss to the Wildcats. "I thought we should have won - and we might have except for free throws (Fenton hit 5 of 17. West Chicago 21 of 37) - but I was pretty happy with the game we

"I feel a lot better now than I did after those first two games. We looked like a ball club tonight. I was a little worried that the kids might get discouraged, but they really fought back in this one."

For eight uncomfortable minutes Friday night, it looked like it might be another one-sided defeat for the Bisons as West Chicago jumped into a 13-5 first quarter ltad. This time, though, the Bisons battled

"They were playing a zone," says Pelekoudas, "and in that first quarter we didn't beat it down court. After that first period we managed to bring the ball up before they were completely set and consequently got the better shots. We were moving the ball the way I like us to."

Bill Bonner, Ed Sabia, and Ed Walker began hitting the outside shots; Bill Rosner, Chuck Zempel, and Kent Novatny began pulling down the rebounds (Rosner grabbed 12 for the game as the Bisons outrebounded an opponent for the first time this year, 40-35), Bill McDonald came off the bench to spark the Fenton offense with crisp ball-handling and suddenly the Bisons were a ball club.

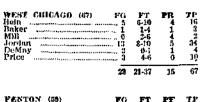

They closed the halftime gap to 32-27 and narrowed it to 46-46 at the three-quar-od they held a 51-48 advantage, but they failed in several opportunities from the free throw line (they were 0 for 8 from the line in the second half) and the Wildcats, paced by Jordan who poured through 34 points for the night, climbed back on top and pulled away in the waning moments.

"We made a few mistakes on our press and gave them a few easy buckets," says Pelekoudas. "We have some work to do yet with our zone press and some fundamental mistakes to iron out, but all in all I was pretty pleased with our play.

"They hustled better than ever maybe because they could see a chance for victory for the first time."

A few less fouls and a few more free throws and victory might have been kids did, considering that this was the first meet of the year."

Addison Trail gymnastics coach Jim Mortier may have been a little conservative in his praise, what with his Blaers a whopping winner over Glenbard North Wednesday 98.32-41.7, but as he says: "It's a little early yet to tell just exactly how good we're going to be.

"We have been working a lot of routines, and a good percentage of the kids hit their routines well. They're coming along with a good team effort."

Joe Carbonara, Fred Hoschett, and Lambesis showed what a team effort is in the final event, the trio of Blazers tying for first with identical 4.25 scores. Hoschett and Bob Bass also tied for the top score in parallel bars with 6.05 marks.

So decisive was Addison's superiority Wednesday that they swept the first two

"I was pretty happy with the job the places in every event and took third in five of the six.

John Fox, in addition to Hoschett, won two events - free exercise (5.75) and trampoline (6.7). Mary Paster turned in the best performance of the day with a 7.35 on side horse, and Tom Esposito was a winner for Addison on the horizontal bar with a 5.5 score.

The Blazers' meet will be Thursday evening (7 p.m.) at Arlington against the state champion Cardinals.

Furious Rally Fails LP

by PHIL KURTH

The Lancers of Lake Park made two things perfectly clear Friday afternoon in their first-round game of the St. Charles Tournament with Dundee:

One, they are capable of some rather uninspired play at times. Two, they are incapable of quitting on

Unfortunately, because of the former they buried themselves so deeply that they never quite made it to the surface again and the Cards survived a series of furious comebacks in the second half to hand the Lancers a 70-64 setback.

The loss, Lake Park's first of the season after an opening victory over Walter Lutheran, knocked the Lancers out of contention for the tournament title but it may also bave provided a valuable lesson.

Said coach Frederick "Fritz" Fell when it was over:

"I think, or at least I hope, they learned something today. You can't be lazy and win. When you dog it, and don't hustle, and get that far behind, then one mistake is enough to bent you.

"They came back, hustled, played a good second half, but because they were so dead in that first balf they got themsolves into a position where they just couldn't afford a mistake." -

After Bob Dohse (who came off the bench and did an excellent job for the Lancers) had potted a bullseye from 10 feet out to bring Lake Park into a 17-17 tie with only 30 seconds left in the first quarter, Roger Morningstar and Tom Henk dumped in consecutive layups before the period had elapsed and with Bob Blanken controlling the boards and swirling shots through with uncanny accuracy, Dundee pulled away to a 39-26 haiftime

Many of the Lake Park faithful (or faithless as the case may be) headed out for an intermission break and never re-

And, indeed, the Lancers looked like a beaten club. Ten minutes later they returned from the locker room resembling their first half selves about as much as a lion resembles a lamb.

They ran and fought and crashed and clawed their way right back into it.

The Cards, who didn't unnerve easily at any time, were back on their beels and reeling from the ferocity of the opening attack.

Glenn Damato ripped a 10-footer. John Robertson flipped one in from underneath and gunned two long ones and within two minutes the score was 41-36. Dundee jabbed back on Blanken's short jumper, but Fred Wall barely touched the twine from 15 feet and again it was a five-point mar-

The Cards finally regained their composure and took advantage of a couple of cripple shots brought on by the frantic Lancor press to pull back into a 10-point

Again the never-say-die Lancers fought back. Robertson poured through another to end the third quarter and Damato started the final stanza by battling three men for a rebound, shoveling it as he was crashing to the floor to Carter Nottke who potted a

Absolutely refusing to rattle, Dundee calmly came back to establish on 11-point margin (58-47) and for the umpteenth time it looked like the Lancers were finally through.

Five seconds later Damato fired a 20footer through the hoop and the Cards who might have started to breathe easy by then quickly got the wind kicked out of them again.

Damato zipped in two more, Ray Neidhardt notched five quick points, Wall added four, and with 1:52 showing on the

The free throw failed, Blanken (a blankety-blanken to Lake Park fans) grabbed the rebound, was fouled, sank both shots and Dundee hung on from Blanken, of course, was the game's big scorer with 28 points, followed closely by Damato with 22. Ratke Cleland, Ralph Johnson, and Roger Marningstar added 12, 11, and 10 for the winners; Neidhardt and Robertson chalked up 13 and 11 for Lake

Conant Smashes Fenton

by LARRY EVERHART

Conant used a devastating fast break and almost complete domination of the boards to demolish Fenton, 86-47, in the Cougars' season opener at home Wednesday night.

Fenton used a full-court press most of the way on defense, but it backfired on the Bisons as Conant had no trouble breaking it. In fact, the Cougars used that press to advantage, getting numerous layups on fast breaks after quick passes up the floor.

As coach Dick Redlinger had promised, the Cougars used a fast break nearly every time it got the ball - which it did often on the defensive boards after missed Fenton shots. Even though Conant missed some layups and short shots, they usually managed to get the ball in the basket after second and third shots.

Conant used an effective man-to-man defense. It was a typical opener, with many unnecessary fouls committed, especially by Fenton

At the start, it did not appear the game would be the high-scoring affair it was. Not a basket was scored from the field until nearly three minutes had elapsed.

Once Conant did warm up, its fast break carried it to 25 first-quarter points - highest-scoring quarter - and a 25-11 lead.

Conant did not let up, using the same formula to stretch the lead throughout. The game unfortunately deteriorated into a free-throw shooting contest in the final quarter, with fouls coming fast and furious.

A Message from Stuart R. Paddock Jr.
President,
Paddock Publications
Publishers of "The REGISTER"

"Old Roots...new Ideas"

Tor 70 years, Paddock Publications has been part of Du-Page County, and proud of the association. The Register newspapers and the county have grown together, past linked to present, the future viewed with the same involvement.

As the county has gone, the newspapers have gone, recording the county's history, making their own.

Both have revered the past — the roots — from which everything stems. Both have been realistic about change, welcoming it, encouraging it. There was change in March of 1967, when the Registers recognized that country weeklies could no longer serve DuPage County, and introduced for the readers new, tri-weekly newspapers.

There was change in March of 1969, when the Registers took on their streamlined, easy-to-read, six-column look, helping stamp them as America's most modern suburban newspapers.

There is change now, with the appearance of the new Addison Register, a complete, totally re-developed newspaper, designed especially for the residents of one of DuPage's busiest communities.

Yes, much is new, much has changed. But in all of it, the traditional values of the Registers remain: a dedication to the communities of DuPage County, to quality professional journalism, and to the readers

'Unlawful Entry' Questioned

A unique concept of "unlawful entry" was established during a "peace mass" at San Francisco's enormous shrine of the immaculate conception, during the recent conference of Catholic bishops.

Six people, including a priest and a girl in a wheelchair, were arrested for "unlawful entry" — despite the fact that they were outside the building.

They neither shouted nor in any other way disrupted the incoming congregation of 7.000 — except to distribute leaflets.

The arrests, upon order of Cornelius Hein, a representative of the shrine's director, Monsignor William McDonough, took place at the same time the massive congregation was singing about "The Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave," during what is probably history's most military "peace" service.

Featured in the service were the Catholic choirs of all four of the service academies (although nobody at the shrine was able to disclose just who paid the transportation costs from Colorado Springs of the Air Force Academy Choir.) There were also scads of sword-wielding Knights of Columbus, one of whom, a bit rusty on his manual of arms, very nearly put out the eye of a fellow knight.

FOLLOWING THE opening procession (25 minutes in length) which included 200 of the richly robed prelates, there was another procession, in awesome silence punctuated only by loud military commands, of five flags, with a rifle-carrying colorguard.

The leafiets distributed by the six arrested persons called this service a "quasi-military mass, which is a scandal" and asked the bishops to "speak about the American war in Vietnam," because: "the bishops are the pastors of American Roman Catholics and a pastor must care about the problems of the people..., more than 700,000 soldiers and countless civilians have been killed in Vietnam."

But aside from a brief statement regarding prisoners of war, the bishops declined to speak on this issue.

"We have spoken on this subject on three previous occasions," explained the president of the Conference of Catholic Bishops, John Cardinal Dearden, Archbishop of Detroit. "I don't believe there are any new elements about it. I don't feel we need to pass judgment on a political issue."

(AS FOR THE propriety of arresting six Catholics for the crime of standing outside a Catholic Church, the Cardinal replied: "This is not a conference matter. I don't know what happened there." This answer came four days after the arrests on the grounds of a church which is a national shrine rather than under the jurisdiction of the local archdiocese. And Cardinal Dearden is the president of the national hierarchy.)

Yet the Cardinal offered no explanation as to what "new elements" motivated the bishops to issue a strong defense of priestly cellbacy (which they have addressed before) as well as a bitter attack on the U.S. government for its "programs against the right to live . . . in the matter of population control through limitation of births."

There was, however, some hope for the millions of Catholics who will regard this anti-population control resolution as a sort of ecclesiastical death wish, for the resolution had opposition: with 20 of the 163 bishops voting against it.

Bishop Aloysius Wycislo of Green Bay, who wrote the resolution along with New York's Cardinal Cooke and Bridgeport's Bishop Walter Curtis, explained to a press conference that in debate among the bishops, the expressed opposition consisted of the question "Why repeat our stand?"

WHEN ASKED IF this was the only opposition, he conceded that one bishop had "felt that this resolution might be regarded as imposing the church's views upon all Americans."

And while Bishop Wycislo refused to identify this dissenter, later in the press conference, after he had departed, Father Robert Trisco, an official conference observer, revealed that the Bishop in point was Bernard Kelly, Auxiliary Bishop of Providence, Rhode Island.

Father Trisco also disclosed that yet another bishop had expressed objection. Bishop Peter Gerrety, of Portland, Maine, he reported, warned his fellow prelates that "this resolution will open us to all kinds of attacks."

And very probably in the vanguard of the attacking force predicted by the intrepid Maine bishop will be thousands of Catholic women who find it outrageous for a majority of their bishops to be so much more concerned about pills than the loss of their sons and husbands in Vietnam.

Apollo Launch Viewers Home

Jeanne Sears of Naperville and Debbie Griffin of Downers Grove have arrived home from Cape Kennedy, Fla., where they were two of 130 Girl Scouts who viewed the Apollo 12 Launch as special guests of the National Aeronautics and Space Ad-

According to Jeanne, "The entire event was fantastic — watching history being made was thrilling and so was meeting many wonderful people." Debbie had this to say: "It was like a dream come true and the greatest experience of my short lifetime."

In addition to the excitement of watching the launching of America's second manned trip to the moon, the girls were thrilled to have had the honor of occupying the VIP "bleachers" in the NASA viewing area.

Jeanne sat a few feet away from President Nixon while Debbie was to his left, separated only by two of his secret service men, and said she didn't even mind that his umbrella dripped rain down her neck!

THE PRESIDENT expressed his pleasure at seeing "so many good, patriotic youngsters," such as the Girl Scouts and representatives of other NASA-invited youth groups who were assigned seats on either side of the Presidential party. Mrs. Nixon, inonorary President of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., was especially pleased to have Girl Scouts as her viewing neighbors at the launch as was daughter, Tricia, herself a former Girl Scout.

In the tense half hour before the launch, the girls, in the Scout tradition, joined softly in the singing of patriotic and Girl Scout songs, and their voices were background accompaniments to a number of TV interviews of the Presidential party and to the NASA announcements on the progress of the countdown.

The girls' excitement over their closeup view of the historic launch was heightened when the President sent a secret service man to tell the Girl Scouts how much the President had enjoyed their singing. ALTHOUGH Launchday downpours

A L T H O U G H Launchday downpours drenched the youthful visitors, they didn't even notice the "Florida Dew." It was a great day for the whole world, and Jeanne and Debbie said the opportunity to participate in this wonderful event made them througher than ever to be Girl Scouts."

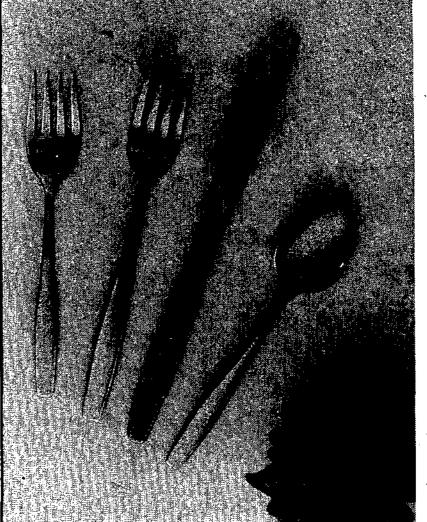

"prouder than ever to be Girl Scouts."

Jeanne and Debbie were selected for this bonor by the DuPage Girl Scout Council in recognition of their enthusiastic devotion to Girl Scouting. Many Girl Scout families in the Cape Kennedy area volunteered to be hosts to the young visitors during their three-day Florida visit and opened their homes to them.

Other trip highlights included a special five hour NASA tour of the Kennedy Space Center and a series of host-family parties where the girls met sister Scouts from all areas of the U.S.A.

Mrs. Pat Kimball

She's Serious About School

has moved from supporting various Board of Education.

A "DOER" RATHER than a "joiner," community endeavors to active in-Mrs. Pat Kimball of Mount Prospect volvement as a member of Dist. 57 by BILLIE BACHHUBER

She's delicate and feminine in appearance, quiet and gentle in manner. But make no mistake . . . Pat Kimball, lone woman member of the Dist. 57 Board of Education (Mount Prospect) is deadly serious about education.

"Education is the most important thing we can give our children," asserts the Mount Prospect homemaker who devotes from 10 to 15 hours a week to school board

Neither a feminist nor a household drudge, Mrs. Kimball believes a woman's basic role in society is to provide comfort, stability and love to her family.

"EVERYTHING COMES BACK to the influence of family life," she said. How-ever, this auburn-haired "doer" advocates a woman not be "a slave to her home."

Everyone in the Kimball household husband Charles, an investment banker; son Dave, 14, a freshman at Prospect High; and Suzy, 9, a fourth grader at Sunset Park - shares household responsibilities. That way, Pat explained, they also can share interests and fun together. And it allows her time and energy for meaningful endeavors outside the home.

"I am not a 'joiner,' " Mrs. Kimball emphasized. "I feel more rewarded by activities with a purpose."

A FORMER SUNDAY School teacher, member of the board of American Cancer Society, volunteer with Combined Appeal and YMCA, worker and officer in PTA. These were the jobs Pat Kimball filled prior to running for Dist. 57 school board . . . all primarily "supportive," she

It was as delegate from her PTA to the school board nominating caucus that she became aware of problems the school district faces. With this awareness came concern, and encouraged by her husband, Pat Kimball decided to run for school board.

Now halfway through a three-year term, she thoroughly enjoys it. And she doesn't worry about being the only woman on the

"It's really an advantage," she laughed. "I have more time to give."

PAT RECOGNIZES THAT sometimes a woman may have to work harder, be especially thoughtful and perhaps investigate issues more thoroughly if she is working with men. But she has nothing but praise for her fellow board members.

"Our board is especially exciting," she says of Dist. 57, "because no one dominates, everyone is dedicated (by which she means each does his 'homework') and we share a great mutual respect."

Pat Kimball is a real booster for today's youth. She recognizes the temptations they may face and realizes that while experimentation is the normal inclination of youth, it sometimes may have serious consequences. Pat believes worthwhile values and communication must start at home. With this foundation . . . plus education . . . young people are the hope of the future, she said.

EDUCATION ALWAYS HAS been important to Mrs. Kimball. A graduate of Iowa Wesleyan - she majored in economics and business administration - she is strong on education for women. It instills self-confidence and helps a woman to make the home more stimulating, she said, and it gives a woman opportunity to be creative and to pursue interests with her family.

About that controversial issue many school boards face today - sex education. Mrs. Kimball suggests any such program must be exceptionally planned . . . with parent participation. Parents should accept this responsibility to set the standard."

"But," she emphasized strongly, "no program is better than a poor one!

SHE MENTIONED OTHER factors to be considered: qualified teachers and how to determine that they are qualified; funds to finance a really top-notch program. These are problems with any expanding community services, she commented.

A pianist who declines to call herself a musician, Pat enjoys music and for many years was community chairman for the Ravinia Music Festival: She likes exhibits and museums, "anything and everything" about elections and summer sailing with the family in "Sour Mash," the Kimballs' snipe. She's also an avid junker, proud of a number of pieces she has refinished.

Pat Kimball credits her husband for her contentment as a homemaker and salutes her entire family for making possible what she considers the "enriching experience" of school board work.

"My family made it possible for me to be involved and I appreciate it."

FASHION

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

by Genie

"Tis the season to be jolly" . . . quite a catchy number, but only when your frantic preparatory shopping days are over for another year. Is everyone crossed off your including Uncle Filmore and that adolescent cousin Claude? Shopping for men never has been easy. Seldom do they even know what they would like to see for them packaged underneath the Christmas tree. Yet, because fashion has undergone a face lifting in the masculine category, there is no longer the man in existence who has everything, or

For example, does your hard-to-please man have one of those popular six-foot long scarves? If he does, you can top it with the latest 12-foot length.

SURE, HE HAS A drawer full of handkerchiefs, but does he have them monogrammed in assorted letter styles, or does he have some with his first name or nickname spelled out? How about silk pocket squares?

Most men have all the underwear they need, but does your husband have shorts or briefs tailored of nylon jersey? They wash like a handkerchief and they are great for the man who is on the road a lot. Today, they come in as many bold and vibrant colors as do men's shirts.

And that brings up another suggestion. Exceptionally in vogue this year are the deep-toned wide-collared shirts. With a drawer full of perfectly good Tvy League dress shirts still in wearable condition, a man may hesitate to spend money on himself to renovate his wardrobe. "In" colors are wineberry, green and gold.

BUT, IF HE SHOULD already have his fair share of bright shirts, he might like a collection of the newest frosted tones. These have a brand new look in both solids and stripes via the addition of white "frosting yarns" that soften the vivid solid shades.

Buy a wide-striped tie (stripes are over solids this year) to match his suit or not to match. In this fashion whirlwind of "Do your own thing," it really doesn't matter if clothing articles match. Three-inch ties are dominating the scene, yet the even wider five-inch tie is also being shown for those a bit less conservative.

Living

With French cuffs back in a big way, no doubt your brother, boy friend or son could use some up-to-date cuff links. Select from the new wrap-around style which go all the way around the cuff, they can be bought with inserted large colorful stones to match or contrast the bold vibrant

CHANCES ARE, NO matter how many robes a man may own, he does not have a kimono. These come in a wide range of patterns and solid colors and they include striped twills, washable knitted velours, and some that reverse from solid color wool to striped acetate twills. One of the advantages of giving him a kimono is that one size fits all.

And while we're on the subject of loungewear, why not surprise the particular man in your life with a pair of flowered flaired-leg lounging pajamas. While he may not want to promote a mod image in public, he may enjoy playing the "flower child" role at home. Buy yourself some to match for just coming up with the idea. Of course, one-piece body suits are also good

NOW IF YOU ARE REALLY looking for something unique and out of the ordinary, you might skip the clothes scene and think more along the lines of leopard skin-patterned satin sheets which retail at about $12 for both top and bottom double sheets.

If you're willing to go into debt or have the money to burn, buy him the man's new play toy and status symbol, an imported hand-carved ship which starts at $25, price increasing along with size.

Of course, imported leather jewelry boxes, clothes and hair brushes, bar essentials and pewter mugs are also good, if not original suggestions.

"I'm all "idea'd out" — almost. I have one final hint for those women shoppers who do not have to worry about either practicality or money. May I suggest for their sportsminded husband or son, an electronic fish locator, guaranteed to find fish in any water . . . only if there are some, of course.

In Doubt? A Horoscope Helps

by MARY SHERRY

Yesterday I ran over to see Alice Flaxton - that's my next-door neighbor. "Say, Alice," I said as she invited me in, "let's go out for lunch today."

Alice was hesitant. "Well, I don't know. I'll have to see." "We can do it another time if you're busy," I suggested. "Ok no, I'm not busy," Alice said quickly. "It's just that . . . I . . . ér Just a minute, and I'll decide."

Alice waved me into a chair and procecded to get down a load of books and papers from the top shelf in the hall closet. These she spread on the dining room table where she also put three news-

During the next few minutes, Alice leafed frantically through the books and papers, frequently jotting down notes. Then, using her notes, she wrote feverishly. From where I sat, it appeared that she was doing some mathematical computations.

JUST AS MY STOMACH began to growl, Alice looked up from her work. "Sorry, but I can't go out for lunch today. But tomorrow would be fine." She looked down at the paper on which she had been writ-"-And Thursday would be very

"Alice," I exclaimed, "what's going on? Why the big deal over a little lunch? "I had to consult my horoscope."

"Somehow I can't imagine your going in for such superstition!" I said.

"It's not superstition," Alice said defensively, "It's a mother-substitute." "A mother-substitute?" I had to admit I hadn't heard of that one before.

"YES." ALICE BEGAN to explain. "Haven't you ever had days when you wanted someone to come in and take over - someone to make decisions for you as your mother used to do?

I agreed readily and recalled a time last winter when the kids were sick, my husband was out of town, and three charitable organizations were collecting on my weak offer to march for them in our neighborhood. Then the washer broke, and I had to decide whether it had to be repaired or replaced, and our newsboy took up selling encyclopedias on the side. Pretty soon I couldn't make up my mind what to fix for dinner each night. I admitted without shame that I needed my mother.

"Well, I've learned that when I get in that state, I whip out my horoscope, and all that responsibility is taken off my

"THAT'S A TERRIFIC idea!" I have always admired Alice's ingenuity. "But how do you know how to interpret the horoscope?"

"What do you mean?"

"Take today. Does your horoscope say definitely that you should stay away from restaurants?

'No, not exactly. Usually I just get a lead on how to make up my mind. Today I'm supposed to avoid people standing over me with hot gravy.

"I guess that makes it pretty clear on what decision you should reach," I told her. "But don't oyu think you could become dependent on it?" "Not a chance!" Alice said with con-

Groom's Mother Bakes A Masterpiece

The most cherished gift that Mrs. Relle Mazola of Roselle gave her son Edward and his bride, the former Linda Waugh, on their wedding day was a seven-tiered cake complete with a lighted water fountain and fresh green vines. Mrs. Mazola made th: cake herself, a masterpiece for any cook but one which she lovingly creates for family members on special days.

Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Waugh, 113 Woodworth, Roselle, and the groom, Edward Mazola of 451 S. Park, exchanged vows and rings Nov. 1 in St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights. Father Rini of St. Walter's parish, Roselle, officiated.

AFTER THE 5 o'clock ceremony, there was a reception with dinner and dancing, a: Brookwood Country Club for 200 guests. The huge sculptured cake was naturally the highlight of decorations for the festiv-

Mrs. Mazola designed the cake in seven tiers, carrying out the red and green colors of the wedding decorations. Deep green leaves with red roses trimmed the base layer, and each succeeding tier was in a lighter shade up to the top tier which was done entirely in white. A pathway strewn with red roses bordered by an icing fence stretched the entire length of the spiral staircase which was formed by the cake. A water fountain entwined with fresh vines enhanced the picture.

THE CONCOCTION was a pound cake made in eighteen batches, each taking one and a half hours of baking time. It took Mrs. Mazola, with the help of a few other good cooks, two days to assemble and decorate her creation.

For the late afternoon wedding, the altar was decorated with two fan bouquets of white pompons and ruby red roses. The bride's four attendants were ruby red velvet gowns, floor-length, with ruffled stand-up collar and ruffled long sleeves. Their headpieces were of matching red velvet and they carried round bouquets of white pompons and red roses

THE BRIDE'S ATTIRE was similar to her attendants, her white velvet gown fashioned with a ruffled stand-up collar and ruffled long sleeves. Lace daisies added accent to the neckline and edged the sleeves of the A-line silhouette.

An elbow-length veil flowed from a headpiece of stephanotis blossoms. The bride carried a round bouquet of white pompons and stephanotis.

Her matron of honor was Mrs. Sharon Siegbahn of Itasca, who is her sister, and the bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Mrs. Beverly Panagiotaros of Roselle; his sister-in-law, Mrs. Donna Mazola, Milwaukee; and Sandy Benhart of Roselle.

ALBERT MAZOLA of Milwaukee was his brother's best man, and ushers were another brother, John Mazola, Milwaukee; Bill Siegbahn, Itasca; and Nick Panagiotaros. Rosèlle.

A WIDE BANGE of questions were posed, canging from salary and hours per week to the students' opinious on how they felt working affected their grades. Some very interesting results were obtained.

First, the students were asked how many hours they worked per school day. The average working Forest View student was found to work an average of 3.25 hours every day after school. When stu-dents were asked their hours per week, it was found that the average student worked 17.3 hours. The freshmen work an average of 13.0 hours per week; the sophonores, 15.0 hours; the juniors, 17.5 hours; and the seniors, an average of 21.75

The students are engaged in a wide field of occupations. These range from the classic teenage girl's occupation, babysitting, to full-fiedged machine operators.

THE STUDENTS were then asked whether or not they owned a car. Six per cent of the freshmen, 12 per cent of the sophomores, 31 per cent of the juniors and 56 per cent of the seniors polled said they owned cars. When asked whether or not car ownership had an effect on their grades, only to per cent said it did.

When asked why they worked, the studeats usually replied that it was for either college tuition, car payments, spending money, or any combination of these.

Then the students were asked whether they thought employment had a negative effect on their grades in school. About 20 per cent of the 98 working students polled felt that it did.

However, many pointed out that they felt employment actually helped their grades by giving them the chance to prove in other words, how much does the average student make nowadays? At Forest View, the typical working student was found to make $30.40 per week. The average (reshman makes $20.50 per week; the ophomore, $24.50; the average junior, $29.70; and the average working salary for a working senior is $47.00 per week.

But did the end justify the means?

One of the students polled made up-wards of $150 per week, That's a $7,800 per year job while in high school!

Needless to say, he pointed out that employment had an adverse effect on his grades.

No exact figures are available on just how many students in high school work, but because of the cooperation of industry and small business in the area, this figure

Hey, Mr. Pizza Man'

by RUSS SINKLER

Oh, h. . ., it happened again!

What happened again?

Well, it might've been a very stupid mistake like opening a door that seems to open the wrong way - right into my face,

Normally, I wouldn't do much more than mumble obscenities.

HOWEVER, in this situation, I'm just a little more than shocked.

YOU SEE, WHEN the door hit me, I flipped two large pizzas — one anchovie, and one everything. Aside from the pizzas, which are in VERY sad shape, I spilled two 1/2 chicken dinners and busted a bag that had held 21 cans of pop. The order slip has just fallen into the heating duct on quite disturbed.

It wouldn't be so easy for me to wiggle out of this one, but as I gracefully look down at the mess, some little 6-year-old snot trots up and shouts, right into my tender, little ear, "Gee, pizza man, are you the guy I hit when I busted thru the door?

Yes, little snot, I'm the pizza man you hit when you went flying through the door. Where's your apartment?" (I tried to stay cool and calm like always.)

"Ma'm, your little sn--, I mean, boy just knocked me over, spilling the contents of a $20 pizza order. Could I please use your

THE CONVERSATION with the boss is unprintable; so skipping back to the battle-scene, it's clean-up time.

Dropping all the shaken contents (a second time) into my vinyl hucket seats, I head back to the restaurant. Keeping in mind how well I get along with old men on the road, I'm convinced that at least one fight is in order. It would've been two, but it isn't that long of a drive to the Algonquin Park Aparlments.

I speak into traffic on 62 - ah hah! Check my mirror (I'm doin' the limit.) Suddenly, two bright lights come roarin' up behind me — an old man in a hurry (my favorite type).

HOWEVER, TO my disbelief, in front of me is the complete opposite old man — he was doin' 20 m.p.h., and ridin' the brakes.

The clown behind me is really a hard guy. For one thing, he's really proud that he's got brights. Secondly, he's ridin' my tail just a bit close.

I look in front again and it happened a stop light two miles ahead turned red and the creeten slams on the binders, thinking he won't stop in time for the

On No . We used his radio and called another cop. The cop got a ticket, and I suddenly felt I had something goin' for me.

I WALKED INTO the restaurant and announce my car's a wreck and that I've got to go home. I don't say that my nerves are

Does my boss bear me?

Apparently not, for now I've got another set of deliveries and I get a dirty look for my incompetence on the last set. Where am I headed? Not too important. Every set is different - no delivery is ever the same, whether you've been there before or not. Something always happens — there's the lady who always comes to the door nude or the guy who is always drunk.

Whatever the situation, something al-ways happens. I guess it's like that with any job where you meet people.
"Hey, pizza man, are you . . . ?"

Two Girls on Move

Exchange students from Wheeling High School are usually kept on their toes and this year's students, Nora Vecchi from Arbeits who live here won't meet" Marilyn gentina and Marilyn Janks from South Africa have proven no exception.

The girls have been constantly on the move since their arrival in the States. Beaides spending several exchange weekends meeting with other foreign students in the aren, Marilyn and Nora have visited the State Capitol in Springfield, the Art Institute, Old Town, a Donovan concert, and a Youth Rally on Clark Street.

"THE RALLY WAS IN protest of the treatment of the Jews in Russia; a spirit of oneness and freedom prevailed throughout; it was great." Marilyn commented

Nora was particularly pleased with pianist Don Shirely, whom she saw perform in the WHS Little Theatre, "I really liked his music; he played strong." After 10 years of study at the piano, Nora will probably be a piano teacher when she returns to Argentina, "Still when I watch him, I know I am not so good," she explained.

Both girls went out for their school's tennis team and proved to be top players. In addition Marilyn was in the cast for the Wheeling Iali play, "The Odd Couple."

AFTER AN EXCITING, fast-pace, social life, the students sometimes wonder about the "royal carpet treatment"

Already the student's schedules for the remainder of the year are reaching maximum capacity. They will be attending an Indian pow-wow with other exchange studeals of the area in order to learn more about the "First Americans."

Earn Money While Earning Your Grades

by DEBBIE GREEN

Distributive Education, Diversified Occupations and Office Education are three ways a student at Fenton High School can carn money while they earn grades.

These three organizations were formed to educate young people on the job training in various areas. D.E. specializes in service and marketing, while D.O. is working at vocational interests and O.E. specializes in teaching office work.

STUDENTS participating in these groups have the required courses the first three periods of the day which is followed by the classroom portion of each respective organization.

Training sponsors grade the students on the job as well as class homework graded by the teacher. After the classroom period students go to their various training stations.

Some of the major areas are Marshall Field and Sears at Oakbrook, Jewel and Plentywood Farm in Bensenville.

Working at A Drive-in Can be Fun

by JOAN McNAUGHTON

My job at Dog 'N' Suds was an enlight-ening experience. I mean, you really got a chance to know people.

It never failed to give the girls a chuckle when the customer asked for a whopper or a Big Mac. As many people know these are two hot-sellers of our competitors.

ONE OF THE HAPPENINGS that has broken the daily dull routine was a carton-ful of chocolate ice cream cones narrowly missing a man's expensive-looking suit. Instead it fell on his shoes.

Making a Super-Giant, fresh bar shake was a chore. Bananas had to be chopped up, a very large cup was filled with slow-moving ice cream, and after the vanilla and milk had been added, it had to be put on a shake machine designed for a regular size shake. Something disastrous, as puncturing a hole in the bottom of the cup, often took place. But the real clincher was in finally bringing the quart of shake over to the counter with a faint smile of victory, and then spilling it over napkins, sti aws, everything.

An olderly man once asked me if we had ice cream. I gave the automatic reply, Yes, we have chocolate, vanilla, and a combination of the two." To my astonishment I received a short lecture that we did not have ice cream, but some "watery goop" custard. He promptly left with the same growl that he had come in with.

It was frustrating to explain the different flavors of the sundaes, the difference between a corndog and a coney dog, what a Texas burger and a taco were, and then have the customer ask for a vanilla cone.

In spite of all this, including the screaming groups of Little Leaguers and the hec-tic atmosphere, Dog 'N' Suds was a very friendly place to work and a good place to meet nice people.

Best Years of Our Lives?

"These, my son, (or daughter, or substitute, whatever seems appropriate) are the best years of your life."

How many times have we heard this re-peated to us as teenage students? "These are the best years that you will ever live. Never will you be happier or freer than you are now." Somehow, at this stage of life, I'm inclined to doubt the truth of that

AT WHAT OTHER age is a person so deeply troubled about "Who am I?" "Where am I going?" and "What will become of me?" At what other point in life does a person make the important decisions that must be made now, that shape the rest of their life? When else do people face the choices and temptations teen agers face every day?

Often when I'm completely down-with term papers to write, tests to study for, college to worry about and it is already 1:30 a.m., I keep reminding myself that these, yes these, are the best years of my life! Think about it sometime. It seems

SERIOUSLY, OF course the reasoning behind this statement are the regulations that come to us AFTER we have passed this stage in our lives. Looking back later,

I will probably agree that these years were definitely the best. But at the present time, I am very tempted to argue the point.

Highlights on Youth | Life at Maryville 'Home' for Many

"Thank you for the birds that sing. Thank you, God, for everything."

These are lines from a child's prayer of thanks. The children grow to become "bigger children" and although they utter not these words their meanings still linger

These are the same "big children" who hop out of bed in the morrings and burriedly dress, and still find themselves running after the school bus. They are the some "big kids" whose busy, demanding education is intertwined with "on the go"

IN THE MIDST of it all, they sometimes find themselves a moment of sitence to whisper a prayer of thanks — thanks for

For some, home is a seven room house with a mother, a father, two sisters and a bratty brother. Yet, for others, home is a place like Maryville Institution; a number of halls broken down into family units with a house moving, fourteen sisters and elev-en brothers. This large number of "next of kin" is the only real difference between these two homes.

Life for the four-hundred grade and high school co-cd students is a non-confining, comfortable, active, homey life of typical "teenageism." Assorted buildings, two gymansiums, a hospital, a large half and boarding houses are scattered across a Wilely spread caninus

The home which they're away from is a partial home, maybe just a mother or a lather, an uncle or on aunt, or a grandparent, he explained.
"It's a home that 95 per cent of the kids here at Maryville go back to visit on holi-days and during the summer," LaMotte

He went on to explain that every effort is made to send the children away to their own or foster homes as often as possible. He made clear the importance of the children being with loved ones or volunteer foster parents.

THE INSTITUTION which opened in 1803, has always been funded by various public agencies and by volunteer financial help. With these funds, the administrators provide the necessary living facilities for the children as well as good public education. The schools which they attend are Maine West High School, St. Viator, Saered Heart and local junior high schools.

Thanks to a variety of new games, marbles are rolling back into popularity. One manufacturer estimates that about 250 million marbles have been used in producing the company's games during 1969.

Voters Face Dist. 100 Rate Hike

A referendum for a 25-cent educational tax rate increase for Fenton High School Dist. 100 faces voters of Bensenville and Wood Dale tomorrow.

Similar proposals were voted down in February and June of this year; but the Fenton Citizens Committee for improvements of the school system, in view of rising educational costs, has brought the issue before the community again.

The referendum asks for an increase in the educational tax rate of 25 cents per $100 of assessment. If successful, the increase would bring the tax rate to $179 for each $10,000 of a homeowner's assessed property value. This figure falls within the norm for area school districts.

Financial difficulties at Fenton High School have been growing for the past several years. The educational fund has an estimated deficit of $700,000 and is worsening at the rate of $100,000 a year. The school was forced to trim $140,000 off this year's budget, thus eliminating many extracurricular activities and reducing the class limit from five to four courses per

Most people don't think about having pizza as a Thanksgiving treat, but mat's exactly what the children of Addison's St. Joseph's school had last week.

About 22 family size pizzas were sent as a surprise to the school, compliments of John's Pizzeria. The cheese pizzas were delivered to each of the classrooms and were devoured within minutes.

The kids didn't seem to mind John's idea of an Italian Thanksgiving which was suggested by his daughter Josephine Cullotta. Josephine is a seventh grader at the school also attended by Margie, her fifth grade sister.

The piping hot goodies arrived at 11:45 a.m. just in time for lunch. The 353 inches of pizza was just a snack and afterwards the regular lunches went "down the hatch" in short order.

John said he didn't have plans for Christmas, but school officials have started cleaning the chimney.

Key appointments to the office staff include Dick Barton, DuPage County assistant city editor who'll be in charge of the news personnel in the office; Walt Tetting, Display Advertising director for DuPage; Hank Swierenga, assistant circulation director in charge of DuPage County; and receptionist Mona Lima.

The news staff is under the general direction of City Editor Geoffrey Mehl, whose staff includes Barton, Charles E. Hulnagel, Virginia Kucmierz, Judy Morris, and new staff members Dom Najolia and Ken Hartwicke. The staff also includes part-time reporter Syd Jamieson and sports writer Phil Kurth, TETTING WILL BE assisted in the office by salesmen Al Back and Bill Biederman, and new staffer Dick Anderson.

Swierenga, assisted by Jim Farrow, will direct a new carrier boy delivery system already established for Addison and now being developed for other communities in north DuPage The Registers will continued to be delivered three times weekly, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, but earher in the morning than ever before.

The addison Register, a special responsibility of Barton, is being revamped to make it more truly a local newspaper, with an increased volume of local news, features, pictures and attitude.

"We expect this 'new' Addison paper to be like all our papers in DuPage and Cook Counties," commented Paddock, "to be one of what we like to think of as America's most modern suburban newspapers."

Council Readies Dist. 108 Study

The Citizens Advisory Council of Lake Park High School Dist 108, mapped final plans last week for its Dec. 15 session in preparation for its report to members of the board of education.

Temporary chairman Albert Eichsteadt called on committee representatives for various interim reports which will be the basis for final recommendations to school officials on immediate and future site and building needs of the district.

Preliminary reports of the subcommittees dealt with such areas for consideration by school officials as population growth trends, educational needs, economic factors, and public opinion.

It was apparent to the atlending advisory group that Dist. 108 is facing severe and ritical problems relative to adequate and available site needs and immediate lack of required classroom space to service the anticipated increased enrollment

SURVEYS SHOW that within 10 years Dist. 108 will have a high school enrollment of 7,000 students. The present facility o. Medinah Road has already reached its maximum enrollment of 1,750 students. Comments of the committee members when called upon for their interim reports, over previous apathy by school district voters that "it couldn't happen here."

The rash of announced residential planned development within Dist. 108 oundaries located in Itasca, Roselle, Medinah, Bloomingdale and Keeneyville, has brought the immediate crisis to Lake Park High School.

The impact is not only directed to nearly a doubling of the population of the school district, but developers are also grabbing up what available school site locations could be obtained even with passage of a referendum.

Forrester has reported there are 6,500 housing units in the school district at the present time and that housing projects approved in recent months "amount to 4.130 additional new housing units scheduled for completion within the next three to five

BUT FORRESTER's projection may be conservative, the citizens advisory council learned last week, with announcement and reports of additional residential developments in the pipeline up for action by the various municipalities within Dist. 108.

Another key factor is the high cost of available land parcels adequate for a possible high school site. Fifty acres is not easy to come by to meet requirements for attested to Supt. Carl Forrester's concern high school needs.

The average cost of a high school today for 2,000 students is $7,755,000, and this chmbs higher each year. Land costs range from $7,500 per acre to as high as $20,000 per acre depending on site availabılıty. Transportation needs are also on the upswing as well as rising costs of operation.

The citizens advisory council is faced with offering school officials recommendations for a plan of action to ward off unfavorable decisions which may have to be made to meet current problems.

THE POSSIBILITY of split or double shifts and curtailment of some school activities is not overlooked if voters of the school district turn deaf ears to proposals which could be geared to a referendum

A preliminary poll of some residents reported by the public opinion committee last week found reactions mixed to specific questions asked of them.

School officials and the council are also determined to improve communications to the parents of students within Dist. 108 which some claim accounted for defeat of previous referendums.

The council anticipates presentation of its final report to the board of education by the first of the year.

Sewer Plan Opposition Grows

by SYD JAMIESON

Add the village of Bensenville to what may become a growing list of opponents to the recently announced March 17 referendum election on the proposed countywide sewer system

This was evident - at least for the present — when Bensenville Trustee William K. Hegebarth reported on a Nov. 25 meetmg in Wheaton at which representatives of the DuPage Mayors and Managers Conference were briefed on a "progress report" by a joint committee of the county board and conference members.

Accompanied by Trustees Frank Focht and David Sloan to the Wheaton session, Hegebarth candidly informed Village Pres John Varble and fellow trustees Friday night during the village board meeting that "this thing had been thrown together so hastily it would be difficult to take it before our voters "

HEGEBARTH WAS ONLY reiterating what some municipal officials had told attending representatives of the Mayors and Managers Conference two weeks ago at a dinner meeting in West Chicago. But Hegebarth Friday night added more comments to what had been implied and declared at the West Chicago session.

He told the village board of trustees "It was the general feeling of the members present at this meeting (in Wheaton) that . . issues involved in establishing a project such as this had not been studied in great enough depth and that the establishment of a referendum date of March 17 was premature."

"I support the principle 100 per cent," Hegebarth said, "but the manner in which

On the other hand, he also advised village board members that he "admonished joint committee for not keeping us all informed." He did indicate, however, that recent creation by the county board of an administrative assistant position might eliminate the communication gap to the 31 municipalities comprising the Mayors and Managers Conference.

'2 Girls Died In Firetrap'

The 11/2-story wood frame building in which two children were killed in a Saturday morning fire in Elk Grove Township was a "firetrap," according to Allen Hulett, Elk Grove Village fire chief.

The building, at 1806 Landmeier Road, was at least 50 years old and in rundown condition, Hulett said. It had only one entrance and two windows of the bedroom were covered with wire screening.

Christine, 3, and Sylvia Arenas, 2, died when fire swept through the room in which the family of seven Spanish Americans was sleeping.
Another child, Mary Ann, 5, a kindergarten student at Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village, was in very critical condition Sunday morning at the burn unit of Cook County Hospital in Chicago. She had burns over 90 per cent of her body.

THE PARENTS, Juan, 29, and his wife, Sulma Arenas, 20, were treated and released Saturday for smoke inhalation, cuts, and minor burns, from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village. They were credited with saving the lives two of their children, Irene, 1, and Michelle, 4, by carrying them out of the burning building. The children were treated and released Saturday. They escaped through a front entrance of the building after the mother had attempted but failed to break through a window sealed with wire screening.

Three Elk Grove Village firemen and three policemen also were admitted to St.

Alexius Hospital. Most scriously injured was firefighter

Bernard Goss, who suffered second-degree burns. He has been a fireman less than six

Street Easements May Be In Making

Wood Dale's efforts to attract industry got a big boost last week when it was reported that easements for an east-west street extending from a proposed 61 acre industrial tract to Prospect Road may be in the making.

Commissioner Dino Janis said village officials met with the developer Nov. 22, seeking a solution for ingress and egress to the land parcels located immediately north of the Maher Lumber Co.

The owner of the industrial-zoned property, James B. Cochrane of Des Plaines, had informed village officials of attempt-

Milwaukee Road Railroad tracks to service the property.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE land parcels would ultimately have a tax basis in "exceas of $10 million." Cochrane said. He told railroad officials there would be "a substantial tonnage factor" which would benefit the railroad. He explained that inte est by Carlton Industries, Inc. of Richmond, Va., to build two warehouses on the property was dependent on the crossing.

Carlton's immediate interest to build the

ing to get an 800 foot extension of Addison warehousing facilities was being jeopard-Road from Irving Park Road to cross the ized by discouragement to the crossing installation by the Railroad, Cochrane

> But Cochrane's immediate concern may have been eliminated as a result of a reported meeting with Commonwealth Edison officials whereby the utility company may grant the raod easement to Prospect

According to Janis, Cochrane will still seek an Addison extension and railroad crossing to service the area, but the indications by Commonwealth Edison for granting the easement to allow construction of the roadway will trigger start or construction on the two warehouses by Aprıl,

EACH WAREHOUSE will contain 200,000 square feet and plans for additional development by Carlton on the 61 acre site could be expedited after the roadway is completed, Janis said.

The property will be annexed to Wood Dale and be serviced as to sewer and water facilities from Wood Dale under a proposed preamexation agreement which is expected to be presented to the council shortly.

Village Beat Virginia Kucmierz

The plight of the Bloomingdale Dist. 13 School Board was made very clear to me seaeral weeks ago, not by the board members, the superintendent or the Citizens' Advisory Council but by an unusual "average citizen."

A lady called the office with a question about the Dec. 16 referendum which proposes to raise the educational fund tax rate 49 cents.

I almost hesitated to return the call, envisioning a string of complaints about high taxes and inefficient administrators.

AS IT TURNED out, the lady merely wanted some clarification about the procedure of the referendum. Previously a 21-cent increase was the maximum a school district could request at one time and $2 per $100 of assessed valuation was the highest rate allowed for the educational fund. Recent legislation raised the limit taxable for the education fund to $3 per $100 of assessed valuation and allows school districts to have referendums asking for any amount that would bring their rate to Dist. 13, with an educational tax rate of $1.38 per $100, could have had a referendum for $1.62.

After explaining this to the lady, who seemed to be satisfied, I asked if she favored the referendum or opposed it, waiting for the worst.

"OH MY GOODNESS, I'm for it" she said. Mildly surprised and curious, I continued the conversation asking why.

She proceeded to explain she had been for all the previous referendums and was concerned about the education of her children. She said she would vote for this referendum.

"People move out of the city and come to the suburbs for their children. They say they want their sons and daughters to grow up in a good environment, free of crime, and pollution and also to get a good education.

"But when it comes right down to spending more money for the children they te fuse. They complain about taxes and would rather spend the money on luxuries. Who are they kidding?"

She continued saying she felt the school board was doing a fine job and she really sympathized with it. They have children in the school system, too, and were concerned about the quality of education they received, she said.

"THE BOARD IS in a difficult position," she said "If they really stress the under average conditions of the school too much then people may react as if they were being threatened and vote the referendum

Commission To Discuss Zoning Plan

The Addison Plan Commission will meet Wednesday to mull over a four-part zoning request of Addison Developer, Anthony P.

Starting at 8 pm., the commission will consider one request to rezone property back of the home on the west side of Ill. Rt. 53, south of Army Trail Road and north of Mitchell Field from its present R-3 (multiple family residence). The change would be to a B-3 (service business

Detailed use of the land will probably be disclosed at the meeting held in the village

ROSS'S SECOND request in the zoning package is to rezone the balance of land not used for business purposes. He wants the remaining portions rezoned from R-3 (multiple family residence) to M-2 (manufacturing district).

M-1 manufacturing district is considered the lightest type like storage facilities. M-2 district allows a heavier type of manufacturing but generally is restricted in such items as noise and smoke regulations.

The third rezoning request is for the north 300 feet of the existing M-2 district land which lies north of Mitchell Field and south of Army Trail Road. The desired change would be to a B-3 (service business district)

Fourth on the list of requested changes is to rezone the existing R-2 (single family residence district) zoning in Lullo's West Addison Highlands. The area lies west of the proposed rerouted Illinois Rt. 53, (referred to as FAI 61) and the road's right-

Expressway Routing OK Seen Soon

The approval of routing for the Elgin-O'Hare Expressway is expected from Washington before the end of the year, according to Ralph Wehner, Dist. 1 Planning Engineer in Elgin.

"It is not too probable that they wouldn't concur with our findings, but it could happen," Wehner said. The plans are currently in the hands of the U.S. Department of Transportation's Bureau of Public Roads.

The route proposed is a quarter-mile wide Labled Line 1 with alternative 1-D, it starts at the Elgin bypass and goes southeasterly. It then swings south around Hanover Park through the undeveloped Larwin property at old Ontarioville and through Centex Industrial Park south of Nerge Road in Schaumburg.

THE ROUTE THEN RUNS through Roselle to Interstate 90, and follows Thorndale Road through Wood Dale Moody Airport to Route 83.

District 10 of the Illinois Department of Highways picks up the planning of the expressway from Route 83 through to O'Hare Airport.

Once the corridor is approved, we will look into minimizing displacements," Wehner said from the Dist 1 offices.

"We will try to save as many farms and homes as possible," he added, "We will also check different types of interchanges." Where to use clover leaves, half-clovers and chamonds will be looked into. Wehner said The district will also attempt to prevent as many road closings as possible.

'Make It Do' School

by VIRGINIA KUCMIERZ

An Old New England maxim syas "Use it up, wear it out; Make it do or do with-

The creation of the new instructional materials center at Bloomingdale Central School reflects this philosophy explicitly.

The remodeled basement room which was opened for general use last month is much more than a study hall; it is a place where students can work on individual problems by a variety of methods.

MOST OF THE equipment and facilities in the center is old. The utilization and relocation of the tape recorders, film strip viewers and film projectors is the exciting and innovating element of the center.

"We used what we had," Kenneth Tucker, junior high science teacher and audio-visual director at Central School, said. "We gathered reference materials which were in different places throughout the building and arranged them here," Tucker explained.

For example the school receives sets of sample textbooks which were in individual classrooms for use by one teacher. All of these texts have been assembled in the instructional materials center and organized according to subject.

When any students come to the center they have easy access to all of the books. ALTHOUGH THE kindergarten through

Jan. 1 Marks Beginning Of Addison Park District

by RICHARD BARTON

It may be a little early to start thinking about what the new year will begin for most of us, but six men from Addison have been working on their New Year's resolutions since last April.

Jan. 1 is the day parks and recreation in Addison shed their five-year affiliation with the village board of trustees and strikes out on their own. The Addison Park District will become an official and independent body.

The new district will have Joseph G. Gallina, 531 Castle Road, Addison, as its president. Archie Neil, 413 Sixth Ave., Addison, will be vice president.

Commissioners will be Rudolph Ahrweiler Jr., 440 Wesley Drive, Addison; Angelo Chrysogelos, 536 S. Harvard Ave., Addison, and William C. Chrysokos, 619 Craig Place, Addison. Ahrweiler will act as park treasurer and Chrysokos will be secretary.

SINCE AUGUST 1964, when it was formed, the present park and recreation commission has acted as an advisory body to the village board. Arthur Peterson has been the superintendent of the park and recreation department.

Peterson was hired when the commission was formed and has served 29 years In various recreation capacities, After

Jan. 1. he will be appointed on a yearly basis as park director to run the programs with the tax money levied by the district.

He admits he thought the village was sort of "dumpy" five years ago with a then population of 13,000 The present estimated 25,000 persons are offered a wide range of activities all year around through Peterson's efforts.

Addison voters accepted a referendum proposal to form the park district last April. The district will have no connection to the village for it will be a separate taxing body with limitations of its own.

THE PRESENT RECREATION department is reportedly low on the village list of priority spending. It competes with other departments like the public works department. If a new sewer is needed, for example, park programs may suffer due to lack of funds.

Up to 15' cents per $100 assessed evaluation of property can be levied by the new district under present laws, according to Peterson. The increased funds will mean more programs, better facilities and expansion of present activities, he added.

"The district's main purpose will be carried out as possible," Peterson said "That purpose is to propose and develop land for recreational purposes."

Presently, the recreation department has about 60 acres of park land. The village and park and recreation officials are meeting to discuss how the village can deed over further lands to the new park district next year.

THE NEW PARK DISTRICT borders will be larger than the present Addision village limits to which it is confined. Included as new areas served by the district will be small pockets of more or less populated areas along the village lim-

Peterson sees the goals of the new district as

- Seeking to develop one or more large community parks.

- Building a large community pool complex.

- Establishing a civic or community

- Constructing tennis courts for public use because at present only the schools have such courts

 Develop and expand the present park system and programs.

The park board has met twice monthly for the past eight months and will continue to do so in preparing for the coming burth of the district Chrysogelos is the only park board member who is serving on the present park and recreation commission and will possibly serve as a link between the two agencies.

Peterson, also a connecting force, said the commissioners have shown overwhelming desire, energy and spirit

The old and the new should serve to bring Addison's New Year bundle to life with assurity and strength.

School Children Get Thanksgiving Treat: Pizzas

Most people don't think about having pizza as a Thanksgiving treat, but that's exactly what the children of Addison's St Joseph's school had last week.

About 22 family size pizzas were sent as surprise to the school, compliments of John's Pizzeria. The cheese pizzas were delivered to each of the classrooms and were devoured within numities.

The kids didn't seem to mind John's idea of an Italian Thanksgiving which was suggested by his daughter Josephine Cullotta. Josephine is a seventh grader at the school also attended by Margie, her fifth grade sister.

John said he didn't have plans for Christmas, but school officials have started cleaning the chimney.

Told 'Open Lines' Slow Drugs

discussing the drug abuse problem in the Addison area before the Lincoln School PTA last week. Other panel members included Addison Police Sgt. William Fearhelley and two residents of the Gateway House of Chicago, a home for ex-drug addicts.

Drug use is sometimes involved in crimes and the use of marijuana is the number two crime in DuPage County, Botti said, but most of those arrested are not

MANY OF THOSE arrested for possession of marijuana are one or two-time users like college kids and really an "innocent-type" youth with some bad judgment, he said. There are some cases pending where a few college boys were arrested for selling marijuana to friends, he added, and the sad thing is they will spend time in prison for it.

When a parent keeps the lines of communications open, many times the "problem" can be resolved, he said, because often the reason the child uses a drug or smokes marijuana originates through some problem at home. If the home life can be straightened out between parent and child, the use of drugs usually drops off sharply, he said.

FEARHEILEY SAID there have been about nine arrests in Addison to date this year involving drugs. A majority of the cases were for the use of so-called hard drugs other than marrjuana, he added. Botti said teenage drinking has declined in the county with the increased use of marrjuana. The reasons are mainly it's cheaper and in some cases just as easy to get, he added.

Open Paddock Office, Expand Staffs As Service to Public

Several changes designed to better serve the readers and advertisers of DuPage County have been announced by Stuart R. Paddock Jr., president and publisher of Paddock Publications. The changes include a new office in north DuPage County, an expansion of the editorial and advertising staffs in the county, the development of a more efficient newspaper delivery system, and redevelopment of the Addison Register, one of five Register newspapers now published by the chain.

"This represents a new dimension in our long interest and involvement in north Du-Page County," Paddock said. "Our newspapers have been part of the county scene since 1870, growing with it and anticipating the future with it. These changes are in line with that tradition, and they aren't by any means the end of our plans in Du-

Swierenga, assisted by Jim Farrow, will direct a new carrier boy delivery system aiready established for Addison and now being developed for other communities in north DuPage. The Registers will continued to be delivered three times weekly, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, but earlier in the morning than ever before.

The addison Register, a special responsibility of Barton, is being revamped to make it more truly a local newspaper, with an increased volume of local news, features, pictures and attitude.

"We expect this 'new' Addison paper to be like all our papers in DuPage and Cook Counties," commented Paddock, "to be one of what we like to think of as America's most modern suburban newspapers."

ABOUT 40 EAGER young men turned out Saturday in Addison to get the lowdown on the advantages of a Register

A lady called the office with a question about the Dec. 16 referendum which proposes to raise the educational fund tax rate 49 cents.

I almost hesitated to return the call, envisioning a string of complaints about high taxes and inefficient administrators.

AS IT TURNED out, the lady merely wanted some clarification about the procedure of the referendum. Previously a 21-cent increase was the maximum a school district could request at one time and $2 per $100 of assessed valuation was the highest rate allowed for the educational fund.

Recent legislation raised the limit taxable for the education fund to $3 per $100 of assessed valuation and allows school districts to have referendums asking for any amount that would bring their rate to

Dist. 13, with an educational tax rate of $1.38 per $100, could have had a referendum for $1.82. After explaining this to the lady, who seemed to be satisfied, I asked if she favored the referendum or opposed it, waiting for the worst

"OH MY GOODNESS, I'm for it" she said. Mildly surprised and curious, I contimued the conversation asking why.

She proceeded to explain she had been for all the previous referendums and was concerned about the education of her children. She said she would vote for this referendum.

"People move out of the city and come to the suburbs for their children. They say they want their sons and daughters to grow up in a good environment, free of crime, and pollution and also to get a good education.

"But when it comes right down to spending more money for the children they refuse They complain about taxes and would rather spend the money on luxuries. Who are they kidding?"

She continued saying she felt the school board was doing a fine job and she really sympathized with it. They have children in the school system, too, and were concerned about the quality of education they received, she said.

"THE BOARD IS in a difficult position," she said "If they really stress the under average conditions of the school too much then people may react as if they were being threatened and vote the referendum

Commission To Discuss Zoning Plan

The Addison Plan Commission will meet Wednesday to mull over a four-part zoning request of Addison Developer, Anthony P.

Starting at 8 pm., the commission will consider one request to rezone property back of the home on the west side of Ill. Rt. 53, south of Army Trail Road and north of Mitchell Field from its present R-3 (multiple family residence) The change would be to a B-3 (service business

Detailed use of the land will probably be disclosed at the meeting held in the village

ROSS'S SECOND request in the zoning package is to rezone the balance of land not used for business purposes. He wants the remaining portions rezoned from R-3 (multiple family residence) to M-2 (manufacturing district)

M-1 manufacturing district is considered the lightest type like storage facilities. M-2 district allows a heavier type of manufacturing but generally is restricted in such items as noise and smoke regulations.

The third rezoning request is for the north 300 feet of the existing M-2 district land which lies north of Mitchell Field and south of Army Trail Road. The desired change would be to a B-3 (service business

Fourth on the list of requested changes is to rezone the existing R-2 (single family residence district) zoning in Lullo's West Addison Highlands The area lies west of the proposed rerouted Illinois Rt. 53, (1eferred to as FAI 61) and the road's right-

Expressway Routing OK Seen Soon

The approval of routing for the Elgin-O'Hare Expressway is expected from Washington before the end of the year, according to Ralph Wehner, Dist. 1 Planning Engmeer in Elgin.

"It is not too probable that they wouldn't concur with cur findings, but it could happen," Wehner said The plans are currently in the hands of the U.S. Department of Transportation's Bureau of Public Roads,

The route proposed is a quarter-mile wide. Labled Line 1 with alternative 1-D, it starts at the Elgin bypass and goes southeasterly. It then swings south around Hanover Park through the undeveloped Larwin property at old Ontarioville and through Centex Industrial Park south of Nerge Road in Schaumburg.

THE ROUTE THEN RUNS through Roselle to Interstate 90, and follows Thorndale Road through Wood Dale Moody Airport to Route 83

District 10 of the Illinois Department of Highways picks up the planning of the expressway from Route 83 through to O'Hare Airport.

"Once the corridor is approved, we will look into minimizing displacements," Wehner said from the Dist 1 offices.

Where to use clover leaves, half-clovers and diamonds will be looked into, Wehner said. The district will also attempt to prevent as many road closings as possible.

'Make It Do' School Center

The creation of the new instructional materials center at Bloomingdale Central School reflects this philosophy explicitly.

The remodeled basement room which was opened for general use last month is much more than a study hall; it is a place where students can work on individual problems by a variety of methods.

MOST OF THE equipment and facilities in the center is old. The utilization and relocation of the tape recorders, film strip viewers and film projectors is the exciting and innovating element of the center.

"We used what we had," Kenneth Tucker, junior high science teacher and audiovisual director at Central School, said.

"We gathered reference materials which were in different places throughout the building and arranged them here," Tucker explained. For example the school receives sets of sample textbooks which were in individual classrooms for use by one teacher. All of these texts have been assembled in the instructional materials center and organized according to subject.

When any students come to the center they have easy access to all of the books. ALTHOUGH THE kindergarten through fifth grade students don't use the center as

Voters Face Dist. 100 Rate Hike

A referendum for a 25-cent educational tax rate increase for Fenton High School Dist. 100 faces voters of Bensenville and Wood Dale tomorrow.

Similar proposals were voted down in February and June of this year; but the Fonton Citizens Committee for improvements of the school system, in view of rising educational costs, has brought the issue before the community again.

The referendum asks for an increase in the educational tax rate of 25 cents per $100 of assessment. If successful, the increase would bring the tax rate to $170 for each $10,000 of a homeowner's assessed property value. This figure falls within the norm for area school districts.

Financial difficulties at Fenton High School have been growing for the past several years. The educational fund has an estimated deficit of $700,000 and is worsening at the rate of $100,000 a year. The school was forced to trim $140,000 off this year's budget, thus eliminating many extracurricular activities and reducing the class limit from five to four courses per

Seven polling places will be available for voters: Oakbrook School, 170 S. Wood Dale Road; Westview School, 200 N. Addison Road (Wood Date); Mohawk School on Franzen Avenue; Green Street School, 19 E. Green St.; Tioga School, Memorial Road and Addison St.; Blackhawk Junior High School, 5N 80 Church Road; Highland School, 543 N. Wood Dale Road.

Poll hours will be from noon to 9 p.m. Registration for the vote may be made until 5 p.m. at the Bensenville Village Hall or 4:30 p.m. at the Wood Dale Village

School Children Get Thanksgiving Treat: Pizzas

Most people don't think about having pizza as a Thanksgiving treat, but that's exactly what the children of Addison's St. Joseph's school had last week.

About 22 family size pizzas were sent as a surprise to the school, compliments of John's Pizzeria. The cheese pizzas were delivered to each of the classrooms and were devoured within minutes.

The kids didn't seem to mind John's ldea of an Italian Thanksgiving which was suggested by his daughter Josephine Cullotta. Josephine is a seventh grader at the school also attended by Margie, her fifth grade sister.

The plping hot goodies arrived at 11:45 a.m. just in time for lunch. The 353 Inches of pizza was just a snack and afterwards the regular lunches went "down the

THE NEW OFFICE, at 394 W. Lake St., Addison, is scheduled to open Dec. 8. It wil be fully staffed five days a week with news, advertising and circulation personnel, and a receptionist.

Key appointments to the office staff include Dick Barton, DuPage County assistant city editor who'll be in charge of the news personnel in the office; Walt Tetting, Display Advertising director for DuPage; Hank Swierenga, assistant circulation director in charge of DuPage County; and receptionist Mona Lima.

The news staff is under the general direction of City Editor Geoffrey Mehl, whose staff includes Barton, Charles E. Hulnagel, Virginia Kucmierz, Judy Morris, and new staff members Dom Najolia and Ken Hartwicke. The staff also includes part-time reporter Syd Jamieson and sports writer Phil Kurth.

The addison Register, a special responsibility of Barton, is being revamped to make it more truly a local newspaper, with an increased volume of local news, features, pictures and attitude.

"We expect this 'new' Addison paper to be like all our papers in DuPage and Cook Counties," commented Paddock, "to be one of what we like to think of as America's most modern suburban newspapers."

Council Readies Dist. 108 Study

Park High School Dist. 108, mapped final plans last week for its Dec. 15 session in preparation for its report to members of the board of education.

Temporary chairman Albert Eichsteadt called on committee representatives for various interim reports which will be the basis for final recommendations to school officials on immediate and future site and building needs of the district,

Preliminary reports of the subcommittees dealt with such areas for consideration by school officials as population growth trends, educational needs, economic factors, and public opinion.

It was apparent to the attending advisory group that Dist. 108 is facing severe and critical problems relative to adequate and available site needs and immediate lack of required classroom space to service the anticipated increased enrollment

SURVEYS SHOW that within 10 years Dist. 108 will have a high school enrollment of 7,000 students. The present facility or Medinah Road has already reached its maximum enrollment of 1,750 students.

Comments of the committee members. when called upon for their interim reports, attested to Supt. Carl Forrester's concern

The Citizens Advisory Council of Lake over previous apathy by school district voters that "it couldn't happen here."

The rash of announced residential planned development within Dist. 108 boundaries located in Itasca, Roselle, Medinah, Bloomingdale and Keeneyville, has brought the immediate crisis to Lake Park High School,

The impact is not only directed to nearly a doubling of the population of the school district, but developers are also grabbing up what available school site locations could be obtained even with passage of a referendum.

Forrester has reported there are 6,500 housing units in the school district at the present time and that housing projects approved in recent months "amount to 4,130 additional new housing units scheduled for completion within the next three to five

BUT FORRESTER's projection may be conservative, the citizens advisory council learned last week, with announcement and reports of additional residential developments in the pipeline up for action by the various municipalities within Dist. 108.

Another key factor is the high cost of available land parcels adequate for a possible high school site. Fifty acres is not easy to come by to meet requirements for

The average cost of a high school today for 2,000 students is $7,755,000, and this climbs higher each year.

Land costs range from $7,500 per acre to as high as $20,000 per acre depending on site availability. Transportation needs are also on the upswing as well as rising costs of operation.

The citizens advisory council is faced with offering school officials recommendations for a plan of action to ward off unfavorable decisions which may have to be made to meet current problems.

THE POSSIBILITY of split or double shifts and curtailment of some school activities is not overlooked if voters of the school district turn deaf ears to proposals which could be geared to a referendum

A preliminary poll of some residents 1eported by the public opinion committee last week found reactions mixed to specific questions asked of them.

School officials and the council are also determined to improve communications to the parents of students within Dist. 108 which some claim accounted for defeat of previous referendums.

The council anticipates presentation of its final report to the board of education

Sewer Plan Opposition Grows

by SYD JAMIESON

Add the village of Bensenville to what . may become a growing list of opponents to the recently announced March 17 referendum election on the proposed countywide sewer system.

This was evident - at least for the present - when Bensenville Trustee William K. Hegebarth reported on a Nov. 25 meeting in Wheaton at which representatives of the DuPage Mayors and Managers Conference were briefed on a "progress report" by a joint committee of the county board and conference members.

Accompanied by Trustees Frank Focht and David Sloan to the Wheaton session, Hegebarth candidly informed Village Pres. John Varble and fellow trustees Friday night during the village board meeting so hastily it would be difficult to take it before our voters."

HEGEBARTH WAS ONLY reiterating what some municipal officials had told attending representatives of the Mayors and Managers Conference two weeks ago at a dinner meeting in West Chicago.

But Hegebarth Friday night added more comments to what had been implied and declared at the West Chicago session.

He told the village board of trustees "It was the general feeling of the members present at this meeting (in Wheaton) that . . . issues involved in establishing a project such as this had not been studied in great enough depth and that the establishment of a referendum date of March 17 was premature."

"I support the principle 100 per cent," Hegebarth said, "but the manner in which it is being handled and the lack of study and information is very amateurish."

HE ALSO THREW some bouquets at the local press coverage on the controversial project for in-depth reporting that has been well received by the municipalities. On the other hand, he also advised village board members that he "admonished the joint committee for not keeping us all informed." He did indicate, however, that recent creation by the county board of an administrative assistant position might eliminate the communication gap to the 31 municipalities comprising the Mayors and Managers Conference. Varble sided with Hegebarth, saying

"this is a mammoth thing. We know we have a certain amount of indebtedness we ave to pay off along with the other communities. I feel we should have outside expert opinion - you can't just say it's going which we would be nailed by our community."

"This is pushing something through fast

SO THE OPPOSITION list to the proposed referendum election appears to be growing. The vote is whether the county board shall approve $105 million in general obligation bonds, to be decided by voters on March 17.

What is needed is more palatable answers to the many questions posed by municipalities such as Bensenville, which have on-going sewage treatment plant facilities.

Its neighbor to the west - Wood Dale has openly opposed the countywide system stating it too needs more factual data geared particularly to financing and rate structure. As for Itasca, Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke takes the blame for scheduling th March 17 referendum election date but still maintains the date was set "in the

'2 Girls Died In Firetrap

by TOM JACHIMIEC The 1½-story wood frame building in which two children were killed in a Saturday morning fire in Elk Grove Township was a "firetrap," according to Allen Hulett, Elk Grove Village fire chief.

The building, at 1806 Landmeier Road, was at least 50 years old and in rundown condition, Hulett said. It had only one entrance and two windows of the bedroom were covered with wire screening.

Christine, 3, and Sylvia Arenas, 2, died when fire swept through the room in which the family of seven Spanish Americans was sleeping.

Another child, Mary Ann, 5, a kindergarten student at Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village, was in very critical condition Sunday morning at the burn unit of Cook County Hospital in Chicago. She had burns over 90 per cent of her body.

THE PARENTS, Juan, 29, and his wife, Sulma Arenas, 20, were treated and released Saturday for smoke inhalation, cuts, and minor burns, from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village, They were credited with saving the lives of two of their children, Irene, 1, and Michelle, 4, by carrying them out of the burning building. The children were treated and released Saturday. They escaped through a front entrance of the building after the mother had attempted but failed to break through a window sealed with wire screening. Three Elk Grove Village firemen and three policemen also were admitted to St. Alexius Hospital.

Most seriously injured was firefighter Bernard Goss, who suffered second-degree burns. He has been a fireman less than six

Street Easements May Be In Making

Wood Dale's efforts to attract industry got a big boost last week when it was reported that easements for an east-west street extending from a proposed 61 acre industrial tract to Prospect Road may be in the making.

Commissioner Dino Janis said village officials met with the developer Nov. 22, seeking a solution for ingress and egress to the land parcels located immediately north of the Maher Lumber Co.

The owner of the industrial-zoned property, James B. Cochrane of Des Plaines, had informed village officials of attempt-

He told railroad officials there would be "a substantial tonnage factor" which would benefit the railroad. He explained that inte est by Carlton Industries, Inc. of Richmond. Carlton's immediate interest to build the

ing to get an 800 foot extension of Addison warehousing facilities was being jeopardized by discouragement to the crossing installation by the Railroad, Cochrane

According to Janis, Cochrane will still seek an Addison extension and railroad crossing to service the area, but the indications by Commonwealth Edison for granting the easement to allow construction of the roadway will trigger start of construction on the two warehouses by Apitil.

EACH WAREHOUSE will contain 200,000 square feet and plans for additional development by Carlton on the 61 acre site could be expedited after the roadway is completed. Janis said.

The property will be annexed to Wood Dale and be serviced as to sewer and water facilities from Wood Dale under a proposed preannexation agreement which is expected to be presented to the council

Village Beat Virginia Kucmierz

The plight of the Bloomingdale Dist. 13 School Board was made very clear to me searral weeks ago, not by the board members, the superintendent or the Citizens' Advisory Council but by an unusual "average citizen."

A lady called the office with a question about the Dec. 16 referendum which proposes to raise the educational fund tax rate 49 cents.

I almost hesitated to return the call, envisioning a string of complaints about high taxes and inefficient administrators.

AS IT TURNED out, the lady merely wanted some clarification about the procedure of the referendum.

Previously a 21-cent increase was the maximum a school district could request at one time and $2 per $100 of assessed valuation was the highest rate allowed for the educational fund. Recent legislation raised the limit taxable for the education fund to $3 per $100 of assessed valuation and allows school districts to have referendums asking for any amount that would bring their rate to Dist. 13, with an educational tax rate of $1.38 per $100, could have had a referendum for $1.62.

After explaining this to the lady, who seemed to be satisfied, I asked if she favored the referendum or opposed it, waiting for the worst. "OH MY GOODNESS, I'm for it" she said. Mildly surprised and curious, I continued the conversation asking why. She proceeded to explain she had been for all the previous referendums and was concerned about the education of her children. She said she would vote for this refereadum.

People move out of the city and come to the suburbs for their children. They say they want their sons and daughters to grow up in a good environment, free of crime, and pollution and also to get a good education.

"But when it comes right down to spending more money for the children they refuse. They complain about taxes and would rather spend the money on luxuries. Who are they kidding?"

She continued saying she felt the school board was doing a fine job and she really sympathized with it. They have children in the school system, too, and were concerned about the quality of education they received, she said.

"THE BOARD IS in a difficult position," she said, "If they really stress the under average conditions of the school too much then people may react as if they were being threatened and vote the referendum

Commission To Discuss Zoning Plan

The Addison Plan Commission will meet Wednesday to mult over a four-part zoning request of Addison Developer, Anthony P.

Starting at 8 p.m., the commission will consider one request to rezone property back of the home on the west side of Ill. Rt. 53, south of Army Trail Road and north of Mitchell Field from its present R-3 (multiple family residence). The change would be to a B-3 (service business district).

Detailed use of the land will probably be disclosed at the meeting held in the village

ROSS'S SECOND request in the zoning package is to rezone the balance of land not used for business purposes. He wants the remaining portions rezoned from R-3 (multiple family residence) to M-2 (manufacturing district).

M-1 manufacturing district is considered the lightest type like storage facilities. M-2 district allows a heavier type of manufacturing but generally is restricted in such items as noise and smoke regulations.

The third rezoning request is for the north 300 feet of the existing M-2 district land which lies north of Mitchell Field and south of Army Trail Road. The desired change would be to a B-3 (service business district).

Fourth on the list of requested changes is to rezone the existing R-2 (single family residence district) zoning in Lullo's West Addison Highlands. The area lies west of the proposed rerouted Illinois Rt. 53, (referred to as FAI 61) and the road's right-

Expressway Routing OK Seen Soon The approval of routing for the Elgin-

O'Hare Expressway is expected from Washington before the end of the year, according to Ralph Wehner, Dist. 1 Planning Engineer in Elgin.

"It is not too probable that they wouldn't concur with cur findings, but it could happen," Wehner said. The plans are currently in the hands of the U.S. Department of Transportation's Bureau of Public Roads.

The route proposed is a quarter-mile wide, Labled Line 1 with alternative 1-D, it starts at the Elgin bypass and goes southeasterly. It then swings south around Hanover Park through the undeveloped Larwin property at old Ontarioville and through Centex Industrial Park south of Nerge Road in Schaumburg.

THE ROUTE THEN RUNS through Roselle to Interstate 90, and follows Thorndale Road through Wood Dale Moody Airnort to Route 83.

District 10 of the Illinois Department of Highways picks up the planning of the expressway from Route 83 through to O'Hare Airport.

"Once the corridor is approved, we will look into minimizing displacements," Webner said from the Dist. 1 offices. "We will try to save as many farms and homes as possible," he added. "We will also check different types of interchanges."

Where to use clover leaves, half-clovers and diamonds will be looked into, Wehner said. The district will also attempt to prevent as many road closings as possible.

Make It Do' School Center

by VIRGINIA KUCMIERZ

An Old New England maxim syas "Use it up, weur it out; Make it do or do with-

The creation of the new instructional materials center at Bloomingdale Central

School reflects this philosophy explicitly. The remodeled basement room which was opened for general use last month is much more than a study hall; it is a place where students can work on individual problems by a variety of methods.

MOST OF THE equipment and facilities in the center is old. The utilization and relocation of the tage recorders, film strip viewers and film projectors is the exciting and innovating element of the center.

"We used what we had," Kenneth Tucker, junior high science teacher and audio-visual director at Central School, said. 'We gathered reference materials which were in different places throughout the building and arranged them here," Tucker

For example the school receives sets of sample textbooks which were in individual classrooms for use by one teacher. All of these texts have been assembled in the instructional materials center and organized according to subject.

When any students come to the center they have easy access to all of the books. ALTHOUGH THE kindergarten through

The film projector which is being used in the center is 10 years old. It was given to the district by the College of DuPage when the school was changing equipment, and, according to Tucker, the "projector was considered worn out then."

Since Central School now has two other projectors which are for individual classroom use, a new use was found for the old one. It is one "station" in the entire layout of the instructional materials center.

The center currently has three working stations and will be establishing more as soon as more equipment arrives.

Each station is a part of the room where a group of students can work on learning problems or do additional work in a sub-

The first station consists of the film projector, a table and a bookcase backed in white cardboard where films are shown.

THE STUDENTS SIT at the table wearing headphones which are plugged into the projector and watch a film. Usually the film, which is available through a membership in a county-wide association, is related to current subject matter.

At another station a different group can be working with a tope recorder. Perhaps this group has reading problems, so they fifth grade students don't use the center as are listening through earphones to a tape of one of the better reading students simultaneously following him with a text.

Finally another group can be looking at film strips learning about a topic for which they were absent or about a lesson they didn't quite understand.

Besides these learning stations, Tucker said there will be a phonograph station at which students can listen to records through earphones.

A SET OF OLD study booths is also being converted into a different type of station. Headphones are being installed into the booths which will be used for such things as reading and language improvement and making up tests.

The center has several sets of encyclopedias available to students who just want to sit and read.

Tucker, who is working on his master's degree in audio-visual at the Wisconsin State University in LaCrosse, said, "Only $200 worth of additional equipment has been spent for the center. This new equipment consists of headphones and master headphone receivers."

He said the center has progressed greatly but stressed there is still a "great need for materials. We brought in what we had; now we need more.. ONLY EIGHT STUDENTS can use a

tiations begin next year.

'We could have had a delegation of teachers here tonight," said E.W.J. Bagg, school superintendent, at the board meeting, "but we wanted no conflict. I feel that one of the points in the negotiations next year will be calendar determination. I urge this revision of the calendar because I'm trying to think in terms of the relationships between teachers, the administration and the community."

BAGG HAD PROPOSED that schools in Dist. 12 begin Christmas vacation following the school day on Dec. 19. The current plan calls for school to be held two days on the following week, Dec. 22 and 23. Bagg said that the dropped school days could be added to the end of the year by extending classes until June 12.

A survey of teachers in the system showed 41 in favor of the longer December vacation, one uncommitted, and 13 in favor of the early June dismissal.

The survey, plus numerous complaints about the calendar, more than justified the modification, Bagg said. Nonetheless, a slim majority of the board refused to accept the proposition.

"I THINK I CAN invalidate your survey," said board member Melvin Luxenberg. "If you took that same question to the teachers in May, you'd find a majority wanted to be let out early in June."

"But this is rediculous," said Mrs. Bernadette Stoeffer. "You can't predict what the teachers really want when we've just heard what they want.'

Another board member, Donald Bessey, went along with the proposal, "grudgingly." Bessey said a change was acceptable if the faculty wanted it, but he said the best solution would be to promote a standardized, county-wide school calen-

EDWIN PECK said that the board had already reviewed the pros and cons of a change many times, and he could see no reason to alter their previous decision. Dr. Donald Lloyd also felt no need for further discussion.

Frank Zielinski, board member, said he always favored the early start on the vacation. He cited examples from his own family of the inconveniences caused by the four-day holiday loss in the current system. President Lowell Steger said the situration did not seem to call for any change.

A motion to change the calendar was raised. Three votes for the motion came from Stoeffer, Zielinski and Bessey. Three nay votes came from Luxenberg, Lloyd and Peck. Steger broke the tie with a "nay," and the motion failed.

In case anyone missed last Tuesday's special congressional celection, don't fret. A rerun is scheduled next November.

Stars of the drama will again be Skokie Democrat Edward Warman and, probably, Republican Philip Crane, the man who emerged as 13th District congressman last week with a 20,000-vote plurality.

A 36-foot-wide pavement of the newly constructed Illinois Rt. 83 in Elk Grove Village is scheduled to open to traffic Fri-

The section of the highway is a 2.89mile stretch from the Northwest Tollway to a point just south of Devon Avenue through Centex Industrial Park. Work began on the highway last July.

What normally will be a three-lane roadway for future south-bound traffic will be open to two lanes of northbound and southbound traffic while construction on another 36-foot-wide pavement for northbound traffic begins.

EDWARD WELCH, resident engineer for the Illinois Division of Highways, said, "The new pavement will be a big improvement over what we now have, even though it's only half done."

The entire Route 83 project calls for six lanes of pavement including restructuring 72 and 83 and Oakton Street

The old triangular intersection that is famous for its traffic jams has been rerouted, but traffic has not improved, at least until widened pavements are com-

Welch said the re-routed section of Route 72 north of Oakton Street and west of Busse Road also will open Friday It includes four lanes of northbound and southbound traffic separated by a median

THE ENTIRE PROJECT is costing the state about $5 million, and is scheduled for completion Oct 1, 1970 It is estimated by Welch that the three lanes of traffic on Route 83 will be open sooner, perhaps by August

No further excavations will be made this winter, Welch said, adding that the construction season has just about come to a

Most of the construction of channelization at intersections along the west side of Route 83 has been completed, Welch said, with the exception of Devon Avenue, where a drainage problem has delayed work.

Other east-west streets which will channel into Route 83 include Pratt Boulevard, Greenleaf Avenue, Landmeier Road and Oakton Street.

medical care. At least not on a daily basis. They are undergoing physical therapy which hopefully will right most of the damage they suffered in the war.

THEY HOBBLE FROM place to place on crutches, canes and metal leg braces, Or they have their arm in a cast, held by a sling. They are scarred and broken, but by no means dead. And they have lost nothing but time Time that will heal them almost as good as new.

They have lost arms and legs that will not grow back, the way they do on a frog. They have to be litted for wooden limbs and learn to use them the best they can. Disabled vets, they call them. And what a row they hoe.

It's hard for them to believe they're home. And even harder to believe they're safe. No more mortar attacks. No more fighting. For them the war is over.

But they're not used to comfort. They're used to sleeping in wet clothes on a rice paddy dyke. They're used to fighting time, red ants and leeches. Living in a jungle instead of a bedroom. His Christmas Wish Is To Find Kidney Donor

by DAVE PALERMO

A few years ago, little Walter "Buddy" Skowron could climb a rope without using

"I used to play with kids older than me because I was stronger than kids my age," the 14-year-old said. "I used to climb houses because the trees were too

Buddy said it was so long ago he could hardly remember.

Today Buddy doesn't go in much for tree or house climbing. He spends most of his day at his Mount Prospect home, 216 S. Elmhurst Road, reading "seary" mystery stories, watching television, and helping his mother do housework.

Plagued with a kidney problem since he was 5-years-old, Buddy underwent surgery about a year ago to have both of them

WHAT KEEPS BUDDY alive today is an artificial kidney, a quart tank which looks like a glorified washing machine and actually "washes" Buddy's blood.

Five or six hours a day, three times a week Buddy goes through a painful process called "Dialysis" in which he lies by the machine with two lengths of synthetic tubing inserted into his arms. One tube carries this blood to the machine and the other returns "cleansed" blood back into his system.

A small boy with fine, dry hair and a sallow complexion which camouflages his freckles. Buddy is awaiting a donor to give him a kidney and enable him to live a normal life once again.

But a normal life for Buddy may never be, for although a new kidney would relieve bis suffering, it won't restore his hearing which was lost threee weeks after the aperation.

Monday, Docember 1, 1969

STITING ON THE carpeted living room floor of Mrs. Arline Braun, 909 Elmdale Road, Glonview, Buddy was surrounded by boxes of Betty Urocker compons last

The coupons are part of a project undertaken by the Des Plaines Valley chapter of the National Campers and Illiters Association in cooperation with the Kidney Foundation of Blinois.

Mrs Braun, chairman of the local chanter hopes to collect 600,000 coupons, valued at a half-cent each. If collected, the Betty Crocker Co. will pay the sponsoring group

If successful the program would get a kidney detection program started in Illinois. The total sum of $3,000 would provide test material for 7,500 people.

BUDDY, WHO FULLY realizes the program is too late to help him, has a childlike hope that others will not have to suffor as he has. He enthusiastically makes radio and television appearances in an elfort to draw attention to the project.

Tired from a lack of blood and scheduled to go through dialysis that evening, Buddy sits on a sofa which dwarfs his size in the Braun home.

He answered questions written on a small pad of paper mechanically - as if he'd been answering the identical questions all his life.

"I would like to have a girl friend," he sald. "All the other guys at school have a girl friend and they talk about them all the time. What do I do but sit and listen watch. I've never had a firl friend so I don't know if I like girls or not,"

The Colon of the Section of the Colon of the colon of the contract of the colon of

Except for the three days a week Buddy goes to Dempster Junior High School, his days are a continually dreary routine. But he bates nights the most,

"THINGS BOTHER ME like my arms and legs and my back," he said, trying not to express the anguish. "They itch. When morning comes everything goes away and I can sleep.

"I don't like the hospitals. But they're there to help and there's nothing to do about if if you want to get well. I don't like the shots though."

Undoubtedly, it's a kidney which Buddy wants most for Christmas. While just about everyone in the Skowron family volunteered to be a donor, none of them qualified. A donor must possess skin tissue compatible with Buddy's as well as have the same blood type.

Mrs. Forence Skowron, Buddy's mother, said the wait for a donor is continuous. "Anytime that phone rings it could be it,"

FROM THE TIME Buddy contacted the disease to the day of the operation, Mrs. Skowron recalled that the home was like a 'time bomb." Buddy's health deteriorated gradually until a year ago Thanksgiving Day when his kidneys totally stopped functioning and he was rushed to a hospital where they were removed. He lost his hearing as a result of medication three weeks later. State aid for persons with Buddy's affliction is restricted to those between the ages of 18 and 50. It was the Mount Prospect Lions Club which donated the $1,700 for the purchase of the artificial kidney which keeps Buddy alive today.

Walter Skowron, Buddy's father, is a tool maker and financing medical aid for his son has been difficult. In one year Skowron used up $20,000 worth of insur-

"YOU BETTER BELIEVE it's been hard," said Mrs. Skowron. "We have no more hospitalization insurance. No company will pick us up."

If Buddy feels any self-pity it doesn't show. He speaks proudly of the things he did before he became ill, although his memory of those times is vague.

"I really didn't like baseball or football that much," he said, "I liked to fish and go camping and I like bugs and insects.

"I knew kids in the hospital with the same problem as me only worse. I'm glad

Buddy's concerned as much about the future as relieving his immediate suffering.

"I'm going to be a dector," he said quickly. "I don't like giving shots, but at least it's better than collecting coupons. I want to help other people so they won't be like me.'

"I don't like to see people hurt."

Mrs. Seaver Joins County School Race

School Trustees in March is Mrs. George Seaver, 340 Hassell Court in Hoffman Es-

Petitions have been signed and sent downtown to secure a place for Mrs. Seaver on the ballot.

Lack of representation from Schaumburg Township in all areas of county government is Mrs. Seaver's motive for running, she said.

"This is an opportunity to become active in the county, particularly with school problems." Mrs. Seaver said.

SHE HAS served as PTA president at both the Hillcrest and Churchill schools in Elementary Dist. 54.

"I have nothing more than the general interest in mind," Mrs. Seaver said when asked what special issues she is concerned

Petitions of candidates for three six-year terms on the board must be filed with the election will be held on the same date as the primary election next year, March 17.

Candidate petitions must be signed by at least 50 registered voters.

The Cook County Board of School Trustees has the primary responsibility for overseeing any changes in the boundaries of school districts in Cook County. This board is made up of seven persons who serve without pay.

ONLY ONE person may be elected from each township in Cook County to serve on

The board meets four times a year, on the first Monday of January, April, July and October.

Trustees whose terms expire in 1970 are T. W. Thompson, Park Forest, president of the county board of school trustees; A. Roy Nelson, Riverdale, and Harry Powell, Bellwood.

Other members presently serving on the Running for the Cook County Board of county clerk between Dec. 8 and 15. The board are Mrs. Elsie Jacobsen, Oak Park; James W. Dugdale, Evanston; Richard Sheldon, Winnetka, and Joseph Tomasik, Chicago. The terms of Mrs. Jacobsen and Dugdale run until 1972, while the terms of Sheldon and Tomasik expire in 1974.

> MRS. SEAVER was asked if her probable candidacy was relevant to the Schaumburg School Study Committee. The independent citizens committee was formed a year ago to investigate the feasibility of separating the village of Schaumburg from Dist. 54.

"I can't see where we would benefit by the split. If I do see that Hoffman Estates would not be hurt and Schaumburg would benefit, I would not be opposed," Mrs.

"But no common sense decision can be made," she said of the disannexation proposal. "It is a matter of facts and figures. I have not made any studies on the issue and I have no statement." she added.

Mrs. Seaver said she was first encouraged to run by Sally Catlin, GOP committeewoman. She is running with the encouragement of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST), said Committeeman Donald Totten. "But this is a nonpartisan election," he added.

"NO ONE tise fromthe area (Schaumburg Township) that I know will be up for the position," Totten said.

He continued that Mrs. Seaver "is running because she is interested in school affairs and in representing the Northwest suburban area.1

When questioned about what special interests Mrs. Seaver might represent locally, Totten said, "The only thing is the disannexation proposal that she might get before the county board."

The committeeman agreed it would be fair to assume that Mrs. Seaver would oppose the disannexation of Schaumburg from Dist. 54.

New Teen Center Opening Delayed

Opening of the Elk Grove Village Teen

Center has been delayed again. But not for long, according to Jack Ches, park district director. "I hope it will be finished for use by the first of the year or before," he said.

Richard Ludovissy, teen supervisor, was less optimistic.

He hoped it would be done by Jan. 17. The teen center, constructed by the Park District, will be operated by Elk Grove teenagers under the direction of Ludovis-

APPARENTLY, completion of the roof has been holding up the other work, but a progress report issued by Ludovissy Wednesday indicated that the roofers should have the job completed by today.

He also said. "Completion of the roofing will signal the go-ahead for the carpenter to hinge the doors and the heating units to be installed. With a closed building, all dry-wall, insulation and paneling work should be under way by next week.

"The stain for the recreation room beams is on order and will be applied upon enclosure of the building. All electrical outlets are complete and ready for fixture connection."

Construction of the teen center began Sept. 3 after months of delay. The prefabricated cedar structure, costing $73,000, is in Lions Park in the Kennedy Boulevard section south of the swimming pool, Although first predictions estimated that the center would be completed in November, later estimates indicated that it would hopefully be done by Dec. 1.

THE COMPLETED structure will house a game room, snack shop, recreation room. TV room and lounge.

When hired as teen center director in agers, "Because Elk Grove Village has never had a means to help them, I feel the teen center will provide them the opportunity they need. "They have to have a place where they can relate between themselves and people in their own age group, using their own terminology to discuss feelings and impressions."

Rules for use of the teen center, established by the teen council, adult advisory council and Ludovissy, were approved recently by the park board.

THESE RULES, according to Ludovissy, will be effective until an active teen council is formed upon opening of the teen center. If this council approves the rules they will be effective until new teen council officers are elected next fall.

Basically, the rules regulate membership, smoking, drinking, dress and forbid destructive activities. A rules committee was formed to enforce the rules and a judicial board of 11 teen council members, under the supervision of the director and adult advisors, was established to deal with violations.

The teen council has been involved in other activities throughout the year seeking funds for furnishing the center. Although the park district provided funds for construction and cost of the building the Elk Grove teenagers were designated the responsibility of furnishing the center.

A Christmas candy sale beginning today will be the teens' first money making project of the season. Swiss chocolate bars with Elk Grove Teen Council on the label will be sold door-to-door for $1.

The sale, which will continue through Dec. 15, according to Ludovissy, will help provide furnishings for the center.

A drainage problem that an Elk Grove Village trustee says he was told would cost the village $300,000 to correct has been alleviated at no cost to the village.

The problem was caused by flooding near the site of the municipal hall complex at Wellington Avenue and Biesterfield It was corrected at least temporarily last week when a construction firm dredged a drainage ditch west of the site between Wellington Avenue and Leicester Road at no cost to the village, according to village officials. Trustee Tom Ullmann said he was glad it didn't cost the village anything, but that re could not help wonder how a $300,000 problem dissipated to nothing

ULLMANN MAINTAINED that several weeks ago at a meeting between trustees he was told by Village Engineer Robert Tennenbaum the drainage problem may cost $300,000 to correct.

Tennenbaum said last week that he was misunderstood, adding that he may have said $1,600 but not $300,000.

Ulimann, however, on Friday said there was no misunderstanding. Trustee George Coney, chairman of the capital improvements committee, said there is a drainage problem at the site but that it has been alleviated.

ASKED IF IT would cost $300,000 to correct the problem, he said, "no." Village Pres. Jack Pahl said the problem was not as bad as originally thought and that it was solved.

Dad Delivers Baby Girl—He's Fine

Life is pretty much back to normal today at the Harry Swanson home in Elk Grove Village after some anxious moments Wednesday night.

Actually, it was a pretty ordinary thing that happened to Mrs. Lucy Ann Swanson. She gave bith to a 612-pound baby girl. The occasion was not so ordinary for her husband, however, because the birth occurred at their home at 577 Grosvener Lane, and Swanson played a significant role in the delivery of his daughter.

Though Swanson had the help of fire fighters Leonard Zgonina and John Serbee, he was still "pretty nervous," according to Mrs. Mary Parks, Mrs. Swanson's

"THE BABY WASN'T supposed to be born until Jan. 3," she asserted.

The Parks family came up from Springfield, Ill., to celebrate Thanksgiving with the Swansons, but instead found themselves taking care of the Swanson's three other children Sandra, 13, Karen, 10, and Harry Jr., 8.

"We had a wonderful Thanksgiving," said Mrs. Parks. "The next-door neighbor even helped with the preparation of the turkey,'

Mrs. Parks said the mother and baby, to

"It was at 6:45 a.m. Sept. 28. About 50 gooks caught us in an ambush. All VCs. Put a damn bullet right through my left leg, they did. Tore a big hole in it, busted up the bone some, and ripped some muscles and ligaments. But the doctors say I'll be okay in a couple of months."

How you feel about getting wounded? "Well man, you know how it is. That's part of the game, isn't it? I wish it didn't happen, but it did and I accept it. No bitterness. It ain't so bad. Next to Pilafas was PFC Craig Woods, a college graduate from Skokie.

Woods has one year in the Army and one to go. And he's a draftee like the rest of them there, to be sure.

Blazers Waylay Unsuspecting Cougars, 80-70

by ED BIURNANE

There were two incidents Saturday night that gave a fairly accurate indication of the kind of welcome Addison Trail had prepared for their guests from Conant.

Midway through the first quarter, with Addison Trail ahead 10-8, the Blazers' Ken Birner was racing down court with teammate Jerry Herbord and Conant's Dave Kellermeyer in between.

Birner tried to passt o Herbord but Kellermoyer got his hand on the ball just enough to deflect it and break up the pass. But it was also just enough to put it

The second incident came in the third quarter, this time with Addison far in front at 57-33. A long AT pass was headed loward no one in particular, and the Cougars would have regained possession when the ball went out of bounds.

They would have, that is, had the bull not hit a surprised Cougar on the back of the head before it went out of bounds, giving the ball right back to Addison Trail.

That's the way it went all night, as the Blazers extended their record to 2-0 with an 80-70 triumph that was not nearly as close as the score indicates.

The Cougars now are 1-1.

For awhile, the contest had all the fixings of a good run-and-shoot battle. Both teams like to fast break and they started running from the opening tip.

Unfortunately, however, neither team was performing the ritual that's supposed

With their shooting hands warming up, and a pressing defense tightening up, the Blazers began bidding their farewells to Conant.

Addison's lead went from 14-12 with 1:50 remaining in the first period, to 19-12 just before the period ended and 19-14 at the

Then in the second period (which Conant coach Dick Redlinger probably would prefer to forget) the Blazers began to blaze.

They sparred with the Cougars for the first three minutes when the score stood at 23-18, the same five point margin that separated them at the quarter.

Then, all of a sudden the scoreboard read 33-18, then 37-20, then 42-20 and the Cougars had somewhat of a dazed look on

Falcons Put Pressure on. Elgin Wilts

by PAUL LOGAN "He killed us in the first half."

Forest View head basketball coach Ken Arneson hit on the perfect verb to describe 6-foot-3 Elgin guard Rick Hopkins, He amazed the sparse Falcon home court crowd in the first half hitting on eight of 11

Bill Chesbrough, head man for the Elgin Maroons, might have used even stronger words to describe the second half play Dave Long and Wayne Meier, but he couldn't be reached for comment. He might have said that those two 6-2 forwards the Falcons had really hurt Elgin, for they did just that.

The Long-Meier combination contributed 32 points in the second 16 minutes which helped bring the Falcons back from a 12point halfilme deficit and through a heartpounding final quarter to victory, 61-54, last Friday night.

This win over a fine Elgin team, coupled with a just as pleasing decision of Maine West (56-52) earlier in the week, has catapulted Arneson's team to a contender position when the Mid-Suburban League season begins next Friday.

Forest View, now 2-0 on the year, was blitzed in the first half by an Elgin team that shot ilke it thought it was back in its antique gymnasium. The Maroons singed the hosts' nets at the rate of nine for 12 in the first quarter and eight of 14 in the second for a torrid 65 per cent! And instigating the whole proceedings was Hopkins. He used a variety of shots to bang home his 16 points.

Meanwhile, the stunned Fatcons barely managed to stay in the game while suffer-ing through a frigid field goal output of just seven for 24 (29 per cent).

The Maroons took the lead after the opening tipoff and led 7-2 before Long hit one from his favorite spot - about 15 feet out near the baseline. The Falcons got within one, 0-8, on a free throw by Long but the Maroons biked the margin up to WHO'S GOT IT Forest View fans? It's Dave Long. He led the Falcons to a 61-54 comoback victory over Elgin Friday night with 18 points as they made their home opener a success.

"BEAT HIM, RICH!" That's probably what Forest View's Wayne Meier (background) is saying as Rich Olson and Bill Chesbrough race after a loose ball last Friday night in the Falcon gym. Olson and Meier hit for nearly half their team's points with 16 and 14, respectively, to aid in bringing about the 61-54 triumph. Chesbrough, who is the Elgin coach's son, failed to score in a reserve role.

Midway through the second period. Elgin increased its margin to 10, 27-17, but Rich Olson made good the one-and-one and brought it down to eight. This also marked the exit of starting guard Kerry Sund with

Two nice out-of-bounds saves resulted in buckets for Forest View to make it 29-23, but the last two minutes the Falcons failed to score and the Maroons poured in three more fielders to enjoy a 12-point margin at halftime, 35-23.

Then, just as had happened in the Maine West opener, the Falcons really stuck the zone press to the Maroons in the second "That was the turning point," Arneson said.

The Falcons started moving as Elgin turnovers and a hot hand by Meier, who canned three field goals in a row, cut the lend to 36-29. The Maroons were beginning to lose their composure.

Olson and Long joined Meier in zeroing in on the basket and the last two and a half minutes the press brought them even with their guests. Olson did that with a jumper from the top of the circle to make

Forest View, now enjoying the momenturn the Maroons' had lost, increased its margin to 53-46 as the Marcons took three and a half minutes to get their first field goal of the quarter. The Falcons got this lead on a free throw each by Shevell and George Bauer and a fielder by Long.

Elgin finally got a bucket, but Long found his special spot and hit again. The remaining four minutes the Falcons were content at free throwing the opposition to death as Long, Meier, Long and Olson took turns at potting pressure points.

Elgin cooled down in the second half to finish with 54 per cent from the field overall. But Forest View heated up a bit to wind up with a percentage of 41. Although the Maroons out-shot the Falcons 25-21 from outside, the cool-handed gifter shooters made up for it with 19 of 30 while only committing nine fouls themselves.

"That's what we've been trying to do," said Arneson, who was highly pleased with the big victory. His boys gave Elgin just nine tries from the line and they made but

Basketball isn't a sport in Indiana. It first quarter deficit to a 25-25 tie at halfisn't even a business. It's a way of life. Norm Jones left Indiana three years ago Palatine's defense stiffened in the third to coach at Palatine, but he didn't forget quarter, Algaier put in six points, and the the wealth of basketballl talent down Pirates came out of it with a 40-36 lead. The Titans shut Algaier off in the fourth When Jeff Algaier transferred to Palaquarter, but when he fouled out of the tine from Lawrence Central High School in game his teammates were shead 49-40. Indianapolis this fall, Jones got the 6-3 se-Gleabrook outscored Palatine 10-5 in the remaining three minutes.

"Losing Algaier really hurt us," Jones said. "We tried to use the freeze, but we couldn't make it work.' The Pirates' 1-3-1 zone defunse protected their 52-50 lead in the last 52 seconds though, keeping the pressure on Glenbrook South. "Our defense was really good," Algaier said. "We stuck together pretty well in those last minutes. Even though Algaier fouled out, this was his highest point production in high school. He was held to only four points in his Illinois debut Wednesday night at Glen-brook North. "Algaler has the potential to become a great shooter," Titan ceach John Wilhelm said. "He has a fine shooting eye, and he has some good moves. He is a complete offensive player." Algaier became a regular at Lawrence Central early last season. His family moved to Palatine when his father's business firm transferred him to the area.

Viking Comeback Edges

P-H-H-H-E-E-E-W-W-W!!

You could hear this sigh of relief all around the Fremd bench. The Vikings, for the second time in just four nights, had been in another "phew" game or close one for those fans who didn't drive down to Norridge last Saturday night.

Their hosts - the Ridgewood Rebels held a nine point margin with six and a half remaining in the third quarter, but saw it melt away in the final period. Bob Moloznik, who had made the clutch steal to beat Gienbrook South in a triple overtime on Wednesday, ignited his team again as they nipped the Rebs, 60-56.

The victory boosted head coach Leon Kasuboske's boys' record to a sparkling 3-0 in non-conference play. A position Kasuboske admitted he thought his kids would be before heading into conference play.

But the Vikings almost didn't attain the third win, and had to work even harder than they did against the Titans earlier in the week. In the Glenbrook game, Kasuboske said they almost "blew it." In the Ridgewood game, the poor facilities almost ruined it for the Vikings. The scoreboard was out of order, the crowd wouldn't stay off the floor, and the officiating left a lot to be desired.

Nevertheless, the Vikings sweated it out for their second victory over a Tri-County Conference team having beaten Fenton earlier, 82-48. But the Rebels had what the Bisons didn't have - a good big man.

Nearly stealing the win from Fremd was 6-foot-4 center Terry Dammerr. The lanky pivot man kept his team close in the first quarter with six of their 14 points. The Vikings out-hustled the Rebs in the opening stanza and took the quarter lead in the final seconds on a jumper by Larry Hanks and a free throw by 6-0 center Rick Gaare to make it 17-14.

But "Big Reb" poured in eight more in the second quarter and greatly aided in breaking up the effectiveness of the Vikings' vaulted full court zone press.

Dammerr tied the game at 23-all on a free throw and then finished out the oneand-one to put the Rebs in front. Mike Kolze deadlocked things again on a field goal and a free throw but the Vikings failed to score the remaining three minutes and Ridgewood put in seven for a 33-26 intermission bulge.

The third quarter saw the lead increased to as much at 11, 37-28, before the Vikings began trimming it. Dammerr went to the bench with his fourth foul with 3:35 left, but the Vikings failed to pull even and trailed 47-41 as the final quarter began.

But the last eight minutes saw the Vikings out-play and out-shoot (19-9) their

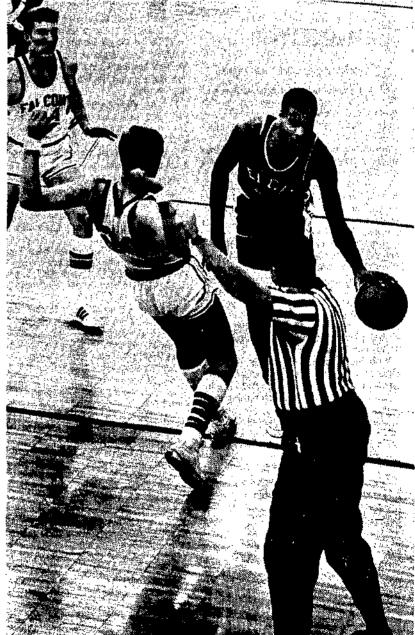

"That's where the conditioning really showed tonight," Kasuboske pointed out after the grey-hair maker finish.

After the two teams matched fielders in the oppening moments, Moloznik sparked the comeback. The 5-6 playmaker, who was on the bench in foul almost half the game, hit a pair of driving layups to bring the Vikes within two, 49-47.

A pair of technical fouls followed against the Rebels and Dave Wickersham made one of them to put them just one behind. Seconds later, Wickersham hit two straight baskets and then he swiped a Reb pass and Moloznik put them in front, 54-52.

Damerr then hit four straight gifters, but a jumper by Moloznik tied it again and a steal and layup by Kolze put them in front for good. Aiding the Viking cause was the exiting of Dammerr with his fifth personal with a half minute left.

However, Kasuboske had to sweat out the outcome for a very long 16 seconds before Kolze hit a free throw to give them (Continued on Next Page) background). Long paced the Falcons to an exciting come-from-behind victory, 61-54, with 18 points. Olson was fore the eyes of a tweeting official second with 16. Hopkins hardly missed and Falcon guard Rich Olson (left in canning 22 in the winners' gym.

Warriors Thwart Card Comeback...

Arlington feil 17 points behind to Maine West by the end of the second quarter, rallied throughout the second half but fell short as the Warriors won their first game of the year 63-55 Saturday night. For Arfington it was the second loss in two games.

The Cardinals slashed at Maine West's 17-point lead in the third and fourth periods and trailed by only four points with 1:58 left in the game, But Maine West cashed in on two backets within the free throw lane and pulled out the victory.

Two jump shots by Maine West's George Woodley a 42 lead and the Warriors never trailed from 5:50 left in the first stanza until the end of the game.

Arlington trailed by five points midway through the first period but cut that margin to two on Jim Stlpp's 10-footer, a foul shot by Bill Heffernan and buckets by Tom Harris and John Brodnan.

Maine West spurted somewhat late in the first quarter and when the buzzer sounded the Warriors had a 16-10 advan-

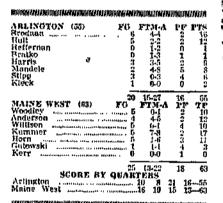

Maine West, with Fred Horn controlling in the rebounding department while contributing points, dominated most of the second quarter. Arlington did not score its first basket until three minutes were gone in the second quarter while Maine West was cashing in on 13 points. By halftime the Cardinals were trailing 35-18.

Starting with Mike Mandele's three points in the opening moments of the second balf. Arlington began cutting down on Maine West's lead. Mandele had a marvelous third quarter as he scored eight points. The Cardinals missed his services after Mandele fouled out with two minutes to go in the third period.

Maine West led 57-45 midway through the final quarter when the Cardinals finally put everything together.

Harris tapped in a basket, Jack Hult hit on a 10 footer, Brodnan scored on two free throws and Stipp tapped in a bucket and suddenly Arlington trailed by only 57-53.

Willie Anderson of Maine West hit on two foul shots to make it 59-53 but a tap-in by Harris again put Arlington just four self in a less-than-cordial chat with one of the officials and had to be told to "sit down before I count to 10 or you're out of here." Redlinger took a mandatory eight count and was back on his chair by 10.

An example of the Conant futility came midway through the second period while the Blazers were spinning the scoreboard. On one fast break the Cougars had, they missed the shot, and then proceeded to get five rebounds and take five shots, missing them all. The action stopped when John McDonald was fouled.

Well. McDonald missed both free throws and the Blazers grabbed the rebound, sped it up the court for two points, then stole the pass in bounds and converted it into two more. In the span of about 40 seconds, Conant had the ball for 35 seconds yet Addison Trail had four points.

The third period was more of the same, with the Blazers opening the margin to 57-30 midway through the period.

With both benches cleared in the final eight minues, Conant did put on a burst of power, outscoring the Blazers 29-15 but by then, the score was just a token thing any-

and others have been on television and in the Chicago Stadium and, assuredly, the Knights must have seen a seven foot basketball player.

But Friday night in Wilmette, the Knights got to see a seven footer up close - like right on the same court as the Prospect contingent. The Knights gave the seven footer, Bill Kosick, and New Trier East a good scare but fell to the Indians

> The Knights did not quite know how to handle the situation, namely Kosick, as they fell behind 11-2 early in the first quarter. But Prospect rallied, tied the game at 14-14, dropped behind again but rallied to trim the margin at 60-55 midway through the fourth period. The Indians, however. staged a late rally of their own to nail down the triumph. Kosick, who has a nice outside shot for such a big prepster (though certainly no superstar), scored 28 points, pulled down 11 rebounds and blocked five shots to offset Prospect's balanced scoring. The Knights had five players in double figures: Dave Lundstedt led with 15 points followed by Brad Rucker's 14, Casey Rush's 13, Stu White's 11 and Bob Kline's 10.

New Trier East pounced on an 11-2 lead with half of the first quarter still to play as Kosick led the way with seven of the 11

Rush scored five points and Rucker four to bring the Knights back to a 14-14 tie as the first quarter ended.

A driving layup by White put Prospect on top 16-14 in the opening moments of the second quarter as Indian coach John Schneiter put his first team on the bench for a good chewing out, supposedly for not hustling.

Schneiter put his first team back into the lineup with 6:22 left in the first half and Kosick and his teammates went to Within two minutes the Indians had a 27-18 lead and made it 35-20 with two minutes to go before halftime. Rucker popped in a basket from the key, as did Kline, and Rucker hit on a free throw as the half ended at 37-26 in New Trier's favor. The Knights and the Indians exchanged baskets most of the third quarter as Lundstedt and Kline played good defense, preventing Kosick from breaking the game wide open.

Prospect cut New Trier's lead to nine points when Kline bit two straight foul shots as did Lundstedt. The Indians took a 53-44 lead into the fourth stanza.

White connected on two foul shots and a jumper from the top of the key, Rush scored on two foul shots and Rucker one as the lead was cut 58-51. A jumper by Kline from the top of the circle and a layup by Lundstedt under the hand of Kosick made it 60-55 and Prospect fans were thinking in terms of a comeback victory.

But the Indian guards began feeding Kosick once again and finally he did break the game open as Lundstedt and Kline, both just 6-3, found it impossible to stop the seven footer.

Kosick scored six points and had five rebounds in the last 3:30 of play, teammate Chris Pfaff had four points and Bob Kelly four as the Indians rolled on to the victory.

For New Trier East it was its first win of the season against one loss. LaGrange found a way to handle a seven footer in the opening game and beat the Indians 75-

Wildcats Just Miss 1st Victory

by KEITH REINHARD

The search goes on.

Wheeling cagers remained in quest of their first victory of the season after coia strong Deerfield aggregation over the Thanksgiving weekend.

If the impressive start of the Warriors is any indication, the winning combination can't be too far off for the Wildcats either. Battling back from a hefty deficit, Ted Ecker's hosting 'Cats finally succumbed in the last seconds to Deerfield 64-62 Saturday evening.

It was Wheeling's second loss of the year and the second time in as many seasons that the Warriors were able to paste a setback on the 'Cats in exhibition play. But this was about the only discouraging facet for the hosts.

Appearing greatly improved just over their Nov. 21 defeat at Crystal Lake, the 'Cats were nearly able to upset a Deerfield quintet already owning wins over Lake Forest and Highland Park clubs this win-

Highland Park had never been beaten by Deerfield prior to this year and Lake Forest, a 20-point Warrior victim, is one of the layored entries in the Northwest Suburban league for 69-70.

Wheeling never led once in the contest but put heat on the visitors all the way down to the finish line with a stunning fourth period rally that melted away 13point lead in just over four minutes.

Trailing 60-47 with 6:15 left in the bellgame. Ecker's charges whittled it to 82-59 at one point and finally with three seconds remaining, gained control at the defensive end of the court. A last ditch effort to deadlock the match failed however when they were unable to get off a shot.

Earlier the Wildeats had shrugged off another sizable Deerfield margin to pull within a point of knotting the game near the middle of the third period. As with Crystal Lake, costly 'Cat turnovers combined with aggressive play on the part of the opposition provided a less experienced Wheeling entry with just a little too much to handle.

But the play of the Wildcats, especially that of lanky sophomore center Roger Wood and playmaker Kevin Barthule was noticeably improved over their outing with the Tigers.

Wood, who the 'Cats need for board strength and as an inside shooting threat, pulled off a bundle of rebounds and hit four times from the floor including a pair of nifty turn around jumpers. Barthule, who was shutout by Crystal Lake, canned 13 Saturday and came up with the kind of passing and defensive play the 'Cats will be leaning on him for this winter.

The visitors jumped on top right after the opening tip on a three point play and were up 24-17 late in the first stanza. Jon Pitt popped in his own rebound and Barthule struck once from right below the backet within the last 26 seconds to shave the disadvantage to 24-21 by the end of the

In period two, the Warriors tore off two straight from the floor to regain their seven-point spread but Gary Kawell sandwiched a pair of close in baskets around one of Wood's short jumpers and the 'Cats were within one point again.

Deerfield countered this time with eight improved the 'Cat situation to a 60-53 defistraight points and eventually took a 38-31 gap off the court at halftime.

In the third period the hosts fashioned another spurt with Mark Beneriscutto, Wood and Kaweli all connecting, and they trailed 40-39. Then the roof caved through and the Warriors climbed into a comfortable 56-44 lead by the three-quarter mark.

In the fourth quarter the audience might have thought Ecker was tossing in the sponge when he unloaded his bench while trailing by nine with about four minutes to go. But Wheeling's reserves are just about as able as the frontliners and rested, they

Hoffman A.A. Vikings Win

The Hoffman Estates Athletic Association Peewee Football League concluded its season recently with Tim Hannon's Vikings charging to a 19-12 victory over the Packers.

In the first quarter, a 25-yard pass from Tony Ianotti to Tod Henderson scored the first touchdown for the Vikings. Ianotti then swept the right side of his line on a keeper for the extra point.

In the second quarter, after the Packers had scored six points, the kickoff was taken by the Vikings' Dave Curtin, who ran like Gale Sayers through the Packer defense for 50 yards to score the second touchdown. The extra point try was missed, making the halftime score 13-6 in the Vikings' favor.

Defense played a major role in the third quarter. Stu Ironside, Bob Wescott, Bob Love, Kevin Weaver, and Joey Boris made up the front five for the Vikings. Tim O'Toole, Ken Redinger, Kevin Hedlund, and Phillip Rice were the linebackers, and Bill Holmes and High Hannon were Barry Stomp executed a nifty 50yard dash from the line of scrimmage for the Vikings' third touchdown in the fourth quarter. Assisting on this drive were Rod Ritchie, John Fidler, Rich Schrumpf, John Tompkins, Gary Skott, Terry Sopkin, Scott Gorenson, Terry Reynolds, Kevin Becker, John Aseron, Mark Sander, Jim Fleeter and Bill Ritchey.

When the final whistle sounded, every player on the Viking team had contributed to the big Maroon victory.

The St. Mary's eighth grade squad toppled Santa Maria del Populo of Mundelein. 47-40, in sweet revenge for a tough twopoint loss to the same team last year. Jim O'Donnell led all scorers with 19 points.

The seventh grade version downed St. Issac Jogues of Niles 27-17, with Blil Boyle pacing the winners with nine points and Ted Steffens adding six.

St. Mary's seventh graders' other win Ted Steffens six.

The lone loss for the seventh graders came at the hands of Santa Maria del Populo, 33-11. Groessi and Ed Horsley led the St. Mary's scorers in that contist with five each.

The St. Mary's eighth grade team is still unbeaten at 4-0 while the seventh grade souad stands at 2-3.

Win Over St. Pat Saps Strength from Lions

It is said all's well that ends well. But the inverse - all's bad that ends that way sometimes isn't the case.

Take St. Viator's performance in the Chicagoland Prep basketball tournament at St. Patrick of Chicago over the week-

On the face of it, if you learned that the Lions lost the last two of their four games in the tourney and dropped the last by 23 points, you'd naturally conclude that it wasn't a very encouraging weekend for Lion hardcourt followers.

Not so at all.

As a matter of fact, the Lions flashed some very impressive basketball and solid teamwork and established themselves as being one of several teams to watch in the upcoming Chicagoland Prep League race, always a rough-tough affair with some real anality competition.

After an opening victory by 25 points over Quigley North last Tuesday, the high-light for the Lions came Friday evening when they put on a magnificent display of teamwork and determination to stun host St. Patrick, 62-57. The Shamrocks are a perennial basketball power in the Chicago area, and victories over them are to be

St. Viator came up with another fine effort against another formidable quintet, DeLaSalle, Saturday afternoon. In this one, the Lions trailed by only three with less than three minutes left in the game, but fell, 61-51.

Facing their third tough opponent in 24 hours, the weary Lions just ran out of gas Saturday evening in losing to St. Mel, 57-34. Before that one, they had just three hours rest after a brutal game against DeLaSalle. So the score may be a little

"I can't possibly expect them (the Lions) to give me a baligame tonight," confided coach Ed Wasielewski, speaking before the third-place battle Saturday evening.

"Of course they're tired now, and they've got to go right back at full speed without rest. And the game doesn't mean much, anyway."

At any rate, St. Viator couldn't be unhappy about the weekend. Far from it. They pulled off a big win and thrilled their vociferous fans. They got a pre-season look at three of the toughest league foes they will face this year. And they finished fourth in a 13-team tournament - no small accomplishment with such entries as DeLaSalle, St. Ignatius, St. Mel and St.

ST. VIATOR 62 ST. PATRICK 57

Let's start with the good news - and Friday night brought mighty good news for Viator backers.

Second game of the season or not. St. Viator was already at its best against St. Patrick. They outrebounded and outshot the leared Shamrecks, and broke the game wide onen with a rousing third-agarter burst while the confused and frustrated hosts experienced a long and deadly scorfive-point final margin. St. Viator never with handicap.

The Lions broke a 2-2 tie at the outset and ran to a 9-2 lead before St. Patrick closed that to 12-8 at the quarter. The teams stayed even in the second quarter, with neither of them hot, and St. Viator took a 21-17 cushion into the dressing

Then, late in the third quarter, Wasielewski's charges began to open the gap more and more while their delirious fans

St. Patrick scored with 3:20 left in the third quarter to make the margin 27-24, but the snake-bitten Shamrocks couldn't register another point for the next four and a half minutes while St. Viator was building up a commanding 42-24 lead.

Whith Bob Rech getting several fastbreak baskets, Dave Kaskie dominating the boards, and Terry Cullen throwing in long ones with deadly accuracy, the score ballooned to 50-29 with 5:00 left.

St. Patrick then scored half of their total points in the last five minutes, putting on a blistering rush at the end with a fullcourt press. It worked, all right - but too

Cullen, leading scorer for the weekend, led the Lions with 17 points. Kaskie had 13 and Mike Pettenuzzo 12.

DeLaSALLE 61 ST. VIATOR 51

It was another barn-burner Saturday afternoon, with the Lions in the thick of it until they suddenly hit a cold spell late in the fourth quarter that cost them their

After being nip-and-tuck in the first few minutes and tied for the last time at 16-10 with 2:25 left in the first quarter, the game began to go DeLaSalle's way. The Meteors took a 16-10 advantage into the second quarter, but the Lions managed to stay close and trailed only 32-26 at th

St. Viator had to contend with one of the Chicago area's finest prep cagers in this tilt, Otello Burke. Burke piled up 19 points in the first half but was held at bay thereafter and finished with 23.

DeLaSalle threatened to break it open in the third quarter when they pulled ahead 40-28 with 5:20 left in the quarter, but the Lions came charging back. With everyone making vital contributions, they closed to 44-42 at the end of the quarter.

But the Lions suddenly lost their shooting touch. They managed just one field goal in more than six and a half minutes of the last quarter while DeLaSalle gradually eased away.

"The difference in this one was mistakes," lamented Wasielewski. "We made more of them than last night. Yes, they

(DeLaSalle) rebound very well. We didn't hit the boards hard enough today, either." ST. MEL 57 ST. VIATOR 34

The less said about this one, the better for Lion fans.

True, excuses don't win games. But no team as fatigued as the Lions were by Saturday night after those two nail-biters could play anywhere near up to capabi-

The Knights led only 10-9 with less than a minute left in the first quarter, but that was as close as the Lions could get.

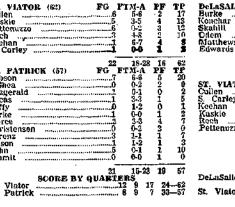

The Viator crew never stopped hustling and trying, but the shots weren't falling and the usual zip wasn't there. When the Lions went frigid in the second quarter (scoring only five points in the entire stanza), St. Mel built up a comfortable lead and was never threatened.

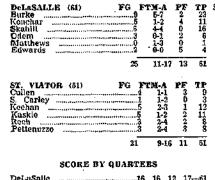

As far as the entire tournament is concerned, both individuals and team work were impressive.

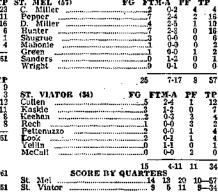

Our three inexperienced starters make mistakes, but they're cutting down on them all the time. They'll be all right," said Wasielewski, who couldn't be too unhappy about the weekend.

As for the losses, St. Viator will get two more cracks each at DeLaSalle and St. Mel in league play. So they'll have ample opportunity for revenge.

Don't bet against them getting it.

His view is that religion should not be taught in the public schools but that there is no reason why students should not be taught about religion.

A study of the history of the United States cannot be complete without an analysis of the part that religion-all faiths- played," he said.

The project undertaken by his committee goes far beyond that area. It is summaried in one section of the proposed guidelines which reads:

each a high regard for our American heritage and to encourage in each a devotion to the democratic ideal of a free, yet ordered society."

Moomaw concedes that is a big mouthful of generalities to chew upon and he is ready to talk in specifics.

"Young people today protest — and rightly so—that formal education is not relevant to actual life," he said. "There is more to education than facts. The man who is all content and no spirit is not an educated man."

Moomaw explained that he would welcome, for example, a teacher encouraging a class discussion of the morality of the Vietnam Moratorlum-not one devoted to

He suggested that a teacher in current events might get into the subject of Angela Davis, the black philosophy professor who recently was fired because she is an admitted Communist, and then reinstated by court order.

A classroom discussion of racism would certainly be appropriate, Moomaw said. He feels that one of the problems of Negroes and other minority groups is that they do not have the right heroes to look up to. There are heroes in their groups and they should be part of the study curriculum, he said.

"There are a lot of things in this draft that the Governor is not going to like," Moomaw said. "There are a lot of things the left wing is not going to like. We can't please everybody. In fact, we probably can't please anybody. But I do know that teachers and young people do want guid-

The ultimate responsibility for implementation is, of course, going to come down to the individual teachers, he added.

"They are not going to say, all right students, this is the period for the class in morality. They are going to have to introduce it in all sorts of classes.

"The teacher's kindness, the example he sets as a responsible adult, the use of fair standards for evaluating all students, the administration of calm and even-handed discipline, honesty and objectivity in presenting subject matter, the rejection of cheating, are all more eloquent lessons in morality than oral or written exercises on that theme."

The draft report has steered away from opinions on such controversial subjects as pills and marijuana, pre-marital sex, dress codes and draft evasion.

"Not that they are to be evaded but our job was to suggest guidelines for approach and discussion, not to set standards of behavior, Moomaw said

Does he feel young people are more or less moralistic than they were a few years

"Well, again, it's a question of what is morality?" he answered.

"If you mean the ability to distinguish between right and wrong and to protest about what is wrong, I think they are more moral. If you are comparing their behavior with what was perhaps something of a victorian code of conduct a few years ago, they are less moral.

D.C. Clothes: Anything Goes

by ELIZABETH WHARTON

WASHINGTON (UPI) -If anybody wants to know what official society is wearing in the nation's capital these days, the answer is anything and everything and in some cases, very nearly nothing.

From the fashion viewpoint, Washington under the Nixon administration is hopelessly schizophrenic.

On one hand, there's President Nixon himself, who is so conservative in his attire that he wears a coat and tie to the Vice President Spiro T. Agnew shares his boss's passion for dark suits, white shirts and ties so quiet they're almost

Most of the cabinet members are equally "square" in their clothing preferences and hairstyles.

Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, occasionally looks a little bit like a guy who once lived in California, but not very much and not very often.

situation.

On the other hand, there's Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., whose devotion to conservatism stops at the wardrobe door. Goldwater recently showed up at a capital dinner party looking very mod in a pearl grey dinner jacket with wide satin lapels, a fine-tucked shirt, and a butterfly tie.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., also keeps abreast of the New York and London fashions in men's attire. And his pretty blonde wife, Joan, would qualify as a swinger even on Carnaby Street. She once attended a formal white house party in a silver miniskirt that bared at least eight inches of shapely thigh.

A few other senatorial and congressional wives — mostly Democrats—make the social scene in pants suits and see-through dresses. But Mrs. Nixon, Mrs. Agnew and the cabinet wives are as sedate in their clothing preferences as their husbands.

On Capitol Hill, during working hours, the chief visual stimulus is provided by young secretaries who get leg cramps trying to maintain decorum while typing in skirts that, even while standing up, invite eyestrain if not riot.

Although most lawmakers show up for House and Senate sessions in dark business suits, there seems to be a modest trend toward modishness in hairtyles. At least 30 of the 100 senators, and perhaps 100 of the 435 House members, now sport sideburns. A larger number are wearing their hair longer on the neck. The whole question of hair style is, of course, academic for many of the senior members.

grown a beard. And there's no one who could be described as a hippie. The man who comes closest to qualifying is Rep. Allard Lowenstein, D-N.Y., and friends say his suits have that slept-in look only because Lowenstein regards clothing as merely a utilitarian necessity. The only genuinely mod dresser in the House is Illinois Democrat Kenneth J. Gray, a former magician and night club entertainer. He not only wears brightly colored suits and shirts but is generally far in advance of style changes and fashion trends.

Flamboyant Harlem congressman Adam Clayton Powell has showed up in the House in a Nehru jacket, worn with a tan turtleneck sweater with a medallion and chain. These may have been the members who inspired California Republican Burt Talcott to make a stern little speech in the House on decorous attire.

He admonished his colleagues to "eschew fancy and flashy garb," and warned that "attire which is acceptable for folk dancing, sailing, or the horse races may not be suitable for a session of the House."

The Supreme Court is eternal and unchanging, at least so far as fashion is con cerned. The solicitor general still presents the government's views in cutaway coat and striped gray pants. What the justices wear under those long black robes is their own business, but you can safely assume that their legalities are righteously cloaked.

Noel Coward at 70: Still the Master

LONDON (UPI)-"The young today act as though they had invented youth. "Let them keep their illusions."

T.S. Eliot says you should have spent more time in the study of ethics. "Mr. Eliot should have spent more time in the theater." Only one man talks as though he were writing the dialogue for a Noel Coward play and that, of course, is Noel Coward himself, briefly in London to heip arrange a midnight matinee to celebrate his 70th birthday Dec. 16. An hour with Coward-or with Coward urbanely playing Coward-in a Savoy hotel sulte above the Thames conforms all the legends that have had other authors and composers choking in envy and disbelief for more than half a century.

The master really did write some of his best plays, "Private Lives," "Hay Fe-vor," "The Vortex." "Brief Encounter," "Blithe Spirit," in anything from three days to a week and scarcely touched a line of them thereafter.

"Hay Fever" was completed, he said, "In one go." Only two lines of "Bilthe Spirit," one of the longest running comedies of all time, were changed in produc-

Roosevelt, during an automobile trip from Hanoi to Saigon when it was a scenic ride and not a front line.

No one laughed when he sat down at the piano one night and played "I'll Follow my Secret Heart" right through a burst of inspiration and to make the feat harder he played in a key in which he had never played before. "I can't read music or write it down," he remarked, "but neither could Jerome Kern and neither can Irving Berlin, so I'm in good company."

Like a good host Coward finally decided to reveal the secret. He leaned forward, the slightly oriental face crinkling in good humor, surely not 70 but only the older brother of the archetypal debonair Englishman he created as a writer and brought to life as an actor in the long-ago twenties.

"My colleague (Richard Brinsley) Sheridan used to sit down at his desk after long thought and say: "The play is finished.

Now all I have to do is write it." You mean you have it all in your mind before you start to write? You don't just whip them right off, he was asked.

"Precisely." said the master, making at least one hearer happy. "I'm doing the third volume of my autobiography, past conditional, and there are times when I stare at the blank paper in the typewriter. And then there are times when I write solidly for my allotted time from 8 a.m. to

It will be a "cavalcade" the title, incidentally of another of his successes) of his contributions to the theater and the arts as actor, author, composer, lyricist, playwright, director and manager in a career that would give even today's arrogant youngsters something to think about.

Before he was 18 he had acted in several London West End plays, had one of his own produced, had appeared in film, and published some short stories. Before he was 25 he was an international celebrity as an actor and playwright with three plays and a musical running at the same time in the West End.

He changed the course of genteel drama when he was 24 with "The Vortex," such strong theater for its time that the official censor, the Lord Chamberlain, tried to ban it. It dealt with nymphomania, drug addiction and the morbid affection for a son for his mother. "The public are asking for filth," sneered Sir Gerald du Maurier. "A dustbin of a play," sniffed the Daily Express.

By present day standards— not a frontal nude in sight-it was tame, but it was as much a dramatic watershed as John Osborne's "Look Back in Anger" 30 years later. Critics, as usual, were divided over which aspect of Coward came through best, or worst.

His infuriating versatility produced,

"You act much better than you write," said drama critic Hannen Swaffer. "How odd," murmured Noel. "I'm always saying the same thing about you." Coward, who lives in Switzerland and Jamaica, said he was in good health and looking forward "to gently and happily becoming 80." He said he liked pop music partly because it helped inspire a love of music in the young, although bad rhymes in lyrics "set my teeth on edge."

His view is that people come to the theater to be entertained, that reform or enlightenment is not its primary purpose and he had no wish to prove how sad life could be to those who already knew it too well.

"I have a slight reforming urge," he said. "But I've kept it down, cumningly, I Coward skipped back and forth over the decades. He said he wrote "Don't Put Your Daughter on the Stage Mrs. Worthington" less as a warning against a chronically overcrowded profession than "to give myself a jolly good song for a theatrical garden party.

He had his disasters. He was not only booed but spat at after the premiere of 'Sirocco'' in 1927. "It must," he said reminiscently, "have had a great effect to make people act that What would be tell actors today?

"Learn your lines and don't bump into other actors." Writers?

"Write!"

He has total recall. What memory sprang out of a chance meeting in Venice with Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart when he was the guest of Cole Porter. They went back to the palace Porter was using and the four immortals of musical comedy sang each other's songs until dawn.

"A Magical Night," he said softly. Where would the third volume of autobiography take him? "To the grave," said the master.

Stars of the drama will again be Skokie Democrat Edward Warman and, probably, Republican Philip Crane, the man who emerged as 13th District congressmen last week with a 20,000-vote plurality.

Any accolades for the show, though, will have to go to Friday's scene in which Warman sacrificed his Illinois House seat for the sake of the Democratic party. In

The show must go on, even if it is a tired repeat of a Democrat being beaten every two years in the district's congressional race.

> BUT "CLOSE" is not good enough in elections And when Democrats wrote Warman into the script again, it was with full knowledge of odds against their candidate. But politicans, like actors, get paid for making scenes and the party now owes Warman a favor.

Warman said he is not eyeing any other

year at a time.

Without his usual enthusiasm, he spoke positively about "an opportunity to join battle again." He said he thought he would have a better chance to beat Crane on a second round as Crane will then have a legislative record "and won't be able to sliver around as much."

Crane is to be sworn in as U.S Representative Wednesday. Crane bolds his position tenuously, winning his party's nomination by only 21 per cent of the vote in a primary loaded with moderates. A conservative, Crane himself acknowledges he may have another primary fight with a moderate Republican next March.

AND IF Crane is challenged in another primary, you can bet the protagonist will be from the script of the October primary.

It seems rather a shame those who paid to watch the first performance will have to see it again. It had a big cast, a surprise climax and a spellbinding finale. But even at that, it wasn't that great.

Died in Firetrap' by TOM JACHIMIEC

The 11/2-story wood frame building in which two children were killed in a Saturday morning fire in Elk Grove Township was a "firetrap," according to Allen Hulett, Elk Grove Village fire chief.

The building, at 1806 Landmeier Road, was at least 50 years old and in rundown condition, Hulett said. It had only one entrance and two windows of the bedroom were covered with wire screening.

Christine, 3, and Sylvia Arenas, 2, died when fire swept through the room in which the family of seven Spanish Americans was sleeping.

Another child, Mary Ann. 5, a kindergarten student at Mark Hopkins School in Lik Grove Village, was in very critical condition Sunday morning at the burn unit of Cook County Hospital in Chicago. She had burns over 90 per cent of her body.

THE PARENTS, Juan, 29, and his wife, Sulma Arenas, 20, were treated and released Saturday for smoke inhalation, cuts, and minor burns, from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village. They were credited with saving the lives of two of their children, Irene, 1, and Michelle, 4, by carrying them out of the burning building. The children were treated and released Saturday. They escaped through a front entrance of the building after the mother had attempted but failed to break through a window sealed with wire screening. Three Elk Grove Village firemen and three policemen also were admitted to St.

Alexius Hospital. Most seriously injured was firefighter Bernard Goss, who suffered second-degree burns. He has been a fireman less than six

The 20-acre site is northwest of Bode Road and Grand Canyon Parkway. Owner Harold Wilner asked the plan commission Wednesday to recommend zoning for 440 apartments on his property. The request was denied. It will be recommunded tonight that commercial zoning be maintained at the site.

Wilner contends that the R-4 zoning was granted prior to last April's village election. The current administration says the zoning was granted under improper condi-

A COMPROMISE has been worked for over the last month with Wilner offering five acres of land for a municipal building site if the apartment zoning is secured.

The property was eliminated for municipal building use because more than two acres would have to be used for a retention pond to be maintained by the village.

The remaining land offered was felt to be too small for municipal building needs. When asked if he will take the matter to the courts should the village board go along with the plan commission recommendation, Wilner said, "definitely." "WE SHARE and appreciate all problems concerning the site and have tried to bend over backwards," Wilner said ear-

Richard Regan, plan commission chairman, acknowledged that Wilner had made an effort to keep the matter out of the courts through his compromise proposals

Except for Commissioner Ed Kalasa, all the bowling facility fell through long ago.

Another lawsuit will be added to the list present Wednesday voted that the best interest of Hoffman Estates would be served by having the property remain zoned commercial.

Commissioner Carl Shoemaker said with 13,000 apartments already planned for the village, an additional 440 units would only serve to further offset the community's balance.

A GREATER NEED exists for commercial development in Hoffman Estates, Shoemaker added, A check with area bank officials leads Shoemaker to believe the property could profitably be developed for commercial use.

Wilner feels commercial use of the property is unfeasible. Kalasa voted against the other commissioners because he feels commercial development would be difficult due to needs for a retention pond at the site.

Money from Des Plaines Manor would be needed for park, fire department and school use because of demands the apartments would make on those services. Had approval of the apartments been recommended both the plan commission and Wilner felt an equitable donation could have been arranged.

Regan's concern over traffic generated from the Des Plaines Manor site was answered by architect Morton Balaban.

"A TRAFFIC PROBLEM would exist if you put apartments, office buildings or anything else there," Balaban said.

The property was originally designated for a bowling tournament and convention center for 5,000 persons, Wilner said.

Traffic generated by a convention center would far outweigh any made by the apartment proposal, he added. Plans for How Thoughtless?

How thoughtless can you get? I think the answer has been found.

At a recent village board meeting in Hoffman Estates, a resident and his wife told about hunters who have been shooting up their home.

The house is on Williams Road near Howie-In-The-Hills. The hunters, who have been trespassing on the Howie-In-The-Hills property found fit to use the man's occupied home as a backstop for their buck-

THE VICTIMIZED homeowner was quick to commend the Hoffman Estates police department for their cooperation. He asked the board to post no hunting

Feeling that all that could would be done, the man and his wife left the meeting, but not until after "The Mrs.," in a sweet, soft-spoken way, told of how her home has been "pock-marked."

There is more than the property damage involved here. These people are afraid to walk around their own yard for fear of being shot (how is that for sanctuary in Chief John O'Connell promised that anyone caught using a firearm within the village limits will be prosecuted. The chief is a man of his word. Any reader who used Howie-In-The-Hills for hunting fun had best consider himself warned.

The abandoned subdivision is within Hoffman Estates corporate ilmits. I only wonder now what type of person

It is these same people, those who appear responsibile in every other way, for whom gun control laws should be enacted.

One good action might be to have all firearms kept at hunting preserves. Firearms use could then be regulated. Firearms could not be taken from the area and a lot less people would be shot in hunting accidents if properly handled. A lot less people would be shot in their homes as the result of accidents . . . and the siding on one less home would be "pock-marked" in Hoffman Estates.

Buddy said it was so long ago he could hardly remember.

Today Buddy doesn't go in much for tree or house climbing. He spends most of his day at his Mount Prospect home, 216 S. Elmhurst Road, reading "scary" mystery stories, watching television, and helping his mother do housework. Plagued with a kidney problem since he was 5-years-old. Buddy underwent surgery about a year ago to have both of them

WHAT KEEPS BUDDY alive today is an artificial kidney, a quart tank which looks like a glorified washing machine and actually "washes" Buddy's blood.

Five or six hours a day, three times a week Buddy goes through a painful process called "Dialysis" in which he lies by the machine with two lengths of synthetic tubing inserted into his arms. One tube carries this blood to the machine and the other returns "cleansed" blood back into

A small boy with fine, dry hair and a sallow complexion which camouflages his freckles. Buddy is awaiting a donor to give him a kidney and enable him to live a normal life once again.

But a normal life for Buddy may never be, for although a new kidney would relieve his suffering, it won't restore his hearing which was lost threee weeks after

SITTING ON THE carpeted living room floor of Mrs. Arline Braun, 909 Elmdale Road, Glenview, Buddy was surrounded by boxes of Betty Crocker coupons last

The coupons are part of a project under-taken by the Des Plaines Valley chapter of the National Campers and Hikers Association in cooperation with the Kidney Foundation of Illinois.

Mrs Braun, chairman of the local chapter hopes to collect 600,000 coupons, valued at a half-cent each. If collected, the Betty Crocker Co. will pay the sponsoring group

If successful the program would get a kidney detection program started in Illinois. The total aum of $3,000 would provide

"I don't like the hospitals. But they're there to help and there's nothing to do about if if you want to get well. I don't like the shots though."

Undoubtedly, it's a kidney which Buddy wants most for Christmas. While just about everyone in the Skowron family volunteered to be a donor, none of them qualified. A donor must possess skin tissue compatible with Buddy's as well as have the same blood type.

Mrs. Forence Skowron, Buddy's mother, said the wait for a donor is continuous. "Anytime that phone rings it could be it,"

FROM THE TIME Buddy contacted the Skowron recalled that the home was like a "time bomb." Buddy's health deteriorated gradually until a year ago Thanksgiving Day when his kidneys totally stopped functioning and he was rushed to a hospital where they were removed.

He lost his hearing as a result of medication three weeks later.

State aid for persons with Buddy's afflic-tion is restricted to those between the ages of 18 and 50. It was the Mount Prospect Lions Club which donated the $1,700 for the purchase of the artificial kidney which keeps Buddy alive today.

Walter Skowron, Buddy's father, is a tool maker and financing medical aid for his son has been difficult. In one year Skowron used up $20,000 worth of insur-

"YOU BETTER BELIEVE it's been hard," said Mrs. Skowron. "We have no more hospitalization insurance. No company will pick us up."

If Buddy feels any self-pity it doesn't show. He speaks proudly of the things he did before he became ill, although his memory of those times is vague.

"I really didn't like baseball or football that much," he said. "I liked to fish and go camping and I like bugs and insects.

"I knew kids in the hospital with the same problem as me only worse. I'm glad I'm home."

Buddy's concerned as much about the future as relieving his immediate suffer-

Expressway Routing OK Seen Soon

The approval of routing for the Elgin-O'Hare Expressway is expected from Washington before the end of the year, according to Ralph Webner, Dist. 1 Planning Engineer in Elgin.

Nerge Road in Schaumburg.
THE ROUTE THEN RUNS through Roselle to Interstate 90, and follows Thorndale Road through Wood Dale Moody Airnort to Route 63.

District 10 of the Illinois Department of Highways picks up the planning of the expressway from Route 83 through to O'Hare Airport.

"Once the corridor is approved, we will look into minimizing displacements," Wehner said from the Dist. 1 offices.

"We will try to save as many farms and homes as possible," he added. "We will also check different types of interchanges."

Where to use clover leaves, half-clovers and diamonds will be looked into, Wehner said. The district will also attempt to prevent as many road closings as possible.

ALL PROPOSALS FOR the final plans will be presented in public hearing, probably in the summer of 1970, Wehner said. The Line 1, alternate 1-D corridor was agreed to be most acceptable in public hearings held last May. "Schaumburg is too overjoyed that it will come through our big industrial park in the southwest." Mayor Robert Atcher said in May. He approved the Line I endorsement because it presents the least number of problems for the school district, provides one corridor for the highway and power cupancy sometime after the spring of 1970. "This situation," said Horace Luke, president of Dist. 20, "will simply overlines and costs less because it goes

Crane-Warman Rerun'Scheduled Next Year

In case anyone missed last Tuesday's special congressional eelection, don't fret. A rerun is scheduled next November.

Stars of the drama will again be Skokie Democrat Edward Warman and, probably, Republican Philip Crane, the man who emerged as 13th District congressman last week with a 20,000-vote plurality.

Any accolades for the show, though, will have to go to Friday's scene in which Warman sacrificed his Illinois House sent for the sake of the Democratic party. In Warman was reslated to run as 13th District congressman.

The show must go on, even if it is a thred repeat of a Democrat being beaten every two years in the district's congressional race.

FOLLOWING HIS Friday slating, the Skokie attorney acknowledged he will be out of a political job unless he wins next November. He would have been up for reelection as state representative from the Fourth District.

medical care. At least not on a daily basis. They are undergoing physical therapy which hopefully will right most of the damage they suffered in the war.

THEY HOBBLE FROM place to place on crutches, canes and metal leg braces. Or they have their arm in a cast, held by a sling. They are scarred and broken, but petition for disconnection from the park at its meeting Thursday concerning the district.

The provisions cited by Brunswick in it petition list five requirements for disconnection.

- That land in question must not be contiguous in whole or part to any other park

- The property must contain at least 20

- The land cannot be subdivided into municipal lots and blocks. - The land must be located on the border of the park district. - The land's disconnection must not result in the isolation of any part of the park district from the remainder of the district.

Brunswick's petition maintains that the land in question meets all of the requirements. LEVIN SAID FRIDAY, "The only way we (the park district) can contest the petition is by showing that Brunswick is not meeting one of the requirements for disannexation. Otherwise, we're just wasting our time. It's a pretty 'cut and dried' matter. It's my initial feeling that they (Brunswick) have complied with all the Levin said that he planned to make cersuit. He said that attorneys for Brunswick were sending him a copy of the boundaries of the Brunswick property. How much of the approximately 450 acres Brunswick owns is included in the district, Levin did not know.

He said that he planned to wait until he received directions from the park district board before taking any action in the matter. The district is allowed until Dec. 21 to answer the petition.

THE FORMATION OF THE park district was approved by voters in a referendum Sept. 20. However, the boundaries, including the contested Brunswick property, were drawn up last summer. Brunswick has been buying up property in the area for about two years. As yet, the Chicago-based firm has made no official announcement concerning its plans for use of the property. Brunswick officials have hinted, however, that it might be used for some sort of office and research center. A company spokesman said in October that he expected a decision on the ultimate use of the land by the end of the year.

Brunswick, long known for its bowling equipment products, is made up of nine separate divisions.

Board Reactivates 'Green Belt' Plan

the Wheeling Park District is thinking of lush green foliage, warm summer hikes in a forest and bicycling beside a clear tivate the "green belt" proposal for preservation of open space in Wheeling, and has appointed a committee headed by Park Commissioner Robert Ross to look into the program.

Park District Pres. Mrs. Lorraine Lark said the proposal was considered by the district in 1965, but it has been neglected in recent years.

MRS. LARK attributed the proposal to Tom Edwards, a former Herald news editor, who avidly pushed for implementation of the "green belt" in the village. She told the board that Edwards, Dan Owen, Duaine Ainlay and the Wheeling Community Council supported the program five years ago.

The program, although considered important by many civic leaders, was all but forgotten in the rapid growing pains of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

The plan calls for what Edwards described as a "lacework of pedestrian trails raveling through and between area suburbs" which would enable children to walk to school away from and under highways, and would put hiking and bicycle trails throughout villages so they would be near residential sections.

Edwards envisioned canoeing and horseback riding as regular activities for Wheeling's park district.

IN WHEELING and Buffalo Grove the plan was to be carried out along Buffalo Creek and the Wheeling drainage ditch, with utility easements. The Soo Line R.R. right-of-way was also to play a part.

The park board is now calling for a revival of interest in the "green belt." Mrs. Lark emphasized that the plan might have a better chance for success today because the village is working to get easements for its storm water drainage program. She explained that those easements might also be used for the "green belt" open spaces.

In 1965, the village board endorsed the proposal. At that time the board offered to send a village representative to meet with the park district on the plan.

MRS. LARK ALSO suggested that Ross discuss the plan with Matthew Golden, the new village manager, who has emphasized conservation and landscaping in developments since he came to the village in September.

The park president talked of stocking areas along the creek with trees and of extending the nature trails all the way through Wheeling to the Des Plaines River and along the river into county forest preserve trails.

She reminded the commissioners of a canoe trip Edwards and Village Engineer Thomas Moody took down the creek from Emmerich Park in Buffalo Grove to Hintz Road in Wheeling. Moody and Edwards took the trip in September of 1965.

Edwards talked about the pollution of the stream, the beautiful sections which still remained, and the gutted areas where the stream was merely a drainage ditch in a presentation of his proposal to the park district later that year.

WHEELING IS NOT the only park district which may be ready to reactivate the program. In Buffalo Grove, amid the growing pains of establishing a new district, one commissioner talked of a similar plan for sections of Buffalo Grove. In a Herald interview before his election, Val Bettin, park president, said, "The balance of environmental needs of man - once a huxury - has become a necessity. We must provide for ourselves . . . a 'green belt' between our sprawling cities."

Edwards, too, stressed the health aspects of the open space and talked in 1965 about how the plan was needed soon if trees were to remain in between the rows and rows of identical rooftops in new subdivisions. And back in 1965, as Mrs. Lark reminded the park district board recently, he stressed the fact that the nature areas would be "easier to preserve than to re-

Snakes Alive!

Several shoppers at Randhurst Center in Mount Prospect were delayed from completing their chores Friday night when a 6-foot-long boa constrictor was let loose in the mall.

Mount Prospect Police said the snake was placed in a goldfish pond in front of Carson Pirie Scott and Co., about 7:30 p.m. by Tracy Ladd, 18, of 816 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights.

Ladd was arrested by a security guard at the shopping center. He was charged by police with disorderly conduct and his 'pet" was confiscated.

His Christmas Wish Is To Find Kidney Donor

A few years ago, little Walter "Buddy" Skowron could climb a rope without using

"I used to play with kids older than me because I was stronger than kids my " the H-year-old said. "I used to climb houses because the trees were too

Buddy said it was so long ago he could hardly remember.

Today Buddy doesn't go in much for tree or house climbing. He spends most of his day at his Mount Prospect home, 216 S. Elimburst Road, reading "seary" mystery stories watching television, and helping his mother do housework.

Plagued with a kidney problem since he was 5-years-old, Buddy underwent surgery about a year ago to have both of them

WHAT KEEPS BUDDY alive today is an actificial kidney, a quart tank which tooks like a glorified washing machine and actually "washes" Buddy's blood.

Five or six hours a day, three times a week Buddy goes through a painful process called "Dialysis" in which he has by the machine with two lengths of synthetic tubing inserted into his arms. One tube carries this blood to the machine and the other returns "cleansed" blood back into he system be, for although a new kidney would relieve his suffering, it won't restore his hearing which was lost threee weeks after the operation.

Monday, December 1, 1969

SITTING ON THE carpeted living room floor of Mrs. Arline Braun, 909 Elmdale Road, Glenview, Buddy was surrounded by boxes of Betty Crocker coupons last week.

The coupons are part of a project undertaken by the Des Plaines Valley chapter of the National Campers and Hikers Association in cooperation with the Kidney Foundation of Illinois.

Mrs Braun, chairman of the local chapter hopes to collect 666,000 coupons, valued at a half-cent each. If collected, the Betty Crocker Co. will pay the sponsoring group

If successful the program would get a kidney detection program started in Illinois. The total sum of $3,000 would provide test material for 7,500 people.

BUDDY, WHO FULLY realizes the program is too late to help him, has a childlike hope that others will not have to suffer as he has. He enthusiastically makes radio and television appearances in an effort to draw attention to the project

Tired from a lack of blood and scheduled to go through dialysis that evening, Buddy sits on a sofa which dwarfs his size in the Braun home.

He answered questions written on a small pad of paper mechanically — as if be'd been answering the identical ques-

"I would like to have a girl friend," he said, "All the other guys at school have a girl friend and they talk about them all the time What do I do but sit and listen watch. I've never had a firl friend so I don't know if I like girls or not.'

Except for the three days a week Buddy goes to Dempster Junior High School, his days are a continually dreary routine But he hates nights the most.

"THINGS BOTHER ME like my arms and legs and my back," he said, trying not to express the anguish "They itch When morning comes everything goes away and

"I don't like the hospitals. But they're there to help and there's nothing to do about if if you want to get well. I don't like the shots though."

Undoubtedly, it's a kidney which Buddy wants most for Christmas While just about everyone in the Skowron family volunteered to be a donor, none of them qualified. A donor must possess skin tissue compatible with Buddy's as well as have the same blood type.

Mrs. Forence Skowron, Buddy's mother, said the wait for a donor is continuous. "Anytime that phone rings it could be it,"

FROM THE TIME Buddy contacted the disease to the day of the operation. Mrs. Skowron recalled that the home was like a "time bomb" Buddy's health deteriorated gradually until a year ago Thanksgiving Day when his kidneys totally stopped functioning and he was rushed to a hospital

He lost his hearing as a result of medication three weeks later.

State aid for persons with Buddy's affliction is restricted to those between the ages of 18 and 50 It was the Mount Prospect Lions Club which donated the $1,700 for the purchase of the artificial kidney which keeps Buddy alive today

Walter Skowron, Buddy's father, is a tool maker and financing medical aid for his son has been difficult. In one year Skowron used up $20,000 worth of insur-

"YOU BETTER BELIEVE it's been hard," said Mrs Skowron. "We have no more hospitalization insurance. No company will pick us up."

If Buddy feels any self-pity it doesn't show He speaks proudly of the things he did before he became ill, although his memory of those times is vague.

"I really didn't like baseball or football that much," he said. "I liked to fish and go camping and I like bugs and insects.

"I knew kids in the hospital with the same problem as me only worse. I'm glad I'm home.'

Buddy's concerned as much about the future as relieving his immediate suffer-

"I'm going to be a doctor," he said "I don't like giving shots, but at quickly least it's better than collecting coupons. I want to help other people so they won't be

"I don't like to see people hurt."

Mrs. Seaver Joins County School Race

"I have nothing more than the general interest in mlnd," Mrs. Seaver said when asked what special issues she is concerned

Petitions of candidates for three six-year terms on the board must be filed with the county clerk between Dec. 8 and 15. The election will be held on the same date as the primary election next year. March 17.

Candidate petitions must be signed by at least 50 registered voters.

The Cook County Board of School SHE HAS served as PTA president at Trustees has the primary responsibility for overseeing any changes in the boundaries of school districts in Cook County This board is made up of seven persons who serve without pay.

ONLY ONE person may be elected from each township in Cook County to serve on the board.

The board meets four times a year, on the first Monday of January, April, July and October.

Trustees whose terms expire in 1970 are T. W. Thompson, Park Forest, president of the county board of school trustees, A. Roy Neison, Riverdale, and Harry Powell,

Other members presently serving on the board are Mrs. Elsie Jacobsen, Oak Park; James W Dugdale, Evanston; Richard Sheldon, Winnetka, and Joseph Tomasik, Chicago. The terms of Mrs. Jacobsen and Dugdale run until 1972, while the terms of Sheldon and Tomasik expire in 1974.

MRS. SEAVER was asked if her probable candidacy was relevant to the Schaumburg School Study Committee. The independent citizens committee was formed a year ago to investigate the feasibility of separating the village of Schaumburg from Dist. 54

"I can't see where we would benefit by the split. If I do see that Hoffman Estates would not be hurt and Schaumburg would benefit, I would not be opposed," Mrs. Seaver said.

"But no common sense decision can be made," she said of the disannexation proposal. "It is a matter of facts and figures. I have not made any studies on the issue and I have no statement," she added. Mrs Seaver said she was first encouraged to run by Sally Catlin, GOP committeewoman. She is running with the encouragement of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST), said Committeeman Donald Totten. "But this is a nonpartisan election," he added.

"NO ONE tise fromthe area (Schaumburg Township) that I know will be up for the position," Totten said.

He continued that Mrs Seaver "is running because she is interested in school affairs and in representing the Northwest suburban area.'

When questioned about what special interests Mrs. Seaver might represent locally, Totten said, "The only thing is the disandexation proposal that fore the county board."

The committeeman agreed it would be fair to assume that Mrs. Seaver would oppose the disannexation of Schaumburg from Dist. 54.

Draw Up Zoning Law Change

A proposed ordinance permitting the re- congestion there. zoning of property on Center Avenue for use as a parking lot as well as access to the shopping center will be drawn up by

Wheeling's village attorney.

Monday the Wheeling Village Board directed the attorney to draw up the ordinance. The action came in spite of a series of comments from Rudolph Johnson, a zoning board member, who said the rezoning ordinance should be denied. The board must vote on the zoning change ordinance after it is prepared

The zoning change proposal asks residential lots at 302 and 310 E Center Ave., be used for employe parking and to give motorists access to the shopping center from Center Avenue.

Earlier the village's zoning board had denied the proposal through a tle vote.

Golden told the village board he thought the change should be granted: "We are discussing the life and prosperity of the Wheeling Shopping Center " Golden maintained the center needs more parking places to alleviate

IN HIS REMARKS Golden said the board should apply an existing ordinance requiring 25-foot-wide screening between the shopping center and residences "realistically rather than literally.'

The manager revealed he had secured an agreement with the rezoning applicants that the rezoned lots would be used only for access to the shopping center and for employe parking. Also included in the agreement were provisions for six-foothigh screening made up of fencing and shrubbery. Four-foot-high shrubs would be placed along the southern property line on Center Avenue.

Golden wrote in a report to the board that it would be, "impossible to realistically comply with the 25-foot landscaping requirements" at the center. He maintained that enforcing the orginance would defeat the purpose of additional parking spaces. Trustee Ira Bird pointed out to Golden that the problems of screening and rezoning should be considered separately. Bird said if the center needed a viariation from the screening requirements of the ordinance it should apply for that variation. He said that ordinance had to be enforced literally, however.

JOHNSON TOLD THE board such a zoning change would be "spot zoning." He also said that allowing access onto Center Avenue would "change Center Avenue traffic flow, create an arterial traffic flow through a residential district," and would send heavy traffic past Walt Whitman Johnson said the shopping center had asked for employe parking on another residential lot several years ago, and it was granted. He said the number of businesses has not changed since that time. He stressed that the framers of the zoning ordinance had intended that the 25foot-wide buffer zone of greenery around shopping centers should be enforced.

Johnson urged the beerd to "think of the community's welfare" and refuse the zoning change, charging that the rezoning applicants had no intention of complying with the 25-foot-wide screening ordinance if the zoning change was granted.

Board To Hear Bid To Rezone To House Cars

A request to rezone property behind Bodell Cleaners at 577 N. Milwaukee for a sessed automobiles comes up before Wheeling's village board tonight.

The request made by Edgar S Futrell, was recommended for approval by the zoning board, but the board demed by a tie vote an application for a variation so the building could be built up to the lot

VILLAGE MGR. Matthew Golden objected to the development. Golden gave five reasons for his objections. The area was planned for public use; it is inconsist-ent with the residential zoning on rear lots in the area, the land is designated for forest preserve use; the type of business and building would not contribute to the village and there were not adequate guarantees that the business would not create police problems.

The board voted 5 to 1 last week to have the ordinance drawn up. Trustee Ira Bird cast the "no" vote.

Municipal Building Carpeting Approved

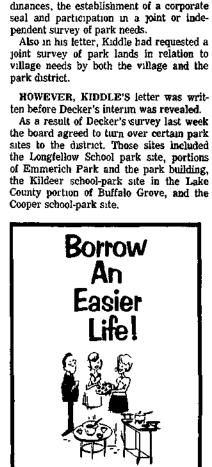

Wheeling's village board accepted a bid of $8,802 15 for carpeting for the new municipal building last week on the recommendation of the village manager.

The successful bidder was Central Rug and Carpet Co. of Evanston. The bid dealt with carpeting office areas of the municipal building. The village board meeting room, the halls and areas of the police station will not be carpeted. Village Mgr. Matthew Golden told the board that costs of maintaining the tile floors had been higher than anticipated.

Crane-Warman 'Rerun' Scheduled Next Year

in case anyone missed last Tuesday's special congressional celection, don't fret. A recun is scheduled next November.

Stars of the drama will again be Skokie Democrat Edward Warman and, probably, Republican Philip Crane, the man who emerged as 13th District congressmen last week with a 20,000-vote plurality.

Any accolades for the show, though, will have to go to Friday's scene in which Warman sacrificed his Illinois House seat for the sake of the Democratic party. In Warman was reslated to run as 13th District congressman.

The show must go on, even if it is a tired repeat of a Democrat being beaten every two years in the district's congressional race.

particular office and will take politics a year at a time.

Without his usual enthusiasm, he spoke positively about "an opportunity to join battle again." He said he thought he would have a better chance to beat Crane on a second round as Crane will then have a legislative record "and won't be able to sliver around as much." Crane is to be sworn in as U.S. Representative Wednesday. Crane holds his position tenuously, winning his party's nomination by only 21 per cent of the vote in a primary loaded with moderates. A conservative. Crane himself acknowledges he may have another primary light with a moderate Republican next March.

AND IF Crane is challenged in another primary, you can bet the protagonist will be from the script of the October primary.

It seems rather a shame those who paid to watch the first performance will have to see it again. It had a big cast, a surprise climax and a spellbinding finale. But even at that, it wasn't that great.

Died in Firetrap' by TOM JACHIMIEC

The 11/2-story wood frame building in which two children were killed in a Saturday morning fire in Elk Grove Township was a "firetrap," according to Allen Hulett, Elk Grove Village fire chief. The building, at 1806 Landmeier Road, was at least 50 years old and in rundown condition, Hulett said. It had only one entrance and two windows of the bedroom were covered with wire screening.

Christine, 3, and Sylvia Arenas, 2, died when fire swept through the room in which the family of seven Spanish Americans was sleeping.

Another child, Mary Ann, 5, a kindergar-Grove Village, was in very critical condition Sunday morning at the burn unit of Cook County Hospital in Chicago. She had burns over 90 per cent of her body.

THE PARENTS, Juan, 20, and his wife, Sulma Arenas, 20, were treated and released Saturday for smoke inhalation, cuts, and minor burns, from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village.

Park Rules Start Today

After six months of deliberation, the Prospect Heights Park District has approved a park ordinance code, which goes

In the three years since the park district was formed, it has operated under a set of ordinances which focused primarily on business procedures and fiscal affairs.

Now the park district has added a new set of ordinances to the original codes. The additions deal with such things as park regulations, park traffic rules and law enforcement in the parks.

THE NEW ORDINANCE code was adapted from existing park district codes in neighboring communities. The ordinances were revised by the district commissioners, the park superintendent and the district's attorney to fit the specific needs of the district.

The new set of ordinances affect residents more directly than the older ones did. For example, the new ordinances prohibit the bringing of cats and dogs into parks. They also prohibit harming any wildlife in the parks.

A resident cannot camp, skate, sled or hold a public meeting on park grounds without written permission from the district. The code also prohibits disorderly conduct, begging, committing assault, gambling and dressing indecently. IN ORDER TO ENFORCE these and other regulations, the code provides for a park police force. For the present, it consists of the park superintendent, commissioners and any other officers appointed. The force can make arrests and issue warnings, but cannot carry weapons. Anvone violating the park regulations may have their park pass or permit forfeited and may be fined up to $200.

The ordinance code also includes regulations that do not concern the residents now, but may as the parks are developed in the future. These regulations concern such things as auto traffic, a recreation center and a lagoon or pond.

Further information concerning the ordinances as well as copies of the code can be obtained at the park district at Highway 83 and Camp McDonald Road.

Outline 3 Laws To Slow Vandals

(Vandalism is a problem that has long plagued Prospect Heights area residents. In this, the last in a series concerning vandalism in Prospect Heights, three Illinois laws dealing with police protection for unincorporated areas are outlined.)

by BETSY BROOKER

Some residents in Prospect Heights have pointed to the low level of police protection provided by the Cook County Sheriff's Police as one of the major factors contributing to vandalism.

The residents are not questioning the quality of the county police, only the quantity. At present, only one squad car patrols Prospect Heights and other unincorporated areas during each eight-hour watch. Three state laws signed by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie last month offer effective deterrents to vandalism for Prospect Heights residents. House Bill 114 provides residents with an opportunity to increase the quantity of police protection they are now receiving. HB 114 PERMITS townships to contract with the county board of commissioners to furnish police protection in unincorporated areas of the township. The county board may declare the unincorporated area a special police district for tax purposes. The tax levied by the township cannot exceed .10 per cent of the value of taxable property.

"Contract policing" has received an enthusiastic response from the Cook County Sheriff's Police. Soon after HB 114 possed, the police department requested the Cook County Board to evaluate the new law and to draw up a contract that might be used.

According to Lt. Donald Ray of Cook County Police, "Contract policing provides a means for those who need added police directly."

"WE WOULD LIKE to find one township that could initiate contract policing and be a model for other townships in the county.

"It is important that the homeowners support the program and possibly encourage their townships to initiate it." added

At a meeting this week, the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations, a group of nine Prospect Heights homeowner associations, decided to contact Ray and invite him to attend the council's January meet-

There are still some questions not answered in the bill, that have to be resolved before the program is tried, according to

One concern is how a township would determine the number of men needed in a specific unincorporated area? And how would a township determine the cost of the added protection, and how much each taxpayer should be charged? ALL OF THESE questions will be answered once the contract is approved. It is possible, said Ray, that the county may survey unincorporated areas to determine the need for additional police protection. The county may also suggest to the townships several means of levying a tax.

Prospect Heights can also receive additional police protection from neighboring municipalities. House Bill 570 permits municipalities to contract with townships to furnish police protection to unincorporated

Wheeling Village Mgr., Matthew Golden. said his village is favorable to discussing the possibility of contract policing with Wheeling Township. However, the cost of such an arrangement and the possibility of carrying it out are uncertain, he said.

His Christmas Wish Is To Find Kidney Donor

A few years ago, little Walter "Buddy" Skowem could chaib a rope without using

Buddy said it was so long ago he could hardly remember.

Today Buddy doesn't go in much for tree or house clambing. He spends most of his day at his Mount Prospect home, 216 S Elmhurst Road, reading "scary" mystery stories, watching television, and helping his mother do housework

Plagued with a kidney problem since he was 5-years old. Buddy underwent surgery about a year ago to have both of them removed

WHAT KEEPS BUDDY alive today is an artificial kidney, a quart tank which tooks like a glorified washing machine and actually "washes" Buddy's blood

Five or six hours a day, three times a week Buddy goes through a painful process called "Dialysis" in which he lies by the machine with two lengths of synthetic tubing inserted into his arms. One tube cacries this blood to the machine and the other returns "cleansed" blood back into be, for although a new kidney would rehere his suffering, it won't restore his hearing which was lost threee weeks after the operation.

Monday, Documber 1, 1969

SITTING ON THE earpeted living room floor of Mrs Arline Braun, 909 Elmdale Road, Glenview, Buddy was surrounded by boxes of Betty Crocker coupons last

The coupons are part of a project undertaken by the Des Plaines Valley chapter of the National Campers and Hikers Association in cooperation with the Kidney Foun-

Mrs Braun, chairman of the local chapter hopes to collect 600,000 coupons, valued at a half-cent each. If collected, the Betty Crocker Co. will pay the sponsoring group

If successful the program would get a kidney detection program started in Illinois. The total sum of $3,000 would provide test material for 7,500 people.

BUDDY, WHO FULLY realizes the program is too late to help him, has a childlike hope that others will not have to suffer as he has He enthusiastically makes radio and television appearances in an effort to draw attention to the project.

Tired from a tack of blood and scheduled to go through dialysis that evening, Buddy sits on a sofa which dwarfs his size in the Braun home

He answered questions written on a small pad of paper mechanically - as if he'd been answering the identical ques-

"I would like to have a girl friend," he said, "All the other guys at school have a girl friend and they talk about them all the time. What do I do but sit and listen watch. I've never had a firt friend so I don't know if I like girls or not."

Except for the three days a week Buddy goes to Dempster Junior High School, his days are a continually dreary toutine. But he hates nights the most

"THINGS BOTHER ME like my arms and legs and my back," he said, trying not to express the anguish "They itch. When morning comes everything goes away and I can sleep.

"I don't like the hospitals But they're there to help and there's nothing to do about if if you want to get well I don't like the shots though "

Undoubtedly, it's a kidney which Buddy wants most for Christmas. While just about everyone in the Skowron family volunteered to be a donor, none of them qualified. A donor must possess skin tissue compatible with Buddy's as well as have the same blood type.

Mrs. Forence Skowron, Buddy's mother, said the wait for a donor is continuous. "Anytime that phone rings it could be it," she said.

FROM THE TIME Buddy contacted the disease to the day of the operation, Mrs Skowron recalled that the home was like a "time bomb." Buddy's health deteriorated gradually until a year ago Thanksgiving Day when his kidneys totally stopped functioning and he was rushed to a hospital

Draw Up Zoning Law Change

A proposed ordinance permitting the rezoning of property on Center Avenue for use as a parking lot as well as access to the shopping center will be drawn up by Wheeling's village attorney

Monday the Wheeling Village Board directed the attorney to draw up the ordinance. The action came in spite of a series of comments from Rudolph Johnson, a zoning board member, who said the rezoning ordinance should be denied. The board must vote on the zoning change ordinance after it is prepared.

The zoning change proposal asks residential lots at 302 and 310 E Center Ave , be used for employe parking and to give motorists access to the shopping center from Center Avenue.

Earlier the village's zoning board had denied the proposal through a tie vote.

Village Mgr. Matthew Golden told the village board he thought the change should be granted: "We are discussing the life and prosperity of the Wheeling Shopping Center." Golden maintained the center needs more parking places to alleviate

IN HIS REMARKS Golden said the board should apply an existing ordinance requiring 25-foot-wide screening between the shopping center and residences "realistically rather than literally."

The manager revealed he had secured an agreement with the rezoning applicants that the rezoned lots would be used only for access to the shopping center and for employe parking. Also included in the agreement were provisions for six-foothigh screening made up of fencing and shrubbery Four-foot-high shrubs would be placed along the southern property line on Center Avenue.

Golden wrote in a report to the board that it would be, "impossible to realistically comply with the 25-foot landscaping 1equirements" at the center. He maintained that enforcing the ordinance would defeat the purpose of additional parking spaces

Trustee Ira Bird pointed out to Golden that the problems of screening and rezoning should be considered separately Bird said if the center needed a viariation from the screening requirements of the ordinance it should apply for that variation He said that ordinance had to be enforced literally, however.

JOHNSON TOLD THE board such a zoning change would be "spot zoning" He also said that allowing access onto Center Avenue would "change Center Avenue traffic flow, create an arterial traffic flow through a residential district." and would send heavy traffic past Walt Whitman Johnson said the shopping center had asked for employe parking on another residential lot several years ago, and it was granted. He said the number of businesses has not changed since that time. He stressed that the framers of the zoning ordinance had intended that the 25-foot-wide buffer zone of greenery around shopping centers should Johnson urged the board to "think of the community's welfare" and refuse the zon-

Board To Hear Bid To Rezone To House Cars

A request to rezone property behind building to house rental, used, and repossessed automobiles comes up before Wheeling's village board tonight.

The request made by Edgar S Futrell, was recommended for approval by the zoning board, but the board denied by a tie vote an application for a variation so the building could be built up to the lot

VILLAGE MGR. Matthew Golden objected to the development Golden gave five reasons for his objections. The area was planned for public use; it is inconsistent with the residential zoning on rear lots in the area; the land is designated for forest preserve use; the type of business and building would not contribute to the village and there were not adequate guarantees that the business would not create police problems.

The board voted 5 to 1 last week to have the ordinance drawn up Trustee Ira Bird cast the "no" vote.

Municipal Building Carpeting Approved

Wheeling's village board accepted a bid of $8,802.15 for carpeting for the new municipal building last week on the recommendation of the village manager. The successful bidder was Central Rug

Stars of the drama will again be Skokie Democrat Edward Warman and, probably, Republican Philip Crane, the man who emerged as 13th District congressman last week with a 20,000-vote plurality.

Firm Seeks Park Disconnection

A suit seeking to disconnect property northeastern portion of the park district. Park District as defendant, was delivered owned by the Brunswick Corp., from the Buffalo Grove Park District has been filed in Lake County Circuit Court.

The property, along Busch Road in unincorporated Lake County, is east of the Buffalo Grove village limits. It is in the

in the area for about two years. As yet, the Chicago-based firm has made no official announcement concerning its plans for use of the property.

Brunswick officials have hinted, however, that it might be used for some sort of office and research center. A company spokesman said in October that he expected a decision on the ultimate use of the land by the end of the year.

Brunswick, long known for its bowling equipment products, is made up of nine separate divisions.

by TOM JACHIMIEC

The 11/2-story wood frame building in which two children were killed in a Saturday morning fire in Elk Grove Township was a "firetrap," according to Allen Hulett, Elk Grove Village fire chief.

The building, at 1806 Landmeier Road, was at least 50 years old and in rundown condition, Hulett said. It had only one entrance and two windows of the bedroom were covered with wire screening.

Christine, 3, and Sylvia Arenas, 2, died when fire swept through the room in which the family of seven Spanish Americans was sleeping. Another child, Mary Ann, 5, a kindergarten student at Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village, was in very critical condition Sunday morning at the burn unit of Cook County Hospital in Chicago. She had burns over 90 per cent of her body. THE PARENTS, Juan, 29, and his wife, Sulma Arcnas, 20, were treated and released Saturday for smoke inhalation, cuts, and minor burns, from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village. They were credited with saving the lives of two of their children, Irene, 1, and Michelle, 4, by carrying them out of the burning building. The children were treated and released Saturday. They escaped through a front entrance of the building after the mother had attempted but failed to break through a window sealed with wire screening. Three Elk Grove Village firemen and

Board Reactivates 'Green Belt' Plan

by ANNE SLAVICEK

It may be cold and blustery outside, but the Wheeling Park District is thinking of lush green foliage, warm summer bikes in a forest and bicycling beside a clear stream.

The park board had decided to reactivate the "green belt" proposal for preservation of open space in Wheeling, and has appointed a committee headed by Park Commissioner Robert Ross to look into the program.

Park District Pres. Mrs. Lorraine Lark said the proposal was considered by the district in 1965, but it has been neglected in recent years.

MRS. LARK attributed the proposal to Tom Edwards, a former Herald news editor, who avidly pushed for implementation of the "green belt" in the village. She told the board that Edwards, Dan Owen, Duaine Ainlay and the Wheeling Community Council supported the program five

The plan calls for what Edwards described as a "lacework of pedestrian trails raveling through and between area suburbs" which would enable children to walk to school away from and under highways, and would put hiking and bicycle trails throughout villages so they would be near residential sections.

Edwards envisioned canoeing and horseback riding as regular activities for Wheeling's park district.

IN WHEELING and Buffalo Grove the plan was to be carried out along Buffalo Creek and the Wheeling drainage ditch, with utility easements. The Soo Line R.R. right-of-way was also to play a part.

The park board is now calling for a revival of interest in the "green belt." Mrs. Lark emphasized that the plan might have a better chance for success today because the village is working to get easements for its storm water drainage program. She explained that those easements might also be used for the "green belt" open spaces. In 1965, the village board endorsed the proposal. At that time the board offered to send a village representative to meet with the park district on the plan.

MRS. LARK ALSO suggested that Ross discuss the plan with Matthew Golden, the new village manager, who has emphasized conservation and landscaping in developments since he came to the village in September. The park president talked of stocking areas along the creek with trees and of extending the nature trails all the way through Wheeling to the Des Plaines River and along the river into county forest preserve trails.

She reminded the commissioners of a canoe trip Edwards and Village Engineer Thomas Moody took down the creek from Emmerich Park in Buffalo Grove to Hintz Road in Wheeling. Moody and Edwards took the trip in September of 1965.

Edwards talked about the pollution of the stream, the beautiful sections which still remained, and the gutted areas where the stream was merely a drainage ditch in a presentation of his proposal to the park district later that year.

WHEELING IS NOT the only park district which may be ready to reactivate the program. In Buffalo Grove, amid the growing pains of establishing a new district, one commissioner talked of a similar plan for sections of Buffalo Grove. In a Herald interview before his election. Val. Bettin, park president, said, "The balance of environmental needs of man - once a luxury - has become a necessity. We must provide for ourselves . . . a 'green belt' between our sprawling cities."

Edwards, too, stressed the health aspects of the open space and talked in 1965 about how the plan was needed soon if trees were to remain in between the rows and rows of identical rooftops in new subdivisions. And back in 1965, as Mrs. Lark reminded the park district board recently, he stressed the fact that the nature areas would be "easier to preserve than to re-

His Christmas Wish Is To Find Kidney Donor

by DAVE PALERMO

A few years ago, little Walter "Buddy" Skowron could climb a rope without using hr. hands

"I used to play with kids older than me because I was stronger than kids my are, the 14-year-old said, "I used to climb houses because the trees were too

Buddy sain it was so long ago he could hardly remember.

Today Buddy doesn't go in much for tree or house climbing. He spends most of his day at his Mount Prospect home, 216 S Elmhurst Road, reading "scary" mystery stories, watching television, and helping his mother do housework.

Plagued with a kidney problem since he was 5 years old. Buddy underwent surgery. about a year ago to have both of them

WHAT REEPS BUDDY alive today is an actificial kidney, a quart tank which tooks like a glorified washing machine and actually 'washes" Buddy's blood

Five or six hours a day, three times a week Buddy goes through a painful process called "Dialysis" in which he has by the machine with two lengths of synthetic tubing inserted into his arms. One tube carries this blood to the maciune and the other returns "cleansed" blood back into-

A small boy with fine, day hair and a sallow complexion which camouflages his freekles. Buddy is awaiting a donor to give him a kidney and enable him to live a

But a normal life for Buddy may never be, for although a new kidney would reheve his suffering, it won't restore his hearing which was lost threee weeks after the operation

SITTING ON THE carpeted living room floor of Mrs. Arline Braun, 909 Elmdale Road, Glenview, Buddy was surrounded by boxes of Betty Crocker coupons last

The coupons are part of a project undertaken by the Des Plaines Valley chapter of the National Compers and Hikers Association in cooperation with the Kidney Foundation of Illinois

Mrs Braun, chairman of the local chapter hopes to collect 600,000 coupons, valued at a hatf-cent each. If collected, the Betty Crocker Co will pay the sponsoring group $3,000.

If successful the program would get a kidney detection program started in Illinois. The total sum of $3,000 would provide test material for 7,500 people.

BUDDY, WHO FULLY realizes the program is too late to help blm, has a childlike hope that others will not have to suffer as he has. He enthusiastically makes radio and television appearances in an effort to draw attention to the project.

Tired from a lack of blood and scheduled to go through dialysis that evening, Buddy sits on a sofa which dwarfs his size in the Braun home

He answered questions written on a small pad of paper mechanically - as if he'd been answering the identical questions all his life said "All the other guys at school have a gul friend and they talk about them all the time. What do I do but sit and listen watch. I've nover had a firl friend so I don't know if I like girls or not."

Except for the three days a week Buddy goes to Dempster Junior High School, his days are a continually dreary routine But he hates mghts the most.

"THINGS BOTHER ME like my arms and legs and my back," he said, trying not to express the anguish "They itch. When morning comes everything goes away and

"I don't like the hospitals But they're there to help and there's nothing to do about if if you want to get well. I don't like the shots though "

Undoubtedly, it's a kidney which Buddy wants most for Christmas While just about everyone in the Skowion family voluntcered to be a donor, none of them qualified. A donor must possess skin tissue compatible with Buddy's as well as have the same blood type.

Mrs. Forence Skowron, Buddy's mother, said the wait for a donor is continuous. "Anytime that phone rings it could be it," she said.

FROM THE TIME Buddy contacted the disease to the day of the operation. Mrs Skowron recalled that the home was like a "time bomb," Buddy's health deteriorated gradually until a year ago Thanksgiving Day when his kidneys totally stopped funcHe lost his hearing as a result of medication three weeks later. State aid for persons with Buddy's affliction is restricted to those between the ages of 18 and 50. It was the Mount Prospect Lions Club which donated the $1,700 for the purchase of the artificial kidney which keeps Buddy alive today.

Walter Skowron, Buddy's father, is a tool maker and imancing medical aid for his son has been difficult. In one year Skowron used up $20,000 worth of insur-

"YOU BETTER BELIEVE it's been hard," said Mrs. Skowron "We have no more hospitalization insurance. No company will pick us up."

If Buddy feels any self-pity it doesn't show. He speaks proudly of the things he did before he became ill, although his memory of those times is vague.

"I really didn't like baseball or football that much," he said. "I liked to fish and go camping and I like bugs and insects.

"I knew kids in the hospital with the same problem as me only worse. I'm glad I'm home."

Buddy's concerned as much about the future as reheving his immediate suffer-

"I'm going to be a doctor," he said quickly. "I don't like giving shots, but at least it's better than collecting coupons. I want to help other people so they won't be

Board To Hear Bid To Rezone To House Cars

A request to rezone property behind Bodell Cleaners at 577 N. Milwaukee for a building to house rental, used, and repossessed automobiles comes up before Wheeling's village board tonight.

The request made by Edgar S. Futrell, was recommended for approval by the zoning board, but the board demed by a tie vote an application for a variation so the building could be built up to the lot

VILLAGE MGR. Matthew Golden objected to the development. Golden gave five reasons for his objections: The area was planned for public use; it is inconsistent with the residential zoning on rear lots in the area; the land is designated for forest preserve use; the type of business and building would not contribute to the village and there were not adequate guarantees that the business would not create police

The board voted 5 to 1 last week to have the ordinance drawn up. Trustee Ira Bird cast the "no" vote.

Municipal Building Carpeting Approved

Wheeling's village board accepted a bid of $8,802.15 for carpeting for the new municipal building last week on the recommendation of the village manager.

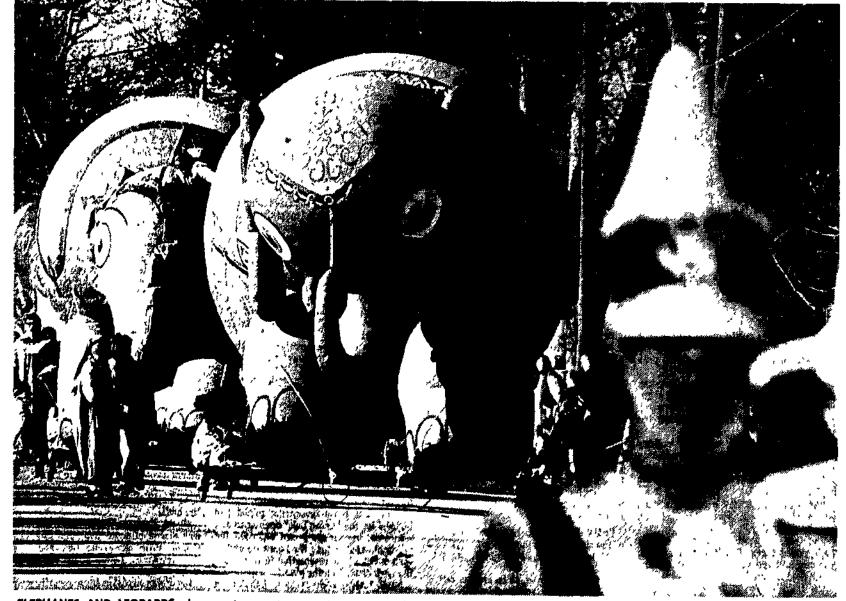

The successful bidder was Central Rug and Carpet Co. of Evanston. The bid dealt with carpeting office areas of the municipal building. The village board meeting room, the halfs and areas of the police station will not be carpeted. Village Mgr. Matthew Golden told the board that costs of maintaining the tile floors had been higher than anticipated.

Crane-Warman 'Rerun' Scheduled Next Year

In case anyone missed last Tuesday's special congressional celection, don't fret. A rerun is scheduled next November.

Stars of the drama will again be Skokie Democrat Edward Warman and, probably, Republican Philip Crane, the man who emerged as 13th District congressman last week with a 20,000-vote plurality.

Any accolades for the show, though, will have to go to Friday's scene in which Warman sacrificed his Illinois House seat for the sake of the Democratic party. In absence of any other willing candidate, Warman was reslated to run as 13th District congressman.

The show must go on, even if it is a thred repeat of a Democrat being beaten every two years in the district's congressional race.

FOLLOWING HIS Friday slating, the Skokie attorney acknowledged he will be out of a political job unless he wins next November. He would have been up for reelection as state representative from the Fourth District.

admitted, asked if he had wanted another chance at being congressman. "But the committeemen asked me to run and they convinced me it would be good for me and the party.

year at a time.

Without his usual enthusiasm, he spoke positively about "an opportunity to join battle again." He said he thought he would have a better chance to beat Crane on a second round as Crane will then have a legislative record "and won't be able to sliver around as much."

Crane is to be sworn in as U.S. Representative Wednesday. Crane holds his position tenuously, winning his party's nomination by only 21 per cent of the vote in a primary loaded with moderates. A conservative, Crane himself acknowledges he may have another primary fight with a moderate Republican next March.

AND IF Crane is challenged in another primary, you can bet the protagonist will be from the script of the October primary. It seems rather a shame those who paid to watch the first performance will have to see it again. It had a big cast, a surprise climax and a spellbinding finale. But even at that, it wasn't that great.

Mugalian promises to revitalize the county and state Democratic organizations, to the important issues of our time.

firm of Wooster, Mugalian and Klingner. He served as village attorney for Palatine from 1961 to 1967 and has been attorney for several other local governing bodies. IN ANNOUNCING his candidary, he said the practice of the Palatine Democratic organization "has been to exclude volunteers; the closed-door policy is known to everyone." "By broadening participation the local organization will be required to take an interest in programs and policies. On the other hand, when the party begins to show an interest in issues, it will attract as volunteer workers citizens who are fed up with politics as usual." he said.

"If you want non-payrollers to ring doorbells, you have to assure them that they can have a voice in party matters," Mugalian said. "My goals reinforce each other. The party will be stronger, larger and more effective in serving the needs of the people."

HE SAID HE does not consider himself an "anti-Daley" Democrat, because the "issue is not Mayor Daley. It is whether the township organization will remain a s m a l l patronage-based group or whether it will become an expanding, unbossed unit of the Democratic Party. Mayor Daley does not speak for Palatine Township, nor to my knowledge has he ever said he would."

·Mugalian said he has "great respect" for New Trier Township Democratic Committeeman Lynn Williams, who has frequently taken stands opposing Mayor Daley and who has brought his township Democratic strength from 26th to 5th in Cook County in four years.

"I believe that reform, improvement, call it what you will, is sorely needed at all levels of government and certainly in the way local and county political organizations have operated," he said, "and I have great respect for Williams and I think that our goals and methods are sim-

MUGALIAN SAID he was confident of victory in March, and added that many voters are reluctant to declare a party preference in primaries "and this gives an initial advantage to one who relies on pa-

"I will not seek, nor will I accept, a patronage job," Mugalian said.

SANTA CAME TO Palatine Saturday as the major participant in the village's first annual Christmas parade. Festivities began at Palatine High School, where the American Legion color guard led off the parade. A highlight of the

'Firetrap Killed 2 Girls'

by TOM JACHIMIEC

The 11/2-story wood frame building in which two children were killed in a Saturday morning fire in Elk Grove Township was a "firetrap," according to Allen Hulett, Elk Grove Village fire chief.

The building, at 1806 Landmeier Road, was at least 50 years old and in rundown condition, Hulett said. It had only one entrance and two windows of the bedroom were covered with wire screening.

Christine, 3, and Sylvia Arenas, 2, died when fire swept through the room in which the family of seven Spanish Americans was sleeping. Another child, Mary Ann, 5, a kindergarten student at Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village, was in very critical condition Sunday morning at the burn unit of Cook County Hospital in Chicago. She had burns over 90 per cent of her body.

THE PARENTS, Juan, 29, and his wife, Sulma Arenas, 20, were treated and released Saturday for smoke inhalation, cuts, and minor burns, from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village. They were credited with saving the lives of two of their children, Irene, 1, and

They escaped through a front entrance of the building after the mother had attempted but failed to break through a window sealed with wire screening.

Three Elk Grove Village firemen and three policemen also were admitted to St. Alexius Hospital.

Most seriously injured was firefighter Bernard Goss, who suffered second-degree burns. He has been a fireman less than six

So, taxpayers, hold your breath. The worst could still be coming.

All those apartments means about 1,200 school children, enough to fill two new grade schools.

The accepted formula for figuring the number of schoolage children living in apartments is .3 for every dwelling unit.

But to think Dist. 15's enrollment will only jump 1,200 students within the next few years is absurd. We must remember all the new subdivisions presently under construction or proposed in both Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

The most immediate crisis obviously is overcrowded schools. Even if a new school is opened every year, the district could not keep pace with such fantastic growth in

Besides, it takes a lot of money to meet the demands of a schedule like that. Unless there are fantastic increases in state aid and sizable rises in assessed valuation, local school taxes can only go in one direc-

As serious as money is, there's a bigger problem which has to be solved before any of the others are. Even if Dist. 15 was the richest district in the state and had unlimited funds, the need for places to build schools would still exist.

School sites are not a dime a dozen. District officials have not run into too many philanthropers anxious for the opportunity to donate to education.

Even with the money, desirable locations for schools are not easy to find.

To add to school officials' headaches, developers of most new projects make use of every available square foot in their developments. Usually, there isn't any land near the projects large enough for a school, even if Dist. 15 would be willing to

There's no reason to doubt that approval will be given for all three projects and quicker than the referendum ballots can be prepared, 1,200 school children will be knocking on Dist. 15's doors.

Rolling Meadows will also order more salt if conditions call for it. It takes about 25 lons of salt to go around the city once.

His Christmas Wish Is To Find Kidney Donor

by DAVE PALERMO

A few years ago, little Walter "Buddy" Skowron could climb a rope without using hi, hands.

"I used to play with kids older than me because I was stronger than kids my age," the 14-year-old said. "I used to climb houses because the trees were too easy."

Buddy said it was so long ago he could hardly remember.

Today Buddy doesn't go in much for tree or house climbing. He spends most of his day at his Mount Prospect home, 216 S. Elmhurst Road, reading "scary" mystery stories, watching television, and helping his mother do housework.

Plagued with a kidney problem since he was 5-years-old, Buddy underwent surgery about a year ago to have both of them

week Buddy goes through a painful process called "Dialysis" in which he lies by the machine with two lengths of synthetic tubing inserted into his arms. One tube carries this blood to the machine and the other returns "cleansed" blood back into

A small boy with fine, dry hair and a sallow complexion which camouflages his freckles, Buddy is awaiting a donor to give him a kidney and enable him to live a normal life once again.

But a normal life for Buddy may never be, for although a new kidney would relieve his suffering, it won't restore his hearing which was lost threec weeks after the operation.

SITTING ON THE carpeted living room floor of Mrs. Arline Braun, 909 Elmdale Road, Glenview, Buddy was surrounded by boxes of Betty Crocker coupons last

The coupons are part of a project undertaken by the Des Plaines Valley chapter of the National Campers and Hikers Associ-

Mrs Braun, chairman of the local chapter hopes to collect 600,000 coupons, valued at a half-cent each. If collected, the Betty Crocker Co. will pay the sponsoring group

If successful the program would get a kidney detection program started in Illinois. The total sum of $3,000 would provide test material for 7,500 people.

BUDDY, WHO FULLY realizes the program is too late to help him, has a childlike hope that others will not have to suffer as he has. He enthusiastically makes radio and television appearances in an effort to draw attention to the project.

Tired from a lack of blood and scheduled to go through dialysis that evening, Buddy sits on a sofa which dwarfs his size in the Braun home.

He answered questions written on a small pad of paper mechanically — as if he'd been answering the identical questions all his life.

'I would like to have a girl (riend." he Five or six hours a day, three times a ation in cooperation with the Kidney Foun- said. "All the other guys at school have a girl friend and they talk about them all the time. What do I do but sit and listen watch. I've never had a firl friend so I don't know if I like girls or not."

Except for the three days a week Buddy goes to Dempster Junior High School, his days are a continually dreary routine. But he hates nights the most.

"THINGS BOTHER ME like my arms and legs and my back," he said, trying not to express the anguish. "They itch, When morning comes everything goes away and I can sleep.

"I don't like the hospitals. But they're there to help and there's nothing to do about if if you want to get well. I don't like the shots though."

Undoubtedly, it's a kidney which Buddy wants most for Christmas. While just about everyone in the Skowron family volunteered to be a donor, none of them qualified. A donor must possess skin tissue compatible with Buddy's as well as have the same blood type.

Mrs. Forence Skowron, Buddy's mother, said the wait for a donor is continuous. "Anytime that phone rings it could be it,"

FROM THE TIME Buddy contacted the disease to the day of the operation, Mrs. Skowron recalled that the home was like a "time bomb." Buddy's health deteriorated gradually until a year ago Thanksgiving Day when his kidneys totally stopped functioning and he was rushed to a hospital where they were removed.

He lost his hearing as a result of medication three weeks later.

State aid for persons with Buddy's affliction is restricted to those between the ages of 18 and 50. It was the Mount Prospect Lions Club which donated the $1,700 for the purchase of the artificial kidney which keeps Buddy alive today.

Walter Skowron, Buddy's father, is a tool maker and financing medical aid for his son has been difficult. In one year Skowron used up $20,000 worth of insur-

"YOU BETTER BELIEVE it's been hard," said Mrs. Skowron. "We have no more hospitalization insurance. No company will pick us up."

If Buddy feels any self-pity it doesn't show. He speaks proudly of the things he did before he became ill, although his memory of those times is vague.

"I really didn't like baseball or football that much," he said. "I liked to fish and go camping and I like bugs and insects.

"I knew kids in the hospital with the same problem as me only worse. I'm glad I'm home."

Buddy's concerned as much about the future as relieving his immediate suffer-

"I don't like to see people hurt."

Crane-Warman Rerun'Scheduled Next Year

In case anyone missed last Tuesday's special congressional celection, don't frot.

A cerun is scheduled next November. Stars of the drama will again be Skokie Democrat Edward Warman and, probably, Republican Philip Crane, the man who emerged as 13th District congressman last week with a 20,000-vote plurality. Any accolades for the show, though, will have to go to Friday's scene in which Warman sacrificed his Illinois House seat for the sake of the Democratic party. In absence of any other willing candidate, Warman was resiated to run as 13th District congressman.

The show must go on, even if it is a tired repeat of a Democrat being beaten every two years in the district's congressional race. FOLLOWING HIS Friday slating, the Skokie attorney acknowledged he will be out of a political job unless he wins next November. He would have been up for reelection as state representative from the Fourth District.

"I can't say I asked for it," Warman admitted, asked if he had wanted another chance at being congressman. "But the committeemen asked me to run and they convinced me it would be good for me and the party.

BUT "CLOSE" is not good enough in elections. And when Democrats wrote Warman into the script again, it was with full knowledge of odds against their candidate. But politicans, like actors, get paid for making scenes and the party now owes Warman a favor.

year at a lime.

Without his usual enthusiasm, he spoke positively about "an opportunity to join battle again." He said he thought he would have a better chance to beat Cranc on a second round as Crane will then have a legislative record "and won't be able to sliver around as much."

Crane is to be sworn in as U.S. Representative Wednesday, Crane holds his position tenuously, winning his party's nomination by only 21 per cent of the vote in a primary loaded with moderates. A conservative, Crane himself acknowledges he may have another primary fight with a moderate Republican next March.

AND IF Crane is challenged in another primary, you can bet the protagonist will be from the script of the October primary.

It seems rather a shame those who paid to watch the first performance will have to see it again. It had a big cast, a surprise climax and a spellbinding finale. But even at that, it wasn't that great.

Mugalian In Committee Race

Richard A. Mugalian of Palatine, the challenger in next spring's race for Palatine Township Democratic committeeman, has pledged a three-point program if he's Mugalian promises to revitalize the township Democratic Party, to open the party to everyone and minimize the influence of patronage, and to direct the attentions of the local party, as well as the county and state Democratic organizations, to the important issues of our time.

Mugalian, whose candidacy had been expected, formally announced this weekend that he is challenging Committeeman Peter J. Gerling for the position. Gerling already has announced his candidacy and has been endorsed by the Regular Democratic Organization of Palatine Township. MUGALIAN WAS a candidate for committeeman in 1966 in a three-man race. He and John Rafferty of Rolling Meadows were defeated by Oliver Dilks. Dilks resigned in 1968 and Gerling was appointed to fill the remaining two years of his term, Nominating petitions for the March 17 election must be filed between Dec. 8 and Mugalian, 47, is an attorney with the firm of Wooster, Mugalian and Klingner. He served as village attorney for Palatine from 1961 to 1967 and has been attorney for several other local governing bodies. IN ANNOUNCING his candidacy, he said the practice of the Palatine Democratic organization "has been to exclude volunteers; the closed-door policy is known to everyone." "By broadening participation the local organization will be required to take an interest in programs and policies. On the other hand, when the party begins to show an interest in issues, it will attract as volunteer workers citizens who are fed up with politics as usual." he said. "If you want non-payrollers to ring doorbells, you have to assure them that they can have a voice in party matters," Mugalian said: "My goals reinforce each other. The party will be stronger, larger and more effective in serving the needs of the people."

HE SAID HE does not consider himself an "anti-Daley" Democrat, because the "issue is not Mayor Daley. It is whether the township organization will remain a s mail patronage-based group or whether it will become an expanding, unbossed unit of the Democratic Party. Mayor Daley does not speak for Palatine Township, nor to my knowledge has he ever said he would.'

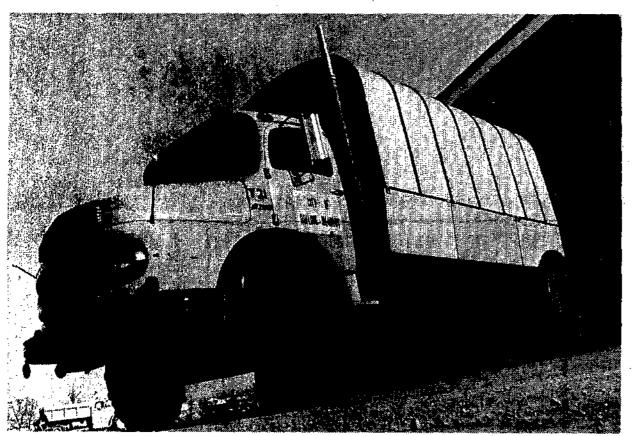

Mugalian said he has "great respect" for New Trier Township Democratic Committeeman Lynn Williams, who has frequently taken stands opposing Mayor Daley and who has brought his township Democratic strength from 26th to 5th in Cook County in four years.

"I believe that reform, improvement, call it what you will, is sorely needed at all levels of government and certainly in the way local and county political organizations have operated," he said, "and I have great respect for Williams and I think that our goals and methods are sim-

MUGALIAN SAID he was confident of victory in March, and added that many voters are reluctant to declare a party preference in primaries "and this gives an initial advantage to one who relies on patronage workers to get the vote out."

When was the last time the Democratic committeeman made a statement about any public issue? A committeeman whose interest is in what kind of patronage job he can get is not going to inspire the confidence of most Democrats in this area.

"I will not seek, nor will I accept, a patronage job," Mugalian said.

Firetrap Killed 2 Girls'

by TOM JACHIMIEC

The 1½-story wood frame building in which two children were killed in a Saturday morning fire in Elk Grove Township was a "firetrap," according to Allen Hu-lett, Elk Grove Village fire chief.

The building, at 1806 Landmeier Road, was at least 50 years old and in rundown condition. Hulett said. It had only one entrance and two windows of the bedroom were covered with wire screening.

Christine, 3, and Sylvia Arenas, 2, died when fire swept through the room in which the family of seven Spanish Americans

Another child, Mary Ann, 5, a kindergarten student at Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village, was in very critical condition Sunday morning at the burn unit of Cook County Hospital in Chicago. She had burns over 90 per cent of her body.

THE PARENTS, Juan, 29, and his wife, Sulma Arenas, 20, were treated and released Saturday for smoke inhalation, cuts, and minor burns, from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village.

They were credited with saving the lives of two of their children, Irene, I, and Michelle, 4, by carrying them out of the burning building. The children were treated and released Saturday.

They escaped through a front entrance of the building after the mother had attempted but failed to break through a window sealed with wire screening.

Three Elk Grove Vülage firemen and three policemen also were admitted to St. Alexius Hospital.

Most seriously injured was firefighter Bernard Goss, who suffered second-degree burns. He has been a fireman less than six Students Coming!

Within the next three to four years, it's possible there will be more than 4,000 new apartments within the boundaries of Palatine-Rolling Meadows Elementary School

So, taxpayers, hold your breath The worst could still be coming

All those apartments means about 1,200 school children, enough to fill two new grade schools

The accepted formula for figuring the number of schoolage children living in apartments is .3 for every dwelling unit.

But to think Dist 15's enrollment will only jump 1 200 students within the next few years is absurd. We must remember all the new subdivisions presently under construction or proposed in both Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

The most immediate crisis obviously is overcrowded schools. Even if a new school is opened every year, the district could not keep pace with such fantastic growth in the area

Besides, it takes a lot of money to meet the demands of a schedule like that. Unless there are fantastic increases in state and and sizable rises in assessed valuation, local school taxes can only go in one direchon - up

As serious as money is, there's a bigger problem which has to be solved before any of the others are. Even if Dist. 15 was the richest district in the state and had unlimited funds, the need for places to build schools would still exist

School sites are not a dime a dozen. District officials have not run into too many philanthropers anxious for the opportunity to donate to education.

Even with the money, desirable locations for schools are not easy to find.

To add to school officials' headaches, developers of most new projects make use of every available square foot in their developinents. Usually, there isn't any land near the projects large enough for a school, even if Dist 15 would be willing to pay a premium price.

within school boundaries will be built in unincorporated territory. That means the school district's bargaining power for a site is lessened Legally, the school district has no legal power to negotiate for a site, no matter where a development is located, but when projects are built within municipal boundaries, there's a greater tendency for developers to consider a contribution to the loeat community.

Two of the most recently proposed projects were presented to the Cook County zoning board tast week. Just north of Palatine at Rand and Baldwin roads is the site of a potential 2,000 apartments. Builders said the project could be completed within four years.

Planned for the nine-hole golf course on Northwest Highway at Thicks is 1,350

Local developer, Lou Draper will go before the zoning board in a couple of weeks with his plan for more than 1,000 apartments in the Countryside development and Baldwin and Colfax streets

There's no reason to doubt that approval will be given for all three projects and mulcker than the referendum ballots can be prepared, 1,200 school children will be knocking on Dist. 15's doors.

Crane-Warman 'Rerun' Scheduled Next Year

In case anyone missed last Tuesday's special congressional celection, don't frot. A rerun is scheduled next November.

Stars of the drama will again be Skokie Democrat Edward Warman and, probably, Republican Philip Crane, the man who emerged as 13th District congressman last week with a 20,000-vote plurality.

Any accolades for the show, though, will have to go to Friday's scene in which Warman sacrificed his Illinois House seat for the sake of the Democratic party. In absence of any other willing candidate, Worman was reslated to run as 13th District congressman.

The show must go on, even if it is a tired repeat of a Democrat being beaten every two years in the district's congressional race.

FOLLOWING HIS Friday slating, the Skokie attorney acknowledged he will be out of a political job unless he wins next November. He would have been up for reelection as state representative from the Fourth District.

"I can't say I asked for it," Warman admitted, asked if he had wanted another chance at being congressman "But the committeemen asked me to run and they convinced me it would be good for me and the party.

"I agreed I was probably the best candidate around." He laughed weakly Three days before, he had been optimistic about a Democrat capturing the seat of former Congressman Donald Rumsfeld, though a Democrat has not occupied the office for a reported 100 years. By taking 42 per cent of the vote cast Tuesday, Warman came closer to Washington D C., than any of his party has in several elec-

Warman said he is not eyeing any other

Without his usual enthusiasm, he spoke positively about "an opportunity to join battle again." He said he thought he would have a better chance to beat Crane on a second round as Crane will then have a legislative record "and won't be able to sliver around as much."

Crane is to be sworn in as US Representative Wednesday. Crane holds his position tenuously, winning his party's nomination by only 21 per cent of the vote in a primary loaded with moderates. A conservative. Crane himself acknowledges he may have another primary fight with a moderate Republican next March.

AND 1F Crane is challenged in another primary, you can bet the protagonist will be from the script of the October primary.

It seems rather a shame those who paid to watch the first performance will have to see it again. It had a big cast, a surprise climax and a spellbinding finale. But even at that, it wasn't that great.

WINNETKA Republican Philip Crane will be trying the White House on for size Monday as he flies into Washington, D.C. to set up a congressional office. He is to be sworn in as U.S. Representative from Illinois' 13th District about 1 p.m. (Chicago time) Wednesday. Republicans had hoped Crane would be an official member of Congress in time today to vote on a House resolution supporting Pres. Richard M. Nixon's Vietnam policy.

by TOM JACHIMIEC

The 11/2-story wood frame building in which two children were killed in a Saturday morning fire in Elk Grove Township was a "firetrap," according to Allen Hulett, Elk Grove Village fire chief.

The building, at 1806 Landmeier Road, was at least 50 years old and in rundown condition, Hulett said. It had only one entrance and two windows of the bedroom were covered with wire screening.

Christine, 3, and Sylvia Arenas, 2, died when fire swept through the room in which the family of seven Spanish Americans

Another child, Mary Ann, 5, a kindergarten student at Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village, was in very critical condition Sunday morning at the burn unit of Cook County Hospital in Chicago. She had burns over 90 per cent of her body.

THE PARENTS. Juan. 29, and his wife, Sulma Arenas, 20, were treated and released Saturday for smoke inhalation, cuts, and minor burns, from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village.

They were credited with saving the lives of two of their children, Irene, 1, and Michelle, 4, by carrying them out of the burning building. The children were treated and released Saturday. They escaped through a front entrance of the building after the mother had attempted but failed to break through a window scaled with wire screening. Three Elk Grove Viilage firemen and three policemen also were admitted to St. Alexius Hospital. Most seriously injured was firefighter Bernard Goss. who suffered second-degree burns. He has been a fireman less than six (Continued on Page 10)

Two new policemen, Ted Gorski, 25, of Wheeling and Tom Jacobi, 30, of Des Plaines, were sworn in Friday, and, including the two men who received badges two weeks ago, they bring the number of new officers to four.

The new men, who bring the total strength of the Mount Prospect Police Department to 34, will spend the next few weeks with a senior officer to get acquainted with the community On Jan. 12 they will go through four to six weeks of "schooling" before assuming their regular Esmond, while pleased with the new officers, felt the additions were not sufficient.

"TWO OF the new men replaced two that left," he said. "These two men are the only real additions to the force." According to Esmond, the total force of 34 men falls about 11 men short, "We fall way below the national average in relation to towns of our dimension. The average town of 35,000 has an average of 1.4 officers for every 1,000 people. That means we should have 45 police officers

Mount Prospect has a population of about 33,000.

Barnett, while agreeing the force needs to be beefed up, felt the national average misleading.

"The national average is meaningless," he said, "It changes so often and some towns need more police protection than others. It's kind of a misleading thing."

EQUIPMENT NEEDS are also being taken into consideration in evaluating the department. There are presently six patrol cars and two unmarked squads, which Esmond said are used by the detectives.

"I think we should have one more car for service and one more on the side in case one of the cars is taken out of action," said the police chief.

The force now is separated into three shifts with eight men to a shift. Of the eight men, only five are actually on patrol throughout the community, according to

Esmond. Esmond added that when one or two officers call in sick, the force is seriously weakened. The rest of the police department, beside the three regular shifts, are composed of the chief, a radioman, a policewoman, a juvenile officer and three

Christmas Dream Is for New Kidney

by DAVE PALERMO

A few years ago, little Walter "Buddy" Skowron could climb a rope without using hi. hands.

"I used to play with kids older than me because I was stronger than kids my age," the 14-year-old said, "I used to climb houses because the trees were too

Buddy said it was so long ago he could hardly remember. Today Buddy doesn't go in much for tree or house climbing. He spends most of his day at his Mount Prospect home, 216 S. Elmhurst Road, reading "scary" mystery stories, watching television, and helping his mother do housework.

Plagued with a kidney problem since he was 5-years-old, Buddy underwent surgery about a year ago to have both of them

WHAT KEEPS BUDDY alive today is an artificial kidney, a quart tank which looks like a glorified washing machine and actually "washes" Buddy's blood.

Five or six hours a day, three times a week Buddy goes through a painful process called "Dialysis" in which he lies by the machine with two lengths of synthetic tubing inserted into his arms. One tube carries this blood to the machine and the other returns "cleansed" blood back into his system

A small boy with fine, dry hair and a sallow complexion which camouflages his freckles, Buddy is awaiting a donor to give him a kidney and enable him to live a normal life once again.

But a normal life for Buddy may never be, for although a new kidney would relieve his suffering, it won't restore his hearing which was lost threee weeks after the operation.

One hospital spokesman said, "We once SITTING ON THE carpeted living room floor of Mrs. Arline Braun, 908 Elmdale Road, Glenview, Buddy was surrounded kidney detection program started in Illinois. The total sum of $3,000 would provide test material for 7,500 people.

BUDDY, WHO FULLY realizes the program is too late to help him, has a childlike hope that others will not have to suffer as he has. He enthusiastically makes radio and television appearances in an effort to draw attention to the project.

Tired from a lack of blood and scheduled to go through dialysis that evening, Buddy sits on a sofa which dwarfs his size in the Braun home.

He answered questions written on a small pad of paper mechanically - as if he'd been answering the identical questions all his life.

"I would like to have a girl friend," he said. "All the other guys at school have a girl friend and they talk about them all the time. What do I do but sit and listen watch. I've never had a firl friend so I don't know if I like girls or not."

Except for the three days a week Buddy goes to Demoster Junior High School, his days are a continually dreary routine. But he hates nights the most.

"THINGS BOTHER ME like my arms and legs and my back," he said, trying not to express the anguish. "They itch. When morning comes everything goes away and I can sleep.

Crane-Warman 'Rerun' Scheduled Next Year

In case anyone missed last Tuesday's special congressional celection, don't fret. A rerun is scheduled next November. Stars of the drama will again be Skokie Democrat Edward Warman and, probably, Republican Philip Crane, the man who emerged as 13th District congressman last week with a 20,000-vote plurality.

Any accolades for the show, though, will have to go to Friday's scene in which Warman sacrificed his Illinois House seat for the sake of the Democratic party. In absence of any other willing candidate, Warman was reslated to run as 13th District congressman.

The show must go on, even if it is a tired repeat of a Democrat being beaten every two years in the district's congressional race.

FOLLOWING INS Friday slating, the Skokie attorney acknowledged he will be out of a political job unless he wins next November. He would have been up for reelection as state representative from the Fourth District.

"I can't say I asked for it," Warman 42 per cent of the vote cast Tuesday, admitted, asked if he had wanted another chance at being congressman. "But the committeemen asked me to run and they convinced me it would be good for me and the party. "I agreed I was probably the best candidate around." He laughed weakly.

by TOM JACHIMIEC

The 11/2-story wood frame building in which two children were killed in a Saturday morning fire in Elk Grove Township was a "firetrap," according to Allen Hulett, Elk Grove Village fire chief.

The building, at 1806 Landmeler Road, was at least 50 years old and in rundown condition, Hulett said. It had only one entrance and two windows of the bedroom were covered with wire screening.

Christine, 3, and Sylvia Arenas, 2, died when fire swept through the room in which the family of seven Spanish Americans Another child, Mary Ann, 5, a kindergarten student at Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village, was in very critical condition Sunday morning at the burn unit of Cook County Hospital in Chicago. She had burns over 90 per cent of her body.

THE PARENTS, Juan, 29, and his wife, Sulma Arenas, 20, were treated and released Saturday for smoke inhalation, cuts, and minor burns, from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village.

They were credited with saving the lives of two of their children, Irene, 1, and Michelle, 4, by carrying them out of the burning building. The children were treated and released Saturday.

They escaped through a front entrance of the building after the mother had attempted but failed to break through a window sealed with wire screening. Three Elk Grove Vulage firemen and three policemen also were admitted to St. Alexius Hospital. Most seriously injured was firefighter

Two new policemen, Ted Gorski, 25, of Wheeling and Tom Jacobi, 30, of Des Plaines, were sworn in Friday, and, including the two men who received badges two weeks ago, they bring the number of new officers to four.

The new men, who bring the total strength of the Mount Prospect Police Department to 34, will spend the next few weeks with a senior officer to get acquainted with the community. On Jan. 12 they will go through four to six weeks of "schooling" before assuming their regular Esmond, while pleased with the new officers, felt the additions were not sufficient.

"TWO OF the new men replaced two that left," he said. "These two men are the only real additions to the force,"

According to Esmond, the total force of 34 men falls about 11 men short.

"We fall way below the national average in relation to towns of our dimension. The average town of 35,000 has an average of 14 officers for every 1,000 people That means we should have 45 police officers

Mount Prospect has a population of about 33,000.

Barnett, while agreeing the force needs to be beefed up, felt the national average misleading.

"The national average is meaningless," he said. "It changes so often and some towns need more police protection than others. It's kind of a misleading thing."

EQUIPMENT NEEDS are also being taken into consideration in evaluating the department. There are presently six patrol cars and two unmarked squads, which Esmond said are used by the detectives.

"I think we should have one more car for service and one more on the side in case one of the cars is taken out of action," said the police chief.

The force now is separated into three shifts with eight men to a shift. Of the eight men, only five are actually on patrol throughout the community, according to Esmond.

Esmond added that when one or two officers call in sick, the force is seriously weakened. The rest of the police department, beside the three regular shifts, are composed of the chief, a radioman, a policewoman, a juvenile officer and three

by DAVE PALERMO

A few years ago, little Walter "Buddy" Skowron could climb a rope without using ht., hands.

"I used to play with kids older than me because I was stronger than kids my age," the 14-year-old said. "I used to climb houses because the trees were too

Buddy said it was so long ago he could hardly remember.

Today Buddy doesn't go in much for tree or house climbing. He spends most of his day at his Mount Prospect home, 216 S. Elmhurst Road, reading "scary" mystery stories, watching television, and helping his mother do housework.

Plagued with a kidney problem since he was 5-years-old, Buddy underwent surgery about a year ago to have both of them

WHAT KEEPS BUDDY alive today is an artificial kidney, a quart tank which looks like a glorified washing machine and actually "washes" Buddy's blood. Five or six hours a day, three times a week Buddy goes through a painful process called "Dialysis" in which he lies by the machine with two lengths of synthetic tubing inserted into his arms. One tube carries this blood to the machine and the other returns "cleansed" blood back into his system.

A small boy with fine, dry hair and a sallow complexion which camouflages his freckles, Buddy is awaiting a donor to give him a kidney and enable him to live a normal life once again.

But a normal life for Buddy may never be, for although a new kidney would relieve his suffering, it won't restore his hearing which was lost threee weeks after the operation.

SITTING ON THE carpeted living room fluor of Mrs. Arline Braun, 909 Elmdale Road, Glenview, Buddy was surrounded by boxes of Betty Crocker coupons last

The coupons are part of a project undertaken by the Des Plaines Valley chapter of the National Campers and Hikers Association in cooperation with the Kidney Foundation of Illinois. Mrs Braun, chairman of the local chapter hopes to collect 600,000 coupons, valued at a half-cent each. If collected, the Betty

Crocker Co. will pay the sponsoring group

If successful the program would get a kidney detection program started in Illinois. The total sum of $3,000 would provide test material for 7,500 people.

BUDDY, WHO FULLY realizes the program is too late to help him, has a childlike hope that others will not have to suffer as he has. He enthusiastically makes radio and television appearances in an effort to draw attention to the project.

Tired from a lack of blood and scheduled to go through dialysis that evening, Buddy sits on a sofa which dwarfs his size in the Braun home.

He answered questions written on a small pad of paper mechanically - as if he'd been answering the identical questions all his life.

"I would like to have a gurl friend," he said. "All the other guys at school have a girl friend and they talk about them all the time. What do I do but sit and listen watch. I've never had a firl friend so I don't know if I like girls or not."

Except for the three days a week Buddy goes to Demoster Junior High School, his days are a continually dreary routine. But he hates nights the most.

"THINGS BOTHER ME like my arms and legs and my back," he said, trying not to express the anguish. "They itch. When morning comes everything goes away and I can sleep.

"I don't like the hospitals. But they're there to help and there's nothing to do about if if you want to get well. I don't like the shots though.'

Undoubtedly, it's a kidney which Buddy wants most for Christmas. While just about everyone in the Skowron family volunteered to be a donor, none of them qualifted. A donor must possess skin tissue compatible with Buddy's as well as have the same blood type.

Mrs. Forence Skowron, Buddy's mother, said the wait for a donor is continuous. "Anytime that phone rings it could be it,"

FROM THE TIME Buddy contacted the disease to the day of the operation, Mrs. Skowron recalled that the home was like a "time bomb." Buddy's health deteriorated gradually until a year ago Thanksgiving Day when his kidneys totally stopped functioning and he was rushed to a hospital where they were removed. He lost his hearing as a result of medi-

Christine, 3, and Sylvia Arenas, 2, died when fire swept through the room in which the family of seven Spanish Americans was sleeping.
Another child, Mary Ann, 5, a kindergarten student at Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village, was in very critical condition Sunday morning at the burn unit of Cook County Hospital in Chicago. She had burns over 90 per cent of her body.

THE PARENTS, Juan, 29, and his wife, Sulma Arenas, 20, were treated and released Saturday for smoke inhalation, cuts, and minor burns, from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village. They were credited with saving the lives of two of their children, Irene, 1, and Michelle, 4, by carrying them out of the burning building. The children were treated and released Saturday.

They escaped through a front entrance of the building after the mother had attempted but failed to break through a window sealed with wire screening.

Most seriously injured was firefighter burns. He has been a fireman less than six

Under a sparkling sky as blue as a Christmas ornament, Arlington Heights welcomed the holiday season Saturday.

Streamers and floats and a thousand bounding feet wound their way through the streets of town in the second annual Chamber of Commerce holiday parade.

Drawing on virtually every civic organization in the Northwest suburbs, the hourlong march brought local residents to the curb of the parade route to watch and anplaud and cheer the coming of the holi-

Although the emphasis was on local particlpation Saturday, the Medinah Temple and Northwest Shrine club units stole some of the show. The Black Horse Troop, the Medinah Chanters and especially the Shrine Genies on their flying carpets got applause up and down the parade route.

PREPARATIONS FOR the parade have been going on for months and even through the night of the day before the parade. Early Saturday morning, the handlers of Dr. D. O. Little's circus of huge balloons began filling the elephants and other animals with air.

At the marshalling area near Arlington Park race track, the combined marching units and bands met under streamers of red and gold. The kids were anxious to march to the tunes of a hundred blaring trumpets. At the reviewing stand near Campbell and Highland, a platform full of dignitaries waited in the cold. The parade got

cold one minute longer. But when the lead units arrived, nobody left the street. Nobody can leave a parade once the drums start beating and flags are broken arms and legs. In a separate building nearby, men who no longer need a hospital bed are placed, at least temporarily, during their rehabilitation. These are men who aren't ready yet to go back to active duty, but no longer need a doctor's supervision or intensive medical care. At least not on a daily basis. They are undergoing physical therapy which hopefully will right most of the damage they suffered in the war.

Probably the best show of the day was put on in front of the reviewing stand. Each unit paused for a moment, wheeled or saluted and gave the judges and dignitaries a wave. The Medinah Black Horse Troop formed a line in front of the stand and lowered their lances as if ready to charge. The crowd applauded nervously.

THEY HOBBLE FROM place to place on crutches, canes and metal leg braces. Or they have their arm in a cast, held by a sling. They are scarred and broken, but nothing but time. Time that will heal them almost as good as new. For others, the rehabilitation road isn't time.

They have lost an eye, a leg, an arm. Or perhaps one or more of each. They are deformed. And they will be that way the rest of their lives. Ws one of the things they have to learn to accept. And sometimes it isn't so easy.

They have lost arms and legs that will not grow back, the way they do on a frog. They have to be fitted for wooden limbs and learn to use them the best they can. Disabled vets, they call them. And what a row they hoe.

BUT THEY HAVE A sense of humor. They can laugh at themselves and the world. And sometimes this is what keeps them going. Keeps them afloat in a world where everyone elso has two of every-Breaks up my day." The fear, or most of it, is gone from their young faces. But if you look close, you can still see it, just a nightmare beneath the surface,

It's hard for them to believe they're home. And even harder to believe they're safe. No more mortar attacks. No more fighting. For them the war is over,

But they're not used to comfort. They're used to sleeping in wet clothes on a rice paddy dyke. They're used to fighting time, red ants and leeches. Living in a jungle instead of a bedroom. And listening to the nightly lullaby of a grunting 105mm howitzer all night instead of Chicago rock music and late TV.

One hospital spokesman said, "We once had an Air Force pilot who lost his leg in an accident over there. And the military kept him. He wanted to remain in, even though he was an amputee.

"After he got fitted for a wooden leg and was rehabilitated, he was back in the skies flying again.
